Nobody Afraid in S. F. Poison Gas Comes Back. Special Laws for Radicals. A New Kind of Blue.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.

THIS IS the city that everybody in the world knows, has heard about and thought about. It is the city toward which the gold seekers rushed in the middle of the last century, the city of bonanza kings, of gold rolling down from the hills and streams, the city toward which the first great railroad across the continent came creeping.

MEN THAT run San Francisco and ARE San Francisco, are near descendants of those old pioneers and they are still pioneers of the Pacific Ocean, extending the territory and influence of this country to Asia, the islands of the Pacific and all the western coast of North and South America.

MEN THAT run this city are used to hardship and to overcoming troubles. Their fathers were gold miners, rich in dreams one day. Next day the mine was not so good. A week later perhaps they were richer than they ever dreamed of being.

They got used to ups and downs. They have been through fire and earthquake, and both improved the city. They are not afraid of anything in particular, nor of things in general. They have their share of the depression like the rest of the world, but it does not DEPRESS THEM. They are too busy thinking about the opportunities that the depression itself presents to men able to see them and with courage to seize them. San Francisco is a cheerful sign. Come here to get rid of gloom.

CHINA CONTINUES to endure the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. If only Japan attacked as she would have done formerly with real slings and arrows, China could stand it and perhaps conquer. But modern Japan uses airplanes, exploding bombs, armored tanks that grunt and roar, plowing their way through Chinese regiments, spitting fire and bullets as they go.

And to make it worse London refuses to ship arms to either Japan or China. This is hard on China, and she protests.

THE JAPANESE, who look ahead in this fighting world wisely, and think in terms of fighting, are prepared. They have long had their fighting machinery bought and ready.

It is said also that they have carefully and secretly hidden a big supply of gold. Poor China is like one of the foolish virgins that had lamps but no oil. She has population but nothing modern for the population to fight with.

HER SOLDIERS, as the great British general, "Chinese" Gordon, said, are among the bravest in the world, absolutely reliable, ready to face machine guns, bayonets, anything.

But she lacks fighting machines, and England, supposedly to protect China, puts an embargo on war supplies and refuses to ship them goods. They can still buy fighting planes here, and have ordered many of them, but a little late.

TO MAKE China's situation more desperate, according to Gen. Tang Yu-Lin, governor of Jehol, the Japanese are dropping "poison gas bombs from airplanes."

A few days before the Chinese had been accused of using poison gas, against Japan.

Our "high moral western civilization" need not criticize this. It is not long since the Allies, with horror, were accusing Germany of using poison gas, and then using it themselves most industriously.

YOU WOULD have said that in the long run 60 million Japanese would never conquer 400 million Chinese and make them stay conquered.

But with airplanes and armored tanks, plus POISON GAS, war changes.

There is one gas that burns flesh wherever it touches, another that causes blindness and fearful pains without causing death, another most deadly, that, dropped in one spot, kills everybody within a mile in all directions.

Even 400 millions of human beings might be eliminated in a war of that kind, or brought to helpless submission.

A few foxes could kill a million geese or lambs.

ON THE OTHER hand a few desperate men in airplanes with the right kind of gas and explosives could avenge their country. It would be hard to keep them from flying within bomb-dropping distance of government offices and imperial palaces.

The wisest thing would be for the world to keep the peace and act justly. But it is useless to talk about this in the jungle that we call "civilization," eastern and western. We did not keep the peace and have no right to advise or criticize our eastern brethren.

CONDITIONS IN Germany would be called "civil war" but for the sanction of Von Hindenburg, whom Germany trusts.

Hitler for the time, possesses one Mussolini characteristic, having in his hands almost absolute power. Germany, methodical, has formulated rules for the suppression of extreme radicalism.

You can go to jail for ten years if you spread false news concerning government affairs or divulge government secrets.

For urging workers to strike you go to jail for three years. The penalty for revealing military secrets is death and for

SENATOR WALSH DIES ON TRAIN

KLINE RIGHT TO HOLD JOB DISPUTED

Park Seeks to Balk Delay in Appeal Of Mayor

The legality of official acts of Mayor Charles H. Kline were questioned seriously in legal quarters today as District Attorney Andrew T. Park moved to speed action on Kline's appeal from his six months' jail sentence and $5,000 fine.

Park asked the Pennsylvania Supreme Court to remit the appeal to the Superior Court, where it could be argued next month. The appeal was filed by the Mayor's counsel with the Supreme Court, and if it remained on the regular Supreme Court calendar, it would not be argued until October.

ACTS IN JEOPARDY

Attorneys said if Kline remains in office and his conviction of misdemeanor in office ultimately is upheld, every act he performs will be illegal.

An opinion from City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt on this phase of the case was being awaited while warrants for the city payroll and purchases were held up. Controller James P. Kerr announced his office would not issue the warrants, which must bear the Mayor's signature, until he receives the City Law Department's ruling.

District Attorney Park averred the question of right to public office was not involved, as he asked Supreme Court to remit Kline's appeal to Superior Court, and therefore the Supreme Court does not have jurisdiction, he contends.

Park's motion concluded:

"Affiant respectfully represents that the penalty of removal from office is collateral to the conviction of the appellant on the charge of misdemeanor and the case does not involve the right to public office any more than it would if any public officer had been convicted of any heinous crime to which removal from office would also apply."

The state Constitution provides officials guilty misbehavior in office are removed automatically, and it was said that, once sentence is pronounced, as in the Mayor's case, there is grave doubt as to whether the official sentenced still legally holds office.

Article 6, Section 4, of the Constitution, on which this opinion was based reads:

"All officers shall hold their offices on condition that they behave themselves well while in office, and shall be removed on conviction of misbehavior in office or of an infamous crime."

APPEAL FILED

Attorneys Charles B. Prichard and Edward G. Coll, of counsel for the Mayor, filed notice of appeal in the office of the prothonotary of the Supreme Court late yesterday, a few hours after the Mayor was sentenced at Butler. It was said the appeal to the Supreme Court rather than the Superior Court was based on an act of 1816 stating the Supreme Court has jurisdiction only in cases involving the right to office. The Mayor's attorneys have as advisory counsel, Robert Von Moschzisker, former chief justice of the state Supreme Court.

Solicitor Waldschmidt said he will not give an opinion on the Mayor's status until he has made a careful study, and that he probably will call other solicitors of his department into conference.

Controller Kerr has said he expected the question would be settled early today. He said Kline's authority to sign warrants had been questioned from several sources. He declared:

"Owing to the legal complications involved in the trial of the Mayor, the Controller's Department has decided to withhold the issuance of all warrants until we get an opinion from the City Law Department as to our responsibility."

Waldschmidt said:

"I would not give an opinion on the Mayor's authority without proper study."

Kidnapers Paid

CHARLES BOETTCHER II

Mr. Boettcher, the young, wealthy Denver broker, free today after imprisonment by kidnapers since February 12. His millionaire father paid $60,000.

MONACA CLUB SUED FOR RENT

The Monaca Club was "on the block" today.

A landlord's warrant was posted on those same thick doors which the state police pushed through more than a month ago. The notice was aimed at that admittedly anonymous individual, "Howard Johnston," and taken out by the Oakland Real Estate Company in the name of Louis Schwartz.

The notice proclaims that $300 is still owed on last October's rent and that the total rent due on the lease to May, 1934, is $7,500.

Constable Henry C. Cohn's name is attached to the warrant. Among the club's properties listed for sale is a dumb waiter.

Tom Dolan, indicted Tuesday as the third of the alleged owners of the Oakland drinking and gambling club, was expected to post a $3,000 bond today. The other two, Tom Coyne, brother of Senator James J. Coyne, and Tom (Goose) Goslin, furnished bonds yesterday. Dolan is an ex-pugilist and election official in the Fourth Ward.

BOETTCHER FREED FOR $60,000

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
International News Service.

DENVER, March 2.— Held captive by abductors for 404 hours, Charles Boettcher, II., wealthy Denver broker, 31, was safe in his palatial home today, after payment by his millionaire father of a $60,000 ransom.

Meanwhile, a gun battle between Weld County police and two men believed to be fleeing kidnapers, was staged on the highway north of Greeley, Col.

It was the second futile attempt during the night to capture an automobile and its two occupants.

50-MILE CHASE

Shortly after 4 a. m. officers guarding the Greeley-Cheyenne Highway saw the suspected car speeding along the highway. Orders to stop were ignored and the officers opened fire, riddling the machine with bullets from rifles. The car was pursued more than 50 miles to Cheyenne, Wyo., where it escaped.

Late last night Deputy Sheriff Charles Williams, of Adams County, opened fire on what is believed to have been the same car at a point near Brighton, about midway between Greeley and Denver. Williams reported he and two under-sheriffs shot at the machine but were unable to overtake it.

Boettcher's release came as swiftly and dramatically as did his sensational abduction shortly before midnight on Sunday, February 12.

He was wan and tired-looking when he arrived at his home two hours after being freed. His eyes were red and swollen from almost constant wearing of bandages and adhesive tape. He declared, however, that he had not been mistreated by his captors. Except for loss of sleep and worry through the 17-day ordeal of blindfolded imprisonment, his physical condi-

DEFENDERS OF JEHOL FLEEING

Chinese Evacuating City as Japs Close In

International News Service.

CHINCHOW, March 2.—Evacuation of Jehol City began today as the Japanese army of occupation moved relentlessly forward to its goal in Jehol province.

Japanese scouting planes, vanguard of the advancing army, flew over the ancient summer capital of the Manchu emperors.

The airmen reported back to base headquarters that thousands of Chinese soldiers and residents were fleeing from the city, heading southward toward the Great Wall.

With the Chinese defense lines shattered, Japanese occupation of Jehol City apparently is only as far distant as the time required to move the invading armies across the snow-blocked countryside.

Collapse of the Chinese defenses was attributed to the defection of Gen. Sun Tien-Ying, leader of the Chinese forces at Chihfeng.

Gen. Sun and his entire force of 200,000 regulars and irregulars went over to the Manchukuo side, acknowledging allegiance to Japan's puppet state in Manchuria.

NICOLA GUILTY IN TAX FRAUD

A federal jury today convicted F. F. Nicola, real operator, of evading his 1928 income tax of $26,394. Counsel for the defendant announced a motion for a new trial would be made within four days.

The jury returned its verdict in court at 1:30 p. m., after wrestling with the case since 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Twice this morning the jury asked for instructions from Judge F. P. Schoonmaker and reached its verdict during the noon recess.

Nicola was charged with transfering to the Point Improvement Company a voucher for $101,250 received as a commission from the Miller Printing Machinery Company for sale of patents owned by the latter company. He owns the controlling interest in both concerns. The government contended the money should have been applied to his personal income.

At the conclusion of testimony Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania; Arthur E. Braun and Taylor Allderdice appeared as character witnesses for the defendant.

The closing addresses were made by Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, for the defense, and First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, for the government.

Carnegie - P.R.R. Feud Related

How Andrew Carnegie convicted the Pennsylvania Railroad of giving secret rebates to his Cleveland and Chicago competitors, and thereby was enabled to reach an advantageous rate agreement with the Pennsylvania, is set forth in today's installment of Burton J. Hendrick's biography of the steelmaster. It will be found on the first page of the second section.

George McCague was admitted into partnership in the Carnegie Steel Company as a reward for obtaining the incriminating evidence.

Mr. Hendrick also tells of the building of the Pittsburgh, Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad, which relieved Carnegie of dependence on the Pennsylvania and saved the steel business for Pittsburgh.

CERMAK GIVEN TRANSFUSION

MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—A second blood transfusion was made today for Mayor Anton Cermak.

Hospital authorities said this afternoon a pint of blood was pumped into Cermak's veins as he lay sleeping in the oxygen room.

One of his physicians said Mayor Cermak's heart stood the transfusion well and that it was decided upon "just as a matter of giving him that much more strength," and not because of any sudden change for the worse in Cermak's condition.

Oxygen pumped into the roomy chamber in which the Chicago Mayor's bed rests has "somewhat alleviated" Cermak's difficulty in breathing, the specialists announced. Although the pneumonia in his right lung is practically cleared up, Dr. J. W. Snyder called attention to the continued presence of colitis.

Mrs. Gill's Condition Still Held Critical

MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—The condition of Mrs. Joe H. Gill, Miami society woman wounded by one of Giuseppe Zangara's bullets when he attempted to assassinate President-elect Roosevelt, still is critical, Dr. T. W. Hutson said today.

Japan Seizes Ship With U. S. Trucks

F. R. PLANNING BIG U. S. CUT

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—Speaker Garner today told newspapermen that advisors of President-elect Roosevelt had completed an economy program to shave from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 off of government costs.

The program was drafted by Representative Douglas, of Arizona, President-elect Roosevelt's choice for director of the budget, and Swagar Sherley, a close associate.

Garner said that under the Treasury-Postoffice Department supply bill's provisions giving Mr. Roosevelt power to reorganize the government, most of the economies could be effected by executive orders. He said:

"If Congress gives Mr. Roosevelt authority to reduce salaries and cut veterans' compensation, between $700,000,000 and $800,000,000 will be saved and the country will approve it."

CUBAN BRIDE SUFFERS HYSTERIA

Montanan Stricken on Way Home From Honeymoon

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., March 2.—(AP.)—Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, speeding northward with his Cuban bride of a week to become Attorney General in the Roosevelt cabinet, died of a heart attack at 7:10 a. m. today aboard an Atlantic Coast Line train near Wilson, 18 miles from here.

The body was brought to Rocky Mount to be prepared for burial in the same clothes in which the Senator was married in Havana Saturday to Senora Nives Perez Chaumont de Truffin. It will be taken to Washington on an Atlantic Coast Line train which leaves here at 2:55 p. m., and arrives in the Capitol at 10:45 tonight.

STAGGERS FROM BERTH

The 73-year-old, gray-haired Montanan got up from his berth in the drawing room and staggered to his wife's berth as the train was traveling between Contentnea and Wilson, a distance of six miles.

Mrs. Walsh, alarmed and handicaped by her inability to speak fluent English, summoned her Cuban maid, who occupied a berth in the same car. The maid sent a porter racing the length of seven cars to tell Herbert Weatherspee, conductor.

The conductor felt the Senator's weakening pulse and sent for a physician, Dr. Richard J. Costello, of Cambridge, Mass., who was traveling on the train, but before the physician arrived, Senator Walsh died. Weatherspee said:

"The Senator died while I held him hand. Mrs. Walsh was hysterical. Dr. Costello was located on the train, but he arrived after the Senator died."

At Wilson, a nurse and Dr. M. A. Pittman boarded the train to attend Mrs. Walsh, who was in a highly nervous state.

HEART ATTACK BLAMED

Dr. Pittman said the Senator was dead when he arrived and that, in his opinion, he had died of a sudden heart attack.

He was placed in charge by Mrs. Walsh, who told the physician to have the Senator's body removed

Snowfall, Icy Streets Imperil Traffic

An icy film coated most of Pittsburgh streets early today as snow flurries continued intermittently. Both vehicular and foot traffic in residential sections of the city was dangerous.

At midnight motorists, homeward-bound from theaters and clubs, using Bigelow boulevard and the Boulevard of the Allies, found both thoroughfares a glare of ice and experienced difficulty in negotiating the grades without chains

A similar situation greeted them on the less-traveled residential streets. No major accidents were reported.

Boy Grilled in Mailing Of F. R. Bomb Defiant

WATERTOWN, N. Y., March 2.—(INS.)—A note was enclosed in the infernal machine sent by mail to President-elect Roosevelt in Washington a week ago last Sunday, it was disclosed today by Chief of Police Edward J. Singleton. The note read:

"I am a friend of Zangara and I want to take up the work that he failed to do.

"I kill all Presidents, Governors and millionaires. I hate policemen and kill all your officers who I see on streets at midnight. I am one who killed Kansas City millionaire so I kill police."

The note was signed:

"Paul Antonili of Italy."

The "Zangara" reference in the note was to Guiseppe Zangara, unemployed bricklayer, of Miami, who was sentenced to 80 years in prison for his unsuccessful attempt on the President-elect in the Florida city.

A sample of the boy's handwriting was being checked with the handwriting in the note. The police chief said:

"He is a hard little fellow. Although he has been questioned several times we are unable to break him down. He is one of a group of boys whom we have suspected for some time in connection with the case."

TREATED WELL BY STRANGE CAPTORS

International News Service.

DENVER, March 2. — His eyes blindfolded almost continuously, Charles Boettcher II was kept under a constant guard by two men during the 17 days he was held captive by kidnapers, the young broker related today. The following story of his experiences was released by Chief of Police A. T. Clark:

"The abductors blindfolded me within half a block after we left my home on the night of the kidnaping.

"'Keep your mouth shut and we won't hurt you,' they told me.

"There were only two men in the car, but later, at my place of imprisonment, a third man appeared occasionally.

"We drove all that night and all the next day. I don't know in what direction and I cannot tell whether we went into mountainous or flat country.

"It was late in the evening when we arrived at a house, of which I can give no description. I was placed in a room, which I think was in a basement, because the air and floor seemed to be damp and there was a musty smell.

AVOIDED TOWNS

"On the trip to the house, the kidnapers drove mostly on country roads and avoided towns, I believe.

"We had only sandwiches to eat when we drove. These the men had in the car.

"When the men wanted to stop for gas, one would remain in the car and guard me, while the other walked to a filling station.

"I have no impression of the house in which I was. Even in the short intervals in which the blinds were taken from my eyes, I was not permitted to look at my captors. They stood behind me.

"One of the two men always stood guard over me. They spoke good English and I am certain they were Americans.

"They were agreeable and I did not suffer any abuse.

"They cooked meals regularly for me, and I was free to eat at any time.

"Tuesday night the men put me in their automobile, and we started on the trip which resulted in my release here Wednesday night.

DRIVE BACK HOME

"We drove all night and day. At about 7 p. m. we drove to Denver and I was put out of the car on Gaylord street, I believe, between East Thirty-fourth and East Thirty-fifth avenues.

"They told me to stay where I was until I had counted up to 150. Then they said I could walk around the block and I would find a drug store. 'You can call your folks from there,' they said.

"They drove away, and I walked to the drug store and called my father.

"When I wrote the letters during my captivity the kidnapers removed the bandages from my eyes and placed me before a table, facing a corner of the room.

"I wrote several letters under direction of the captors.

"The two men never threatened me during my imprisonment, except for their warnings to 'do as you are told and you won't get hurt.'"

PAROLE FREES [illegible] BOETTCHER

Claude K. Boettcher, father of the kidnap victim, admitted payment of the ransom, but refused to give any details. It was learned from unimpeachable sources by International News Service that the $[illegible]00 was tossed out of an automobile near a culvert 10 miles east of Denver by an emissary of the family less than half an hour before the heir to millions was let out of an automobile in East Denver.

Young Boettcher, after a trip which he estimated began Tuesday night, was let out of a car on the outskirts of Denver yesterday evening. After removing the adhesive tape from his eyes he found a drug store telephone and called his father, who notified police.

Henry van Schaack, wealthy banker, and the elder Boettcher immediately drove to the drug store and rushed Charles to the home of S. W. Sinsheimer, a family friend.

DRAMATIC REUNION

The meeting between Boettcher and his beautiful, blonde wife, Mrs. Anna Lou Boettcher, was dramatic. Mrs. Boettcher, soon to become a mother for the second time, ran to meet him and they threw their arms about each other, with happy cries and broken words of affection.

Before being brought to his own home, young Boettcher told his story of the abduction to Chief of Police A. T. Clark.

Meanwhile police, under direction of Crief Clark, did not pause in their search for the kidnapers. Clark said, however, that a talk with young Boettcher was barren of clews to aid detectives in the manhunt.

Despite reports of a serious breach between police and Claude K. Boettcher, it was plain that the family was working in harmony with Chief Clark in the kidnap search. An hour before Boettcher was released last night, five carloads of heavily armed police were sent out to guard all highways leading in and out of the city. It was evident the family had notified police that Boettcher was to be released.

Armed with shotguns, rifles, tear gas bombs and pistols, officers spread in every direction, but failed in their attempt to intercept the kidnap car.

Believing the cigaret was extinguished, Sparks, 21, placed it in his pocket while driving a motor car. His clothes caught fire. He released the steering wheel to fight the fire and the car overturned. A sheriff who investigated said Sparks confessed taking both the car and 75 cents in a holdup.

PAROLE FREES DOOMED MAN

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 2.—(AP.)—A parole from Gov. William G. Conley today freed Clyde Beale, 33-year-old farmer, who twice has been in the death cell, under sentence to be hanged.

The woman and her husband had attended a party at the home of Levi Lane, Beale's half-brother, near Vulcan, one Sunday night in May, 1926. Beale was staying at the house. Mrs. Purdue left about 9 o'clock to go home without her husband. Her body was found four days later in the Tug River, about four miles downstream.

Beale and Lane were arrested and charged with killing Mrs. Purdue. The former was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. Lane was acquitted after two trials.

Since 1922 he had been the United States marshal, succeeding John F. Short, of Clearfield, who died some weeks ago. HUGE PROFITS IN MERGER BARED

Senate Stock Probe Told of 'Rakeoff' on Farm Equipment

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A story of vast paper profits reaped from a merger of farm machinery manufacturing companies effected by the National City Company was placed in the Senate stock market investigation record today.

Stanley A. Russell, vice president of the City Company, investment affiliate of the National City Bank, told how his firm in 1929 brought together the farm machinery concerns and acquired stock which netted paper profits of $1,287,075 the first day the stock of the company resulting from the merger was sold to the public.

The companies merged were the Oliver Chilled Plow Works, of South Bend, Ind.; the Nichols & Sheppard Company, of Battle Creek, Mich., and the Hart, Parr Company, of Charles City, Ia. Under National City guidance the concerns were fused into the Oliver Farm Equipment Company with an issuance of 300,000 shares of prior preferred stock, 750,000 shares of convertible and 2,000,000 shares of common stock, Russell told the committee.

Stock which cost the firm $10 a share was marketed to the public at four and one-half times that figure a week later, Russell said.

The committee also was told that Mason B. Starring, a director of the Nichols & Shepperd Company, had a secret interest in the profits made by the National City Company.

HOLIDAY URGED ON CITY BONDS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit, today renewed before the Senate Judiciary Committee his plea for prompt passage of the McLeod-Norris municipal bond moratorium bill.

In the main, his appeal to the committee paralleled the plea he laid yesterday before the House Judiciary Committee in advocating immediate enactment of the measure, which provides for a two-year moratorium on obligations of cities of 50,000 and up, with extension provisions up to 10 years. He told the committee:

"What we want to do is to keep our government running. None of the larger cities can keep their governments running in the next six months or two years and pay on their bonds and obligations."

RAINEY SLATED AS SPEAKER

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(INS.)—Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, 73-year-old, white-haired veteran of the House, was virtually assured today of election as Speaker to succeed John N. Garner, the Vice President-elect.

As the time neared for balloting for speakership in the secret Democratic caucus, it appeared that Rainey would win the Speakership and Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, would be named floor leader.

Representative Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama, supporting Representative John McDuffie, of that state for Speaker, charged a trade had been made between Rainey and Byrns.

Bankhead said:

"I have no doubt it is true that Byrns will withdraw as Speaker and throw his strength to Rainey."

Byrns denied he has quit the race and branded such reports as propaganda.

SCREEN STARS HURT IN CRASH

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 2—(INS.)—Mae Clarke, pretty screen actress, and Phillips Holmes, also a motion picture star, were injured seriously in an automobile accident when Holmes' car struck a parked car near Miss Clarke's Westwood home yesterday.

Miss Clarke was thrown forward in her seat and is believed to have broken her jaw, friends said. Holmes was cut above the eye when his head bumped against the steering wheel.

Dense fog and bright lights of an approaching car caused Holmes, who was driving Miss Clarke to her home, to steer his car to the right on the narrow road and he did not see the parked car.

7 MORE STATES BEGIN BANK HOLIDAYS

Week-End 'Breathing Spell' Ordered by Governors

Associated Press.

California, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, Oregon and Arizona today poined the states in which there are limitations on withdrawals of deposits from banks.

Gov. B. B. Moeur declared a three-day banking holiday in Arizona. Gov. Fred B. Bolzer ordered four days' "breathing spell" in Nevada.

The proclamation of Gov. Rolph at San Francisco, makes mandatory the closing of California banks for a three-day period ending Saturday. The three-day holiday called by Gov. Murray in Oklahoma for the same period also is mandatory.

The proclamation of Gov. Allen, of Louisiana, provides for the cessation until the end of the week of "all public business including banks and other public enterprises." In Mississippi the decree of the State Banking Commissioner called only for the limitation of withdrawals.

BUSINESS CONTINUES

In Alabama the holiday w[illegible] began today is effective u[illegible] March 10, but is not mandat[illegible] Banks in many parts of the s[illegible] indicated business would go on[illegible] usual.

Many Tennessee banks di[illegible] garded the Governor's call for six-day holiday beginning yeste[illegible] day, and still others which we[illegible] closed yesterday announced the[illegible] would open today.

Kentucky banks, operating under a holiday proclamation, went on a restricted withdrawal basis today, the limit being 5 per cent. The holiday is to end after Saturday.

In Michigan the holiday which began February 14, is still in force as the Fords, Senator Couzens and bankers continue efforts to reopen Detroit banks.

INDIANA SITUATION

The situation in Ohio was easing, with many bankers considering the possibility of raising the limit placed on withdrawals.

Nine states in which bank holidays exist by proclamation of governors or authorized state bank officials are: California, Oklahoma, Michigan, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky and Maryland.

All banks in West Virginia were instructed last night to limit withdrawals to 5 per cent of present deposits.

The instructions were contained in a general message to the banks by L. R. Charter, Jr., state banking commissioner, and approved by Gov. William Conley.

Eight state banks yesterday announced restrictions on withdrawals and in Philadelphia three national banks and one trust company availed themselves of the emergency authority. Three more Philadelphia banks restricted deposit withdrawals today.

Outlining the regulations under which the new privilege may be exercised, William D. Gordon, Secretary of Banking, said the plan is "universally conceded sound, constructive and in the best interests of the depositors of the commonwealth."

12 Hours in Mine Trap, Two Brothers Die

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., March 2.—Trapped 12 hours in the depths of a mine of the Harmon Creek Coal Company near here, David Crawford, 59, was found dead early today and his brother, Joshua A. Crawford, 45, so seriously injured he died shortly after 11 o'clock this morning in Washington (Pa.) Hospital.

The men were caught in a fall of slate which pinned the younger man to the floor of the mine. Nearby the body of his brother was found buried almost to the neck. Joshua said David lived several hours.

Their plight was discovered early today when a search was instituted for them by their wives. Joshua told Fire Chief B. L. Hughey, who directed the rescue, they had been imprisoned nearly all night.

Radicals are locked up, dozens at a time.

INTERESTING TO women: there is a new Roosevelt color. Everybody knows "Alice blue," named for Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt.

The new blue called "Eleanor blue" is named for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, soon to move into the White House. She is a niece of Theodore Roosevelt, daughter of his brother.

The public will have its first glimpse of "Eleanor blue" when Mrs. Roosevelt wears her new "crystelle" velvet gown during the inauguration ceremonies. At the inauguration ball she will wear a brocaded gown.

A CALIFORNIA lady, her husband very well known, attended the Fred Miller-Baby Arizmendi prize fight. Gentlemen in the gallery, dissatisfied with the prize fight decision, threw bottles of various kinds.

One struck the lady, knocked her unconscious. She is recovering. It may be necessary for ladies to abandon prize fights, since it is not probable that prize fighting crowds will reform their manners.

A WELL KNOWN man in this state, young, energetic, his money gone, committed suicide that his family might receive $100,000 insurance. He made a bad bargain with fate. It would have been better for his family had he lived, using his courage and sense of duty here, in this most interesting fight against depression.

The greatest opportunities that the world has ever seen will be offered to courage and wise investment before this depression ends.

DEATH OF WALSH NOT TO ALTER INAUGURAL PAGEANT

PLANS TOO FAR ADVANCED FOR CHANGE

Washington Astir as President-Elect Nears City

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—Although the death of Senator Walsh had lent a sobering influence, arrangements for the March 4 ceremonies and all of their colorful settings today went ahead unchecked.

Officials said plans had gone too far for changes to be made at this date and Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the committee in charge, said that there would be no shift unless ordered by President-elect Roosevelt.

From Grayson at the same time there came a statement expressing distress at the death of the attorney-general designate.

Washingtonians recalled that at the time Warren G. Harding was inaugurated, the body of Speaker Champ Clark lay in state at his hotel here.

Regular and special trains, automobiles and airplanes brought in more and more visitors. Distinguished men bound on serious duties were among them. Many were hopeful of jobs, the great majority were just those who either have to parade or view a parade whenever big events are set.

FATHER UNCERTAIN

The weather was uncertain, but threatening to get worse by the end of the week.

The approach of President-elect Roosevelt, due in late afternoon, spurred Congress and the future Cabinet members already here, to clear the decks fast. They, too, however, were caught in edges of social welcomes and farefells.

Speaker Garner had a rendezvous at the station with his son, Tully, with wife and daughter, coming from Texas. Frances Perkins was invited to a luncheon given in her honor by feminist leaders.

New and old Democratic members of the House of Representatives were deep in conferences and trades over the engrossing topic of a new Speaker to be chosen in party caucus tonight. Good committee assignments and the utmost possible voice in the leadership were the objectives of many, notably the big group of newcomers, already banded together to exert their influence.

The leaders of Tammany and other big city blocs were on hand to advise their congressional delegations. The New Yorkers had taken possession of a whole hotel floor, with several thousands of followers due here Saturday.

GOVERNOR FLYING

Among the Governors looked for today was Theodore Green, of Rhode Island, accompanied by his military staff, all traveling by air. Among the distinguished ones already here was Mrs. John E. King, of Texas, to represent Gov. Miriam Ferguson at the inauguration.

Another center of activity was the White House, almost eclipsed now by the huge reviewing stands built all along its Pennsylvania avenue front. There it was a day of farewells, devoted followers and even political enemies of Herbert Hoover seeking opportunity to wish him well in retirement from official life.

The handshakes had to be squeezed in between times devoted to the last bills being sent down from Congress for signature or veto.

The city's hotel keepers were rejoicing. Their houses were sold out and thousands of visitors were being quartered in private homes.

THE GRAND MARCH... THE PLANS FOR INAUGURAL PARADE

An artist's sketch of the plans for the great parade through Washington for the inauguration of a new President. Thousands, identified in the drawing, will take part in the long, gala parade.

2,000 WILL GO FROM HERE TO INAUGURAL

Many Plan to March In Parade, Others To Attend Ball

More than 2,000 persons from the Pittsburgh district will pack their bags and head for Washington tomorrow, joining with approximately 200,000 others winding across the country by motor, plane and train, to witness Saturday's inaugural ceremonies.

Social debutantes, school teachers, students, military, civic and political groups—all will converge on the capital; some to march in the inaugural parade, others to dance at the charity ball Saturday night, and the majority simply to watch.

LARGEST PARTIES

The two largest groups to charter special cars are the official Allegheny County Democratic inaugural group and a party conducted by Father James R. Cox, the first numbering 250 and the latter 300 persons.

Thomas A. Dougherty is chairman of the Democratic group, assisted by Alex Reich, secretary; Mrs. J. Wood Clark, Leo A. Ivory and James P. Kirk. The party also will include James L. O'Toole, P. T. Fagan, B. B. McGinnis and Burgess William M. Turner, of Wilkinsburg. Five special cars have been chartered, three leaving at 2:15 p. m., Friday, and two at 11:10 p. m.

Father Cox announces his group will meet at the Pennsylvania Station at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow night and will leave on the 11:10 train. The purpose of the delegation, Father Cox explained, is:

"To show our sympathy with the new administration by taking an interest and upholding the hands of the President. Only by doing this can we get anywhere. I think we should stand by him and we'll get out of this depression."

BUGLERS TO GO

One of the few musical organizations from Western Pennsylvania to participate in the inaugural parade will be the Drum and Bugle Corps of Chateau Post No. 258, V. F. W., numbering 40 men. The corps will entrain tomorrow night under supervision of Louis Furlong, director.

Forty memberst of Trees Carlisle Post also will attend the inauguration in a body.

Fifty members of Islam Grotto will make the pilgrimage to

F. R. MOURNING FOR WALSH

NEW YORK, March 2.—(INS.)—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, shocked at the sudden death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who was to have been his attorney general, today expressed his deep grief over the loss of an old friend and valuable counsellor. He said:

"The death of Senator Walsh is a grievous loss not only to the whole country and the incoming administration in which he was to play so prominent and important a part, but in deep measure to myself personally.

"He was one of my oldest and most trusted friends and one on whose calm judgment I could always rely.

"While properly to fill his place in my cabinet will be difficult, to fill his place in the circle of my friends will be impossible."

This afternoon, the President-elect entrains for Washington with his wife and family—and a number of his closest political advisers—for the national caiptal. On Saturday, shortly after noon, he will take the reins of office over from President Herbert Hoover.

Garner Pays Honor To Walsh Memory

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(INS.)—Speaker John N. Garner, Vice President-elect, today paid this tribute to the late Senator Walsh:

"In the death of Senator Walsh the country has lost a brilliant statesman and an able lawyer. Few men have been closer to the hearts of the American people, and no man has been more conscientious and diligent in protecting the interest of the people as a whole. His death leaves a void that will be difficult to fill."

Walsh Inquiring About Cermak

SENATOR THOMAS J. WALSH AT MIAMI.....THE LAST NEWS PICTURE MADE OF HIM

from the train at Rocky Mount to be prepared for burial.

When the train reached here, the body was taken to the Bulluck funeral home and embalmed, preparatory to sending it on to Washington.

Mrs. Walsh was first taken to the Ricks Hotel by Dr. Pittman, who said she was "in a highly nervous state" and that she was showing "much emotionalism." A short while later she was removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Spruill. Spruill is a prominent Rocky Mount attorney and local counsel for the Atlantic Coast Line Railway.

WIFE CALMS

At the Spurill home, Mrs. Walsh "calmed down considerably," Dr. Pittman said, although she was still "highly nervous."

Dr. Pittman quoted Mrs. Walsh as saying Senator Walsh was ill when they left Daytona Beach and that his blood pressure there registered 200.

Weatherspee said Mrs. Walsh insisted her husband's trouble was not with his heart but that it was his stomach.

SUSPECTS STOMACH TROUBLE

Weatherspee added:

"When I asked her if the trouble was with the Senator's heart, she shook her head and placed her hands on her stomach. She said it was his stomach that made him ill."

Dr. Pittman said there was no way of determining immediately the exact cause of death but it was his opinion it was a sudden heart attack. He said only a few train officials, Mrs. Walsh and her maid were present in the drawing room when he boarded the train at Wilson after being called from a hospital there.

Senator Walsh was long an outstanding figure in the Senate and only last week flew to Havana to marry Senora Nives Perez Chaumont de Truffin, widow of a wealthy Havana business man. The marriage took place Saturday and the couple then proceeded on their honeymoon to the United States.

They spent several days in Florida and left Daytona Beach last night on their way to Washington.

WALSH'S DEATH STUNS CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—Shock and surprise was the reaction of the capital today at word of the death of Senator Walsh, of Montana in the midst of preparations for a brilliant inaugural that was to have brought him into the attorney generalship.

The Senate immediately adopted resolutions of regret and adjourned out of respect to Mr. Walsh. The House transacted little routine business and adjourned a short time later.

Numerous senators and other Washington officials gave expression to their grief and surprise at the sudden passing of the Montanan who had been a familiar figure in the capital for 20 years.

Aides to President Hoover said he was deeply moved by the news and immediately dispatched to Mrs. Walsh a message of condolence.

In the discussion that arose immediately of whom might be selected to fill the post in the Roosevelt cabinet which the death left open, the name of Arthur Mullen, of Nebraska, was outstanding.

Walsh's Sister Told Of Death at School

MILWAUKEE, March 2.—(INS.)—Miss Sarah C. Walsh, 63, a teacher in the Milwaukee public schools for 32 years, was called from her class in the Fratney Street School today to be informed of the death of her brother, United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana.

Probe Investigates Eighth District Vote

The vote in the Eighth District of the Fourth Ward was taken up today at the Muldowney-Felix hearing. Mrs. Anne Felix, defeated Democratic candidate, is contesting the election of Michael J. Muldowney, who is also a city councilman.

WALSH LOOKED ILL ON TRAIN

RICHMOND, Va., March 2.—(AP.)—Persons traveling on the train with Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who died while passing through North Carolina this morning, said on their arrival here that on yesterday they had noted and commented on the fact that Mr. Walsh did not look well.

Dr. R. J. Costello, of Cambridge, Mass., occupant of a berth next to the drawing room of Senator Walsh and his bride, said he was called in this morning just before 7 o'clock, and found the Senator already dead.

James J. Conley, also of Cambridge, traveling with Dr. Costello, said that he knew Senator Walsh slightly and when they boarded the train at Daytona yesterday afternoon he had made the comment that Senator Walsh looked 10 years older than he did at the Democratic convention in Chicago last summer.

Soon after Dr. Costello's arrival in the Walsh drawing room the Rev. Father Mortimer E. Twomey, pastor of the Gate of Heaven Church, South Boston, Mass., also a passenger on the train, entered and administered the rite of extreme unction.

LEGAL BATTLES LED WALSH TO POLITICS

Entered Public Life On Crest of Victory In Mine Conflict

HELENA, Mont., March 2.—(AP.)—A penetrating vision and the ability to utter his opinions in a clear, concise and convincing manner had enabled United States Senator Thomas Jefferson Walsh, of Montana, to reach national political heights, though he represented a state small in population, and new in history.

Turbulent legal battles were being fought in the mining industry when Walsh, at age of 31, came to Helena as a young attorney. For a quarter of a century the legal fights continued and out of the conflicts emerged Walsh, not only as an authority on mining law, but with attractive offers of retainers.

The desire for public service, however, had implanted itself in the mind of the young attorney and, in 1906, he launched upon a campaign for Congress.

The campaign was unsuccessful. So, also, was Walsh's bid, in 1910, for election to the United States Senate.

PRIMARY LAW ENACTED

By 1912, however, there had been enacted a primary law and, while election was still actually in the hands of the Assembly, its members were pledged to vote for the candidate for United States Senator nominated by the primary.

Walsh worked hard for election of members of the Legislature favorable to his candidacy, won the nomination in the primary and election by the Assembly, beginning a service that has been unbroken and which had been ratified three times with constantly increasing majorities.

Born in Two Rivers, Wis., of parents who had immigrated from Ireland, young Walsh received a common school education, taught school while he studied for admission to law school and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin legal department at 25. He immediately formed a partnership in Redfield, N. D., with his brother, Henry C. Walsh, and married Elinor C. McClements, of Chicago. Mrs. Walsh died in 1920.

One child, Genevieve, now Mrs. Emmett C. Gudger, of Newport, R. I., whose husband is a naval commander, was born to them.

In Congress, Senator Walsh became recognized as an authority on constitutional law. In 1923, he gained national recognition for his incisive attack on the oil scandals, as leader of the Senate special committee investigating the Teapot Dome leases.

WILSON SPOKESMAN

Upon election of President Wilson, Senator Walsh became the administration spokesman in the Senate, leading the battles for the Clayton anti-trust law, for the right of neutrals to purchase captured belligerent ships and for other war-time legislation. He was an active figure in the League of Nations debates, championed the federal trade act, and gave strong support to the child labor laws.

The following summer he was chosen chairman of one of the outstanding Democratic national conventions in history, when, in Madison Square Garden, the party's delegates fought long and vociferously over the Presidential nomination.

Throughout the turmoil, Senator Walsh maintained control of the gathering, presiding with a coolness and fairness that gained him complete confidence of all factions. He was nominated for Vice President, but declined.

Four years later he was a candidate for the presidential nomination, but withdrew in favor of Alfred E. Smith.

Last summer he again was chosen to preside over the Democratic national convention and his address on his election to the convention post was described as a masterful exposition of the party's principles.

Walsh's Daughter Saddened by News

NORFOLK, Va., March 2.—INS.—Joyous anticipation turned to sorrow here today as Mrs. G. E. Gudger, wife of a naval officer, and daughter of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, received word of her father's death at Wilson, N. C.

Capt. and Mrs. Gudger and their two small daughters had planned to visit Washington tomorrow to witness the inaugural ceremonies as guests of the Attorney General-designate. Instead they will leave today to meet the train carrying Senator Walsh's body to the capital.

Pinchot Tells Regret At Death of Walsh

HARRISBURG, March 2—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today expressed regret at the death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh. The Governor said:

"I am very sorry to hear of Walsh's death. His place as Attorney General in the Roosevelt Cabinet will be hard to fill."

Invalid Leader Goes to Inaugural

Death of Walsh Told By Train Conductor

By HERBERT WEATHERSBEE

As told to International News Service.

(Copyright, 1933, International News Service, Inc.)

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., March 2.—(INS.)—Senator Walsh died in my arms. His heart beat fluttered away feebly under my fingers and died away and I knew life had left him.

Dr. Costello came into the compartment, examined the Senator and shook his head. Mrs. Walsh, still clad in her negligee as she awakened, was hysterical. She kept sobbing a phrase over and over. It was in Spanish and I couldn't understand it.

George, the porter, came to me several cars away from the Senator's compartment at 6:45. His face was terrible. He said:

"Boss, something's wrong with with the Senator."

I hurried to the compartment. The Senator lay on his face on the floor in his night dress, crumpled up. Mrs. Walsh was standing there weeping.

His heart beat two or three times and I thought we were in time. Then it fluttered and stopped.

Bride Tells of Horror Of Finding Walsh Dead

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., March 2.—(INS.)—The Cuban bride of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, the former Senora Mina Maria Nieves de Truffin, whom he married in Havana last Saturday, today told Dr. M. A. Pittman how her husband died.

She said she found the Senator unconscious on the floor of their compartment when she awakened this morning. Dr. Pittman quoted Mrs. Walsh as follows:

"I awoke a little before 7 o'clock and looked for the Senator to say 'Buenos Dias,' but he wasn't there. I thought he had gone to the dressing room.

"I lay there a moment, resting, and then arose. I was horrified. My husband lay unconscious at my feet! I must have screamed for the porter came into the compartment hurriedly.

"I don't know what happened then. A lot of people came into the compartment. Someone they said was a Dr. Costello, and the conductor, said he was dead.

"Oh, it is too horrible."

Four years ago this band was the only Pennsylvania school musical organization to march in the Hoover inaugural parade.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials announced today that 130 "democrats," of Greensburg, will meet "democrats" of Greensburg will meet here tomorrow night to leave for the capital.

Although no compete figures are available on the number of individuals taking advantage of the special excursion rates to Washington, Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania officials agreed they will total close to 1,000.

COING TO WASHINGTON? HERE'S HOW!

DRIVING ROUTES TO CAPITAL

Two highway routes were recommended today by the touring bureau of the Pittsburgh Motor Club for motorists who expect to drive to Washington for the inauguration of President-elect Roosevelt Saturday.

The shortest and best route is by way of the Lincoln highway, U. S. 30, east through Greensburg, Bedford and to McConnellsburg, where a right turn is made to Route 16.

This road is followed through Mercersburg and to Greencastle, where a right turn is made to Route 11 to Hagerstown. Route 40, the National highway, is followed south to Frederick and Route 240 from that point to Washington. The distance over this route is 234 miles, with no detours.

An alternate route to the capital is by way of Route 31 from Pittsburgh to Uniontown, Route 40 southeast over the Allegheny Mountains past Cumberland and to Hancock, Md., where a right turn is made to Route 9. At Martinsburg Route 11 is met and followed to Winchester, Va., where a left turn is made to Route 50. At Fairfax a left turn is made to Route 211, which is followed into Washington.

The distance by this route is 284 miles from Pittsburgh and there probably will be less traffic over these roads, the Motor Club said.

Eastwood said he does not contemplate placing the statements before Supreme Court Justice Joseph L. Bodine at Trenton before next Tuesday.

MY BEST WAR STORY

By H. J. GALLAGHER,
Haysville, Pa.
(Headquarters Co., 325th I. A.)

According to my war diary, this happened October 10, 1918.

We were located about one mile north of Samogeneux, better known as Death Valley. At this particular place, shells fell frequently.

Our officers had a cow, which they looked after with great care. She was labeled, "For officers only." A German 77 caught Bossy somewhere between the head and tail, ending her career.

The next day, the mess kits contained stewed cow, or "slumgullion." I had received my "slum" and was certainly ready for it, thinking how good it would taste.

Just then another 77 came over and knocked my breakfast for a loop, scattering soup all over me and knocking my appetite with it. Among the boys was the brother of my cousin's wife. He reported me dead, thereby putting the first gray hairs in Dad's head.

That same day a French 75 blew up, killing two men and wounding four from our outfit.

All I had lost was the breakfast and my appetite.

(The foregoing story was a prize-winner in the "My Best War Story" contest being conducted by veterans of Allegheny County. True accounts of war experiences may be mailed by veterans, relatives and friends to the 'Best Story" Committee, Fulton Theater, Sixth street, Pittsburgh. They must not exceed 300 words. The winner each day will be awarded four tickets to the theater's showing of the war film, "The Big Drive.")

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 2.—In a pistol duel early today, George Delawder, 22, of Morefield, W. Va., was killed and Gilbert Robinette, police chief, is in Memorial Hospital with a bullet wound in his hip.

Robinette and his assistant, John Shanholtz, said they detected Delawder and Harness Cook, 35, leaving the Kuhn & Co. store, each carrying a sack of groceries, clothing and other plunder. Delawder opened fire, dropping Robinette. From the ground Robinette emptied his revolver. Cook escaped, but later was arrested.

Several weeks ago Robinette shot Ellis Hodyshell and Samuel Branson, who fled after committing a robbery here. Both recovered and are now in the penitentiary.

'Temporary' Bell Man Quits After 37 Years

Beaver Falls Man Retires as 'Phone Firm Official

A job he first thought "temporary," but which lasted 37 years, terminated yesterday for Martin J. Bishop, of Beaver Falls, who retired on pension as general rights-of-way superintendent for the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

Becoming associated with the telephone industry in 1896, Bishop's first assignment was to obtain rights-of-way for out-of-town lines between Johnstown and Myersdale and to supervise construction work. Completing that job, he was transferred to Butler and in a few months made manager at Beaver Falls. In 1903 he was appointed district manager for the company in Pittsburgh and in 1909 assumed the position of general rights-of-way superintendent.

EDUCATORS ASK R. F. C. LOANS FOR SCHOOLS

MINNEAPOLIS, March 2.—(AP.)—Federal aid for schools through Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans and establishment of a national commission to co-ordinate economic and social activities were requested today by the department of superintendence, National Education Association.

The educators requested federal legislation to make both proposals possible. The action came as the schoolmen neared the end of a five-day conference.

PLANNING COUNCIL

The suggested national planning council would follow the plan presented to President-elect Roosevelt recently by a group of 220 educators. The council, consisting of a membership drawn from all professional and industrial fields, would concentrate on co-ordination of the economic mechanism.

The keynote resolution presented to the conferees by the committee, headed by Supt. H. J. Gerlin, of St. Louis, urged the American people to "rise to an active protection of the schools because the principle of equal educational opportunity for all is being seriously attacked."

Revision of taxation systems, with a substantial increase in the proportion of educational expenditures borne by the state and federal governments to assure proper instruction in hard pressed localities was recommended.

SOCIAL STUDIES URGED

Other resolutions urged greater emphasis on the social studies in school and college curricula; deplored the "apparent desire in some quarters to penalize the school in comparison with other governmental functions," and commended the moral disarmament program of the American and British delegations to the disarmament conference proposing study of pacifism in public schools.

Prohibition was not mentioned in the committee report. Last year the Department of Superintendence reaffirmed its faith in the principles of the Eighteenth Amendment.

GRANT APPEAL IN BRIBE CASE

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court today stayed the sentence of George O'Brien, convicted of attempting to offer a bribe to Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth.

The stay was allowed pending O'Brien's appeal against his conviction in Dauphin County Court, which sentenced him to one year in prison and a fine of $500. Justice Linn fixed bail at $2,500.

The charge against O'Brien grew out of remarks he is alleged to have made to Beamish in connection with voting machine contracts.

He unsuccessfully appealed to the Superior Court. His present appeal wil come up in Pittsburgh late this month.

SCHOOL FIRE HERO BURIED

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Clyde Letham, 38, Turtle Creek volunteer fireman, who lost his life Monday while fighting the fire that destroyed the Penn Avenue Public School, Turtle Creek. Three other firemen who were injured are recovering.

The Coroner today began searching for relatives of Ernest Maier, 67, of 307 Brown avenue, Turtle Creek, whose death was indirectly due to the fire. Pneumonia and shock were given as the causes of the death. He became greatly excited watching the fire near his home. He had lived with the family of W. H. Birdseye for 16 years and formerly had been a Westinghouse employe.

It was announced that classes will be resumed Monday with the seventh and eighth grades in the Electric Plan School and all other grades in the Y. W. C. A. Building and the Union High School gymnasium.

MORE SUPPORT FOR HEARST'S U. S. PROGRAM

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 2.—William Randolph Hearst's six-point program for return of prosperity aroused additional support today from leaders in business, professional and civic life. Comment follows:

P. A. O'CONNELL, of Boston, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association — Mr. Hearst is right in advising against heavy income taxation. The flood of foreign goods can be curbed by wise publicity. The farmer should be aided. If the farmers in the West are prosperous business along the Atlantic seaboard will flourish.

PROF. DAVID D. VAUGHN, Boston University—The federal government must spend large sums, either to support men doing nothing or to provide work for them. Idleness is wasteful of human resources and is destructive to human character. Steady flood of government funds into the pockets of consumers would make it possible for them to spend generously over a wide field. Consumer demand would restore confidence on the part of businessmen and bankers. This would increase employment.

FRANK J. LAUBE, president, Seattle (Wash.) City Council—Mr. Hearst's program is fundamental, comprehensive and shows a profound grasp of the elements necessary to consider in any plan for restoration and reconstruction.

LEWIS B. SCHWELLENBACH, president Board of Regents, University of Washington—Evidence submitted before the Senate Finance Committee to the effect that, with a reasonable balancing of the national budget, the federal government can safely issue an unlimited amount of bonds for productive public works strengthens materially the six-point program offered by Mr. Hearst. His contentions are based on these two important points, balancing the budget and bonds to finance public works.

Now the New York bankers admit that both are feasible and that they can sell virtually all such bonds that the government will issue, I also subscribe to Mr. Hearst's farm relief plan and commend his program to the thoughtful scrutiny of our business leaders.

STATE SENATOR J. W. McKINLEY, of California — Mr. Hearst's program contains a most interesting analysis of the factors which brought about our present economic situation and he makes a number of constructive suggestions, which should receive the careful consideration of all our legislative bodies and our executive officials. Stabilization of agriculture most certainly is one of the things which must be accomplished before we emerge from the depression in which we have been for the last three years. Also, preservation of home markets should be the first concern of all Americans.

WILLIAM D. ASKERN, former state supreme court justice, Seattle, Wash.—Mr. Hearst's ideas for protection of home markets, the farmer and the taxpayer have great merit. I heartily subscribe to the principle of the sales tax. Originally I opposed the sales tax, but study of its workings has convinced me it is the most equitable and painless form of taxation. Properly carried out it would bring relief to property owners and others now struggling under excessive tax loads.

HEIRESS' PARTY DEATH PROBED

PONTIAC, Ill., March 2.—(INS.)—Asher Earle Bentley, 35-year-old married son of a former Pontiac mayor, remained in jail today while an autopsy was being conducted to determine how Miss Aldine Younger, 20-year-old heiress, met death following a gay roadhouse party.

Dr. William D. McNally, summoned from Chicago, made the post-mortem examination. He also began an examination of stains found on the fender of Bentley's automobile to determine whether they are those of human blood.

The girl's body was found on a roadside four and a half miles west of here yesterday. The skull was crushed and there were numerous cuts and bruises on the body. Bentley told Sheriff John Heckman:

"We had several drinks together at a roadhouse. I drove out in the country and parked. I fell asleep and when I awoke Miss Younger was gone. I do not know what happened to her."

Sheriff Heckman advanced the theory that the girl may have left Bentley's automobile and was struck by a passing car as she walked along the roadside.

SIX NAZIS SHOT IN RENEWED RIOTING

International News Service.

BERLIN, March 2.—With all auxiliary police mobilized against possible civil war as the new Reichstag election day approached, Hamburg and Berlin today surveyed the effects of further political rioting.

In Hamburg six Nazis were seriously wounded by Communist snipers who fired on them from rooftops during a Nazi torchlight parade.

In Berlin another Nazi was injured in street fighting.

Hundreds of Communists were locked in jail as the government of Chancellor Adolf Hitler pressed its anti-Communist campaign, initiated as a result of the recent Reichstag fire.

In this atmosphere of high political tension, a warning from Franz Seldte, minister of labor, that a four-year regime is due confronted the nation. He declared:

"No matter how the election comes out, the government, inspired by a glowing love of country and the confidence of President von Hinderburg, intends to carry out its program for the next four years in every field."

He declared the only excuse for holding the forthcoming election was to determine the temper of the voting public.

Seldte and four other government heads, including the Chancellor himself, who spoke in Munich, monopolized the government radio with appeals to forestall the "Bolshevist peril."

RALLY INVITES LEGISLATORS

James Rae, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, has issued a public invitation to Western Pennsylvania's legislative delegation to "come to the Mosque March 9 and find out what their constituents think."

Speaking for the Municipal Charter Committee and the Pennsylvania Conference on Election Laws, which are sponsoring the mass meeting, Rae said a personal invitation had been sent to each Senator and Representative from this district.

Referring particularly to Senator James J. Coyne, who is counted in opposition to the city manager bill and the election laws to be discussed at the meeting, Rae quoted Senator Coyne's statement of February 6, in response to a message from the Citizens Committee, that he is "always willing to sit down with any body of citizens interested in public welfare and discuss matters of public interest."

Rae, one of Coyne's constituents, declared the meeting offers an exceptional opportunity for the legislators to get the opinion of many Allegheny County citizens.

MOVIE SPECIAL ARRIVES HERE TOMORROW

Pittsburghers will have a chance to feast their eyes upon the largest delegation of screenland stars and beauties ever to visit the city when a score of Hollywood visitors arrive tomorrow aboard a special train for a one-day stopover.

City officials and business leaders will compose an official welcoming party as the seven-car special train arrives at the Pennsylvania Station at 11 a. m. A force of 350 policemen will be assigned to handle the crowd of movie fans expected to await the arrival.

STARS AND CHORUS GIRLS

Twelve Warner Brothers stars with an equal number of movie chorus girls will step from the Hollywood to Broadway, via Roosevelt inauguration, special train sponsored by the movie producers for their latest screen release, "42nd Street," and by the General Electric Company, which has an electric kitchen and other appliances aboard the train.

A downtown parade immediately follows the film folks' arrival. Escorted into the special automobiles will be Joe E. Brown, Jack Dempsey, Tom Mix and his horse, "King," Bette Davis, Lyle Talbot, Glenda Farrell, George Raft, Leo Carillo, Laura LaPlante, Eleanor Holm, Preston Foster and Claire Dodd. The parade will proceed in Grant street to Fifth avenue, to Wood street, to Boulevard of the Allies, to Liberty, to Seventh, to Penn, to the Joseph Horne Company store.

BROADCAST SET

A public radio broadcast will be given on Horne's seventh floor auditorium over Station WCAE beginning at 12:30 p. m. The next event during the stars' visit will be luncheon in the Hotel William Penn as guests of Warner Brothers. A special table will be arranged for a 7 o'clock dinner in the hotel's Chatterbox with a stall installed for "King."

The movie visitors will be a 9 o'clock stage feature in the Stanley Theater where "42nd Street" will be the screen attraction.

A public inspection of the kitchen aboard the train will open when the parade has left the station. The kitchen will be on track 13. Several of the stars will appear at annual dealers' meeting being held by the Ochiltree Electric Company, General Electric distributors. The dealers will attend from Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

OPPOSES MEN'S GARB FOR GIRLS

Annette Simpson, one of the American designers who has "reached the top" and who is at Kaufmann's today, doesn't like to "talk clothes." She says it bores her and perhaps that isn't so hard to understand when one considers that Mrs. Simpson, as she puts it, "lives clothes."

She is most emphatic, however, in her views on women's adopting masculine apparel. Only a stupid woman would dream of attempting such a thing, for no woman is attractive in men's clothing, she declares. Mrs. Simpson believes that the American woman, although not the best dressed in the world, is the most charming and the most reliable.

She contrasted methods in craftsmanship in this country and Europe, saying that over there five persons make one gown, while here one person makes five gowns. Mrs. Simpson speaks quite casually of designing a gown for a Spanish princess while she was in Paris and of being whisked away in the midst of it to view some special bit of scenery.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

SUNDAY SHOW TO AID PRIEST

Brushton is going to give Father Cox a food benefit movie next Sunday—and he needs it. Manager E. H. Goldberg, of the Brushton Theater, 715 Brushton avenue, has donated the use of his theater. His employes, including the movie operators and stage hands, are donating their services and a talking picture, "The Night Mayor"—has been secured as the attraction.

The show will start at 2 o'clock and will run continuously until 11 o'clock p. m. No cash will be accepted for tickets. Food is the only requirement for admission—canned good and standard package groceries preferred. Father Cox says that he never before needed food so urgently as he does today and he asks his friends in Brushton and vicinity to be as liberal as possible. Besides the feature picture, there will be newsreels, comedies and short subjects.

Yesterday was a record-breaking day in the Father Cox- Sun-Telegraph drive for subscriptions. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or received by telephone—Grant 6500 or 4390—with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings a liberal cash commission to his relief fund.

SLEUTHS GUARD COUNTESS

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—(AP.)—Countess Alexandra Tolstoy was guarded by three detectives today while she addressed the students of Drexel Institute. Her audience was unaware of the precautions for her safety.

Because of threats received by the Countess, the daughter of the late Count Leo Tolstoy, the detectives remained concealed throughout her attack on the Soviet government of Russia.

The Countess recently broke a long silence in her farmhouse home near Newtown Square, Pa., to protest against what she called the "enslavery of 160,000,000 Russian peasants."

In today's address she declared it would be "an enormous mistake for the United States to recognize Russia at this time, adding:

GRAHAM WINS HOOVER PRAISE

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham has received a letter from President Hoover expressing appreciation of Graham's service. The letter, on White House stationery and dated February 28, reads:

"Before leaving this office I wish to express to you the appreciation I have for the devoted public service you have given these past years. That service has, and deserves to have, the gratitude of your community and I want you to know of my gratitude for the friendship you have extended to me."

HOW TO GET WHITER TEETH

YOU CAN SEE RESULTS

START brushing your teeth with Kolynos. In just a few days they'll look whiter—shades whiter. They'll feel much cleaner. Here's the reason: Kolynos does what ordinary toothpaste can't do. As it cleans up ugly stain and tarnish—it foams into every tiny crevice and kills millions of germs that are the known cause of most tooth and gum troubles. Thus Kolynos gives RESULTS YOU CAN SEE. Cleaner, whiter teeth. Healthier looking gums. Give up incompetent ways of brushing and start using the Kolynos technique—a half-inch of this remarkable dental cream on a dry brush twice a day. It's the better, quicker way to cleaner, whiter teeth.

The absorbing topic of conversation now is the inaugural, and who's going. In addition to the many I've mentioned so far, every day I hear of some more. And I imagine that at the last minute more folks will decide they can't miss all the excitement.

Today I have some interesting news—the debutante set is going to be represented at the inaugural.

Deb Goes To Capital

Cute, blonde Bertha Brooks, daughter of the Twing Brookses, of Sewickley, will be there to see all and attend everything.

She left last night for Washington with her parents. Her family represents the Democrats, by the way, in Sewickley's lengthy social register.

Also added to the list of those going to the inaugural are the Joe Clifton Treeses, of Gibsonia, Pa.

Vie at Tennis

Creating much excitement among sport-loving society folk is the tennis tournament played on the indoor tennis courts of the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Last night there were mixed doubles with a gallery watching the players. There's playing in the afternoon, too.

The closing Art Society concert of the season comes tomorrow night, when Myra Hess, the English pianist, will play in Carnegie Music Hall. The artist is an exponent of the Tobias Matthay method.

After the concert tomorrow night there'll be a reception for the pianist.

Arrange Plays

The Stage and Play Society is already making plans for April. Early in the month the society will give three short plays, to be in charge of Mrs. George Pomeroy Bassett, Jr.

There'll be a meeting of the society Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Isaac Biddle Thomas, of St. James street.

Dormont P.T.A. Group To Meet Wednesday

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Kelton School, Dormont, will meet Wednesday for a discussion of "Citizenship" and "Application."

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

One of the best snake stories we've ever heard was that Drew Pearson, of "Washington Merry-Go-Round" fame, told the other night when he was lecturing here.

It seems that Mrs. Harold Ickes, wife of the newly appointed Secretary of the Interior, has a hobby for strange pets—snakes.

The story goes that some women calling on Mrs. Ickes were startled when a snake reared its head around the corner of the open door.

Mrs. Ickes said:

"Don't be afraid. That's only Peter."

And then to the snake:

"Go back, Peter."

Mr. Pearson says he was told that Peter obeyed!

Fragile little Mrs. Velma Mackey, who won a prize at the Twentieth Century Club dramatic department's Mardi Gras, for the best impersonation of a character from the past—she appeared as Mary Todd Lincoln—had a charming colonial costume, parasol, cards and all.

Her shoes were the quaintest things—older, she told me, by far, than she is.

The tops were of rose-colored cloth material with a narrow rib, laced up one side!

The creamywhite serge coat with much trimming in white braid which Mrs. Stephen Stone wore to the Mardi Gras, she's had since her wedding. Mrs. Stone is the mother of that lovely trio of blonde daughters, Mrs. J. Shirley Austin, Mrs. Ellen Stone Bailey and Mrs. E. P. Mellon II.

Mt. Lebanon Women Hear Federation Head

Clubs are formed for culture, sociability and service and they must meet the problems of the day with intelligence and courage, Mrs. James G. Chalfant, district president of the State Federation, told the Mt. Lebanon Fortnightly Review yesterday.

The members were guests of Mrs. W. B. McFall at her home in Parker drive. A trio composed of Mrs. Adolph Batz, Mrs. M. L. Gardner and Mrs. Don V. Sawhill sang, with Mrs. FcFall accompanying. An open forum supplemented Mrs. Chalfant's talk and the annual sale for the blind was held.

There was tea, with Mrs. W. C. Allen and Mrs. W. E. McKnight pouring.

Aero Group Leader To Address Students

The future Lindberghs and Earharts who compose the Aero Club of Peabody High School will be addressed tomorrow by A. C. Haller. Mr. Haller is head of the gliding committee of the National Aeronautical Society and a former vice president of the Soaring Society of America. Victor Meade Saudek is president of the club.

Moyers, Fairfax Hotel, and directed by her daughter, Miss Tillie Moyers, will feature the presentation of three one-act plays, March 7 and 9, by the Pitt Players, campus dramatic organization at the University of Pittsburgh. College Club Will Hear Dr. Woolley, Delegate To Arms Parley

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The visit of Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke College, on March 31 is the outstanding event of importance at the College Club this month. Dr. Woolley, you remember, was an official delegate to the disarmament conference at Geneva. She is going to talk on "Some Phases of World Peace."

Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. A. H. Bowman, Western Pennsylvania chairman of the cause and cure of war committee, will address the club on "War and Waste." Next week will bring Mrs. Cora C. Lowrey, who was a resident of China for many years, to talk on Chinese sculpture in Northern China. Mrs. Lowrey will illustrate her talk with slides. She is, by the way, a member of the International Art Institute.

Two of Mrs. Carroll Miller's plays are to be read at the meeting on the seventeenth, Dorothy Metz Scott giving "Everybody's Doing It" and the author herself reading "Running Water." A luncheon for charter members, many of whom are still active in the club, will precede a violin recital by Roy Shoemaker on the twenty-fourth. Mrs. Shoemaker will accompany her husband. Socially the club will be busy, too, for there's a St. Patrick's bridge-luncheon planned for the fifteenth in charge of the social committee, Mrs. Myron G. Mansfield, chairman. There will, of course, be the usual Thursday afternoon teas and dinners, and the customary open house each Monday.

Also there's a bridge-dinner on the calendar for the twenty-fifth and a bridge-tea for prospective members on the twenty-ninth.

Society Awaits Sports Events In Florida

MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—Two outstanding events, the Miami Biltmore invitation four ball golf championship, and the swimming and diving championships of the Atlantic Seaboard Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, will give the March calendar in this resort a sports importance of mid-season flavor. In the meantime social events give promise of assuming an informality that will make the present month one of the most popular of the season.

Four states will be represented in the swimming meet which will be held in the pool of the Miami Biltmore Country Club, on March 10 and 11. Entries already promise a gathering of the South's best among spring-board and other aquatic stars. Immediately following the swimming competitions an aquatic carnival will be held at the Miami Biltmore on March 12, and many of the visiting stars are ...ts, planning to remain over for th... event.

Expected to prove one of th... most colorful golf events of the season, the amateur invitation four ball tournament to be played March 8-12, is attracting wide spread interest from niblick and mashie stars who play for the pleasure of the game. Among well known amateurs expected to do battle for the four ball trophy are Tommy Aycock and Jack Toomer, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., who will defend the title they won last year.

Arrival of the Florida spring season, with its langurous days and mild tropical nights, will be the occasion for a unique fashion show at the Miami Biltmore Country Club this afternoon when a group of society maids and matrons will display new modes from a flower be-decked float in the middle of the pool. Hawaiian singers will contribute entertainment during the affair and later guests will dance on the terrace.

COLOR SCHEMES FOR EVENING COVER A VARIETY OF SHADES

THERE ARE two schools of color among designers of evening clothes—those who stick to white and pastel tints and those who favor dark, rich flower and fruit colors tha are sharply in contrast to flesh tones. It would be difficult to say which is more successful, for fashionable evening gatherings have shown that the women themselves are divided in opinion on the subject.

IF ANY classification is possible, it is that younger women seem to prefer the lighter tones. All-white, white with bright color, honey-beige, hyacinth blues and dusty pink are the colors that are seen frequently on younger women. Purple, Bordeax red, wine red, grape and fuchsia are worn more often by matrons.

* * *

PRUNE-RED is one of the few darker colors that is worn by women of all ages. By night light it is especially flattering to the skin. A proof of its virtues is the fact that it has been chosen by the majority of the big designers for entire dresses, wraps and evening accessories.

* * *

BOTH THE dress and velvet wrap in today's sketch are in prune color. The dress is without any contrasting touch; the wrap relies on its blue fox collar and tucked sleeves for its decoration.

* * *

THE JEWELRY, designed to match the dress and wrap, is of silk cords with bands and tassels of gold. The bracelet combines cord with gold and silver bands.

MINE PARLEY HITS SNAG

By HARRY WARD
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Arbitration of the wage dispute between Pennsylvania anthracite operators and the United Mine Workers, involving a proposed reduction of 35 per cent in the wage scale, having reached a deadlock, the two opposing groups today were seeking other means of reaching a settlement.

The two arbitrators — George Rublee, Washington attorney, and Frank Morrison, secretary of the A. F. of L.—hopelessly disagreed about two questions. Morrison was unwilling to consent to any reduction whatever in the wage scale, while Rublee urged that a reduction should be made. Morrison likewise refused to join his fellow arbitrator in enlarging the board to include an odd number.

WHITNEY'S KIN WINS IRON SUIT

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—Charles S. Payson, youthful son-in-law of the late Payne Whitney, came by court decision today into an apparently key position in American steel.

He won it by backing with his wealth one of the most unexpected scientific processes in the history of metallurgy.

Payson, 34, Yale oarsman in '19, '20 and '21, is chairman of the Rustless Iron Corporation of Baltimore, makers of stainless steel by the Novel process. Four years ago the company's rights to the process were contested in patent suits in the United States District Court of Baltimore.

Today the Chemical Foundation, Inc., of New York, announced that Judge Coleman in Baltimore had decided in favor of Payson and his company. The Chemical Foundation has licensed some of the Stainless patents.

Payson's company makes this steel direct from ore. Other industrial methods require intermediate steps. The unexpected trick in the direct method is a way of extracting oxygen from chromium. By this method Rustless Iron Corporation claims to produce the metal more cheaply than any other process. It was said the company increased its business even during the poor steel year of 1932, and has doubled its output since the beginning of the year.

Some Girls Need Technique Of Greatgrandmothers

Who should manage married money?

Dad—because he must earn it?

Or the Missis—because she must spend it?

That's a problem which is arousing ructions in many a home. As, for example, Nelda's—

Dear Miss Robinson—

Will you please help me? I have a problem that is simply wrecking my marriage, or at least, so it seems to me. Maybe I am all wrong. If I am, tell me; but if I am not, I hope you can tell me how to get things straightened out. I am just about at my wits' end.

HUSBAND PAYS BILLS

It is the old, old question of Who Should Handle the Family Money. I guess you have seen it before, but it is pretty new to me.

I have been married for just about a year, and in a few months I am expecting a baby. And I haven't had a cent of money to spend since I have been married. My husband insists that since he makes the money, and the household and other bills are "his obligation," he must keep and spend the money as he sees fit.

All the money we have at the bank is in his name, and because he won't give me any I have been compelled to open a charge account at the stores. I never even have any change to treat a friend to a matinee or a soda, unless I ask him for it, and then I get very little.

And he thinks that every bill that comes in is too large and argues and makes me go over them and explain just what they are for. All that, in spite of the fact that I buy as little as possible and buy that as cheaply as I can. He likes to eat well, but he always thinks the grocery and butcher bills are too high.

ENTITLED TO SHARE

As a matter of fact, I could often buy food more cheaply if I had the cash and could shop around. But even when I tell him that, he still says, "Handling the money is up to me. I make it. I'll pay it out." All of which makes me frantic.

Don't you think that a wife, who must plan the running of the home and the arrangement of the meals, should have money to do it with and be credited with having enough judgment to do the best that can be done with it? Don't you think she should have money to spend for herself, too, instead of having to buy things on charge accounts? Please tell me what you think. NELDA.

What do I think?

You are right, of course, my dear. Your husband may make the money, but you're his partner in running the home and the family life, and he should treat you as such. He works outside the home, to be sure; but you work also, inside the home. And if you are doing your part, you are entitled to a share of the money.

The sharing of his salary is not just a privilege that a man extends to the woman he marries, out of the goodness of his heart. It is her right—because she earns it.

MUST WIN WAY

But it's one thing to "have rights" Nelda, and quite another to make the other fellow recognize that fact. Justice is a lovely thing, but it's seldom handed to us on a silver platter. And this is as true between two people who love each other as between two who hate. The wife who desires fair play from her husband must win her way, just as she would with any enemy.

Before your man was your man he was a bachelor, with all a bachelor's selfishness and petty egotism. If it's hard for you to adapt yourself to marriage, remember it's equally hard for him. He loves you now as his wife—but, unconsciously, he still distrusts you as a stranger. And it's natural that he should!

So be patient, Nelda. Be as gentle with his stupidity as you would be with the stupidity of the little babe who is soon to come. Wifehood is just another form of motherhood—toward the man as well as the child. Help your man over this rough bit of trail, as some day you'll help your baby.

Don't demand "your rights." Make him, by your sweetness and reasonableness, want to give them to you. That was your greatgrandmother's technique—way back in 1833—and it works just as well today as it did a hundred years ago, sister. For this cockeyed world may entirely change, but the cussedness of husbands changeth never.

Sensible Wife Is a Man's Best Credential, Believes Fay King

By FAY KING

A man's wife is his best credential.

A sensible wife, who is raising a little family and making a cozy, comfortable home, inspires trust, confidence and respect for her husband in all whom he contacts.

To live within their means, to pretend to no more than they can rightfully afford makes them a good risk anywhere.

An author once wrote a clever story about a young couple who entertained the boss. To impress him the foolish wife borrowed silver from her friend, bought an expensive gown and engaged a maid for the occasion.

The boss left thinking that they were living beyond their means and did not promote the young husband to the place of greater trust he had in mind.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Danger in Squeezing Blemishes

I recently visited a friend who was recuperating from "septicemia,' commonly called "blood poisoning." In the course of conversation he told me that prior to his illness he had squeezed a small pimple in his upper lip. He thought lightly of this until he was suddenly stricken with a high fever and rushed to the hospital. It was found necessary to operate.

Dr. Copeland

When my friend squeezed the pimple he caused the infection to spread into the blood stream. He will never squeeze a pimple again, no matter how small it is. But I want to warn you against this temptation. You should never do it.

Nature throws a defensive wall around a pimple, or boil. When you squeeze it, you break this wall, destroy the protection, and permit the germs to escape into the surrounding tissues and ultimately into the blood itself.

If the pimple is located near a blood vessel of considerable size, the germs are apt to enter directly into the blood stream. This danger is always present, but it is particularly great when the pimple is located on the upper lip, or any part of the face above the mouth.

Septicemia is indeed a serious disease. It is usually traced to what was originally a trivial infection, like a pimple.

The safest way to deal with a pimple or boil is to keep the fingers away from it. Pain and tenderness may be lessened by the application of wet dressings of boric acid solution. By all means avoid the application of poultices and other medications except under the physician's supervision. He and only he is in position to determine what medication is called for and whether the pimple or boil should be opened.

When the infection is deep seated and painful, it is wise to apply heat. This is best done by the application of gauze dipped in hot boric acid solution and kept hot by placing a hot water bag over it. This reduces the pain, brings the pus to the surface and limits the infection.

In most instances, it is necessary to open the infection and remove all the pus. Many persons dread this procedure. In order to avoid this simple operation they refrain from consulting a physician. This is unwise. Neglected pimples or boils may lead to complications demanding extensive surgery. Opening a boil is a simple, painless and successful procedure. It will prevent many hours of unnecessary suffering.

If you are subject to pimples or boils, consult with your doctor.

Men Decide to Attempt Rescue Without Delay

Long experience with my Peter Pan has enabled me to predict his reactions to almost any set of circumstances, and I had a prompt answer to my fear that he might take Hugh's emphasis upon the necessity of coordination between the plane and the attacking party as a challenge. His whole body stiffened, and his voice was distinctly hostile as he answered:

"If you'll have your men ready to attack at any moment you select," he said, "I'll fly low over that house, just ten seconds before that time to the second. But you must give me the time before I leave, and let nothing interfere to change it."

"That, of course," my father said quickly, averting any possibility of a resentful reply from Hugh. "And, now, is there anything else to discuss? It is getting late."

He did not make a direct appeal to Harry Underwood, but Marion's stepfather knew that it was there. I saw his big body stiffen, and his head go back as if he had been struck a sudden blow. Then through stiffened lips he said slowly:

"I know I can't put this off any longer. I've got to take the whole brunt of this thing. Samuel Brixton is missing, his wife is ill, and Donald is, as he himself admits, too young and inexperienced to be compelled to make such a decision. I dare not tell Lillian of this last hideous Chinese complication which has made us all hesitate about this attack, to which Lillian already has consented. Yet if this should fail—if, because we attack, the girls are sacrificed—how am I ever to face Lillian?"

KISSES MADGE

His voice was so agonized, his eyes so tortured, that I sprang up and, crossing to him, caught his hands as he instinctively rose with the rest of the men.

"As you have faced her for all the years since your return," my voice rang out, "in the full consciousness that whatever you do will be fully approved by her. Do you think she will not know how this decision is torturing you? But for her sake and Marion's, you must not delay any longer."

He looked down at me for a second, then stooped and kissed me, a tender, reverent caress.

"You blessed heartener!" he said.

I heard the quick intake of a breath behind me, Hugh's, and was suddenly in terror for fear Dicky also had heard that betrayal of the army officer's ridiculous jealousy of so brotherly and innocuous a kiss as Harry had given me. But a quick, furtive glance at my husband showed him looking at Harry with all his sympathetic heart, and I was thankful indeed that his feeling for his friend, "passing the love of a brother," was so strong that he had eyes for nothing but him.

"I am sure Madge didn't mean this minute, Harry," he said. "We all know what this means to you. Take a little longer, if you wish."

DECIDE ON ATTACK

"Of course," my father and Hugh Grantland echoed. Only Ronald said nothing. He again had buried his face in his hands and sat motionless, save for an occasional long shudder running over his entire body.

"No!" Harry's exclamation was so strong that it was almost a shout. "I must not, cannot, wait another second. I say we make the attack tonight, as soon after dark as Hugh and Dickey think practicable."

Hugh sprang to his feet as if he had been waiting only for that word.

"Then," he said quickly, "we must go at once to that headquarters Dr. Barnes found for us, from which we're starting out. We can arrange the final details there. There will be very few to arrange. The ground force is in readiness."

"Also the air," Dicky said shortly, almost grumpily. Then, as if in swift recollection of his determination to rule his choler, he pointed to himself with a whimsical gesture.

The men were at the door when Ronald, who had risen with them, spoke pleadingly.

"May I go with you?" he asked.

Hugh, Harry and Dicky looked at each other, and then, with tacit consent, at my father, who gave the boy a long, steady look.

"It is your right to go, my boy—if you think you ought," he said.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

You simply must have one suit this winter. A grand, cheery affair has a skirt of black duvetyne, while the jacket is of crimson duvetyne with black Persian trimming. The fur makes a cravat collar and also lines the elbow puffs on the sleeves. There is a crimson blouse with black lacings.

Still in the lead is the fur-trimmed suit. It will be featured again for Spring. An advance model is of two tones of beige fine woolen, the skirt being of the deeper tone. It has a huge collar of blue fox and the back of the peplum, which is pointed in back, is also trimmed with the fur.

A dark idea is that of dark brown for evening. A lovely evening frock is of deep brown Chantilly lace posed over lacquered satin in the same color. The matching jacket has a twisted scarf of the lace and both dress and jacket have tiny rhinestone buttons and ornamentals.

It is not necessary to have a fur-trimmed wrap. Some of the smartest evening wraps haven't any fur trimming. A delightful model, on lines that are long and slender is in black velvet, with a huge bow of the velvet on its scarf collar. The long sleeve has an oversleeve that ends with cartridge tucks.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Bridge in South Africa

Every mail brings letters from across the seas, telling of the growing interest in Contract Bridge. However, one of the slowest places to abandon Auction and take up Contract is South Africa, but according to Mr. James Cranko, a prominent business man of Johannesburg, all of South Africa is now beginning to play Contract, and there is in Johannesburg a thriving Contract club. They have even taken up Duplicate, and one of the more recent functions attracted over 200 entries, 50 more than could be accommodated. The standard of play, Mr. Cranko states, is high, and South Africa hopes soon to have a team-of-four that can compete on even terms with players from the United States or Great Britain.

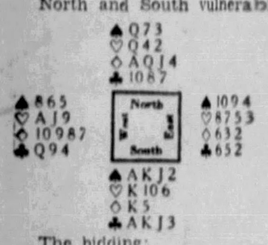
South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 N T (1)	Pass	4 N T (2)	Pass
5 ♣ (3)	Pass	5 N T	Pass
6 N T (4)	Double (5)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—Probably a better bid is one spade. However, with 5 honor-tricks in the hand, South cannot be blamed for making this near-Forcing bid.

2—North believes he can count 7 honor-tricks in the combined hands. The four no-trump bid in this case is not a use of the new Four-Five No-Trump Convention, as no suit has been bid by either player.

3—I do not understand why South makes this bid. In any event the hand will probably be played at notrump.

4—This is an overbid. South has no long suits and has no assurance that his partner has either.

5—A very bad Double, which furnishes the key to the correct play of the hand.

West's Opening lead was the diamond 10, and when the Dummy went down, it was obvious that, in order to justify the Double, West held a probable club trick and, no doubt, the Ace-Knave of hearts. This information was invaluable to South, who won the first trick with the diamond King and immediately led a small heart to the Queen. Naturally, West did not win this trick, as he must try for 2 heart tricks to defeat the contract. South next won 3 tricks with the Ace, King and Queen of spades, the third being won in the dummy. Dummy's three high diamonds were then cashed, South discarding the 3 of clubs and the Ten of hearts. The Declarer re-entered his own hand with the Ace of clubs and led the fourth spade, which squeezed West. He could not unguard the club Queen, and was forced, therefore, to discard the heart Knave. South now led the heart King. West won with the Ace, but was forced to lead into the club tenace, permitting the fulfillment of a slightly over-ambitious contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Will you please give the correct bidding of the following hands?

South, Dealer.

South	North
2 ◇	2 N T
3 ♣	3 ◇
4 ◇	5 ♣
7 ♣	Pass

South can infer that there are at least four clubs in North's hand, and with the fit North has shown in diamonds, there should be a good chance of a successful Grand Slam.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I just recently started to read your columns and I find no end of information in them.

I received an invitation to my cousin's wedding and reception. He is marrying a girl I have never met. I am unable to attend either, and I would like to know just how formal my answer should be. How should I start the letter . . . by using both her father's and mother's name? READER.

Welcome to the column!

I cannot give you a definite answer about this, since you do not tell me what kind of invitation you received.

If it is the usual conventional form of invitation . . . and I imagine it is, since there is to be a reception, too . . . you answer it formally, in the third person. The thing to keep in mind is that we answer every invitation "in kind," that is, with exactly the degree of formality or informality of the invitation. So this invitation would be answered like this:

Miss Mary Allen Reader
regrets that she is unable to accept
Mr. and Mrs. (Bride's Parents)'s kind invitation for Tuesday, the first of March

Since you are regretting the invitation, it is not necessary for you to repeat the hour.

This acknowledgment should be written on the first page of a double sheet of letter-paper (the kind you used in your note to me is appropriate, and should be spaced as I have indicated).

In the third line you use the names of the hosts just as they are engraved in the invitation.

If the invitation was sent as a written note, informally, then you write a note in answer.

Acknowledging a Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

May I ask you, who give such wonderful advice, just what to do in a case like mine?

1—Sometime ago I did some stenographic work for a man in our office building and I have now received a beautiful pair of pajamas from both him and his wife. I have never met his wife, and I am wondering whether or not, when I send my thank-you note, I should address it only to her?

2—Will you kindly write a note such as should be written thanking these people for this gift? K.

Welcome to my column, and thank you for coming!

1—It would, I think, be best for you to address the note of thanks to the wife, especially for such an intimate kind of present, and in the note express your thanks to both wife and husband.

2—The note might be worded something like this:

Dear Mrs. Graham:

You and Mr. Graham were most kind and thoughtful to send me such a handsome gift, and I thank you both most sincerely and heartily.

I was delighted to help Mr. Graham with the stenographic work, and the fact that it was of help and that he was pleased with it was reward enough. Then to have this added thoughtfulness was most generous and gracious of you both.

The lounging-set is a beauty, and I am most proud to own it.

Every good wish to you and Mr. Graham for the new year, and again my deepest thanks for your friendliness.

Very sincerely yours,

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Gooseflesh on arms and legs? Bathe with soap, warm water and a bath brush. Rinse with tepid water, dry, friction vigorously with cocoanut oil. Pat on borated talcum powder. It'll be goodbye, goose's flesh.

In case you are among the advanced ones who are nursing eyebrows back to normal, seeking a growth that is something more than a shadow, apply a tonic made by combining equal parts of castor oil and alcohol; it will start the little fuzzers to sprouting once again. Vaseline helps eyelashes to fill out their broken ranks, grow long, take on the upward tilt that is fascinating.

Tincture of green soap is recommended by scalp specialists as a shampoo for excessively oily hair. It is the semi-solid green soap—which isn't green, but yellow—dissolved in alcohol. It cuts the grease and atmospheric dust, leaves the hair clean as a whistle. But it is the dickens to rinse out. So supply yourself with a bath spray and make a thorough job. Three soapings, three rinsings. And a quick drying.

Hints for the Household -:-

If a mirror has become scratched the marks can be removed by rubbing with jeweler's rouge.

Jams and pickles should not be stored on a top shelf, as hot air arises and heat causes fermentation.

To remove sewing machine stains from washable materials, rub the stain with a mild soap and wash out in cold water.

Batter pudding will be lighter if a little water is added after mixing. Allow to stand for at least an hour, and beat thoroughly before baking.

When you are making clear starch for laundry use, be careful to use as little cold water as is absolutely necessary in the preliminary mixing; otherwise the boiling water will not "cook" it sufficiently, and sticky ironing will result.

Rubber hot water bottles and other rubber articles will last twice as long if they are given an occasional wash in a weak solution of common salt and water.

Lacquered brass should not be cleaned with metal polish. As long as it is not, it will not tarnish. Washing with hot, soapy water does not affect lacquer. It only needs a rub with a leather to make it look like new again.

Dates, seeded and stuffed with nuts, fondant, peanut butter, fudge or cocoanut, and rolled in confectioner's sugar, make very good confections.

Tough meat or poultry, when boiled, will be made tender if a tablespoon or two of pure malt vinegar is added to the water in which it is cooked. The vinegar will also lessen the time which is needed for boiling.

I Hear America Singing, Cantata.....Gaul

The Pittsburgh A Capella Choir, a newly organized chorus under the directorship of Harvey Gaul, gave its first concert in Hotel Schenley ballroom last night. The auditorium was filled with enthusiastic music lovers and the concert surely merited their applause.

Mr. Lissfelt

It is the purpose of this choir to revive beautiful unaccompanied part songs from all lands. A good beginning was made last night with motets and choruses from ancient church music and oratorios, from the ballets and madrigals of the Elizabethan writers and some later Italian and Russian music. The shortcomings of this choir have not escaped Mr. Gaul, who works valiantly for his ideals, and so on this occasion all praise must go to him not only for his purpose, but for accomplishing so musical a result. In so short a rehearsal period there is already among these singers sufficient technique to create a beautiful pianissimo, sustained tones of real security, and nuances that are both delicate and excellently planned.

Assisting the choir were members of the faculty and student body from the Fillion studios; two gifted violinists, Mark Meyer and Oscar Davis, and string ensemble under the direction of Ferdinand Fillion, and Elsa Gundling Duga, soprano, who assisted with several choruses and sang two groups of songs. John A. Seifert and Emerick Simboli had tenor solos, and the accompaniments were Earl Mitchell for Mrs. Duga, Janet Spaugh and Sybil Young.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengué (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengué by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

RELIEF BURDEN PUT ON STATE BY R. F. C.

HARRISBURG, March 2.—(AP.)—The state emergency relief board yesterday allocated $6,203,000 to counties for jobless relief this month, of which Allegheny received $1,029,011. The total allocation includes $1,500,000 of Talbot money, which exhausted the state relief funds.

The remaining $4,703,000 was from Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans.

Thus the state met relief demands for March, but has nothing for relief in April and succeeding months this year.

NEW LOAN GRANTED

Just after the allocations had been approved the board received notice from the R. F. C. that an additional loan of $3,224,429 has been granted Pennsylvania for relief in March.

However, with this notice came a warning that "consideration of relief needs for April will await state legislative action."

This places the unemployment relief problem for April and future months in the lap of the Legislature. The state money is exhausted and no more federal money will be advanced until the Legislature acts to provide additional state funds.

The special session of 1932 appropriated $12,000,000 for relief from September to March inclusive. This appropriation followed the action of the 1931 special session in appropriating $10,000,000 for the first half of 1932. Including yesterday's loan, R. F. C. grants to Pennsylvania total $29,929,875.

Gov. Pinchot has asked for $20,000,000 for relief during the [illegible] of this year.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION

No unemployment relief appropriation bill has been reported from committee in the nine weeks the Legislature which adjourned yesterday for the week.

The board yesterday revised its ruling on allocations for work relief projects, ruling that hereafter money will be provided only for public works, instead of for public and semi-public works.

These works may be under state, county or township jurisdiction.

In connection with this ruling the board received a report that 136,000 persons were employed in work relief projects in January.

There were 66,010 men employed in major work relief projects in 43 counties in January at an average pay of $9, the work being staggered among a number of persons.

KING TO TESTIFY ON UTILITIES

HARRISBURG, March 2.—(INS.)—The Senate committee investigating public utilities will hold a meeting next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, it was announced today.

Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the Public Service Commission, will present the committee with additional data regarding the Commission's work which were requested at the last hearing.

Additional witnesses may be summoned for the Tuesday meeting, but so far none is scheduled except Dr. King.

Claim Against City Postponed by P.S.C.

The Public Service Commission hearing on claims against the city totaling $100,000 for property damage in connection with the elimination of a grade crossing on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Second and Hazelwood avenues has been postponed at the request of counsel for the claimants.

The claimants are Harry L. Witt, Tillie Gold, Lena Krongold, Louis Barmen, Davis Sheffer, Harry Silverman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shook and Mr. and Mrs. Davis Kaufman.

Chicago Princess Mother of Baby Girl

CHICAGO, March 2.—(INS.)—Princess Josephine Galitzene, the former Josephine Dennehy, today was the mother of an infant daughter born last night at St. Luke's Hospital. The American baby princess weighs 6¾ pounds, according to the father, Prince Nicholas Galitzene, of Russia. By law the child on her 21st birthday will decide either to retain her American nationality or adopt that of her father.

'Purim Prom' Set By Student Council

The Y. M. and W. H. A. student council will hold a Purim prom Saturday, March 11. The Schenlians will provide the music.

Adele Ash, social chairman, will be assisted by Helen Bart, Beatrice Kopsofsky, Ruth Simons, Doris Engelmen, Selma Solow, Abe Bonder, William H. Bachrach, Herschel J. Rubin, Dorothy Kaufman, Eleanor Stern, Israel Goldberg and Morton Harris.

Florida Clergyman Takes Pulpit Here

Bishop A. W. Leonard, of the Pittsburgh district of the Methodist Episcopal Church, announced today that the Rev. Dr. Schuyler E. Garth, of St. Petersburg, Fla., had been appointed pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church here. He will succeed the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, who left in November to become pastor of Mt. Vernon Place Church in Baltimore. He will assume his new duties April 2.

JOB MARCHERS TO MOVE ON PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, March 2.—(AP.)—Having nothing material to show thus far from its stormy hearing in the Legislature, the self-styled 'army of the unemployed is carrying its demands for $100,000,000 cash relief to Gov. Pinchot today.

The Governor has stated that he will speak to the entire group of about 1,000 men and women on the Capitol plaza, or meet a delegation in his reception room.

As a prelude to this meeting, the group is perfecting a state organization to further its activities.

PLAN NO RETURN

Although members of the army loudly voiced their disapproval of the Legislature's failure to act after an hour's one-sided session yesterday, leaders say they do not plan to return during the present session.

Announcing this decision, Edward Bender, secretary of the Unemployed Council of Pennsylvania, sponsors of the march, added that they might march again to renew their demands if the Governor calls a special session.

Last night, in the state farm show building on the outskirts of the city, they slept over their demands, presented to the Legislature by Morris Wood, of Philadelphia.

URGE INSURANCE

Aside from temporary measures to cover their immediate needs, they want "permanent security for the unemployed and those still employed" through unemployment insurance legislation.

The unemployment insurance bill, as proposed by Wood, would provide for at least $15 weekly to every jobless worker.

The cost would be borne entirely by the state and the employers.

Under plans announced by its leaders, the army is to disperse tomorrow. Demonstrations are to be held in the marchers' home towns on Saturday to remind President-elect Roosevelt not to forget what he has called "the forgotten man."

Divorce suits also were filed by Bernard J. Volk against Edna J. Volk, who a day earlier had sued him for a decree; by Anna B. Boley against August T. Boley, Hilda Fleishman against Isaac C. Fleishman, Barbara S. Grady against Matthew F. Grady, Merle H. Dultie against John F. C. Dultie, Paul Yost against Helen Yost and by Helen Perry against Jay D. Perry.

Rally for Completion Of Flinn Highway

Representatives from Butler and Allegheny counties will discuss plans for speeding construction of the William Flinn highway at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, Monday. Those attending will be Mayor Joseph A. Heineman, Elias Ritts, John Weiss and Brown Nixon, all of Butler, and David I. McCahill, Ralph Flinn, Joseph Trees and Eugene Connelly, of Pittsburgh.

Proposes Reserve For Unemployment

Unemployment reserve plans, set up by industrial concerns and contributed to by employes, were favored over compulsory state insurance, in a speech delivered by W. G. Marshall, assistant to vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, before the management and key men of the company, at the Westinghouse Club last night.

CHILD FEEDING WORK LAUDED

HARRISBURG, March 2.—(INS.)—Approximately 25 members of the executive committee of the state's malnutrition board conferred here today on plans for the care of needy children throughout the commonwealth.

After giving a brief speech before the committee, Gov. Gifford Pinchot lauded the work it has set out to accomplish. He said:

"I think it is the most important movement undertaken for the benefit of children in Pennsylvania."

Sonnet Journalese

In fourteen rhythmic lines of printer's ink
The sonneteer displays his broken heart;
A rhymed nepenthe works as well as drink
(And offers him a chance to loose the dart

For which he fumbled vainly when his flame
Dismissed him lightly for another lad).
He spends an octave taking all the blame.
For she was Love—and he is very sad.

The octave filled—another phrase reveals
A subtle note of irony which swells
With every added foot until it steals

He racks his brain to find a couplet sly—
Enough to catch a paragrapher's eye.

"I know, mother," was the retort, "I want some extra pennies so I can throw them at the actors!"

Correction

Reference was recently made to the fact that the advertisement offering 1913 Liberty Head nickels was a phony. This statement was incorrect, as the United States Mint did coin a few 1913 Liberty Head nickels, the latter part of 1912, but they are very rare.

Playwright Anderson Tells How and Why He Wrote 'Both Your Houses'

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Everyone has to take his first airplane ride sometime—his first deep-sea dive. Maxwell Anderson, playwright, once editor, once professor, had his baptism of the ether the other night, when he faced the microphone for the first time.

But he isn't the sort of fellow who gets scared. Coasting down steep McKeesport streets in his boyhood wasn't calculated to cultivate timidity. Maxwell Anderson, who tackles the abuses of democratic government in "Both Your Houses," now at the Nixon, hasn't many inhibitions. He looks life squarely in the face; how else could he have written Saturday's Children?" He has been gathering courage ever since for more daring flights.

Mr. Seibel

He looks like a rugged country lawyer of the Lincoln type. Not the prim and proper dilettante who writes smart comedies of sophistication. Nor the introspective pessimist who unravels the complexes of Ninas and Charleys. Maxwell Anderson is different—an outdoor type, a fighter, a man with an Indian eye looking for eagles in the air or buffalo on the plain.

WRITING A PLAY

When I asked him whether he had been inspired by Drew Pearson and the "Washington Merry-Go-Round in writing "Both your Houses," he admitted having read the book and getting some hints.

"I've had more or less experience as a newspaper man in Washington," he told me, "and every newspaper man knows the things in that book and in my play, of course, every newspaper man also knows that he shouldn't tell. If he does tell, he'll get no more news. He'll probably get fired—and reduced to writing plays."

"That might not be so bad," I said, "if he writes plays like yours to show up the system."

"But I had no such purpose," he answered. "I didn't want to show up any system—I just wanted to write an interesting play, a play that's alive and true. That should be the only thing the dramatist has in mind. If he thinks of himself as a preacher or a reformer, he ought to go into the church or into social work. Plays do serve a purpose when they reveal the truth of the life we live. But I do not hold that they should conform to Hamlet's description, 'abstracts and brief chronicles of the time,' because now we have the newspapers to fill that want."

THE ARTIST'S RIGHT

When I questioned him about the refusal of George Raft, the moving picture actor, to act a part in Faulkner's "Sanctuary," because the role was not to his liking, Anderson thought Raft was right in taking suspension and a fine rather than submit.

"An artist has the right to refuse to do what his conscience detests."

That brought us to the question of profanity. There were several swear words in "What Price Glory." There are also several in "Both Your Houses."

"Well," said Anderson, "soldiers and Congressmen do swear, you know. If I let them 'lead in prayer,' everybody would know I was lying, and would laugh at me.' The sky in Washington is bluer than anywhere else in the U. S. A. There's a reason. As for soldiers, to swear is a sort of safety valve, and you know Queen Elizabeth swore terribly; I had to tone her down for 'Elizabeth the Queen.' I don't swear myself—well, hardly ever but sometimes I feel like it. Look at this new 10 per cent tax the New York Legislature wants to put on theater tickets. Do you want to kill the theater altogether."

"No," I suggested, "just get enough revenue to fill that four hundred million Pork Barrel in 'Both Your Houses.' And when they see your play, they'll double the tax."

"Then I suppose I'll have to run for Congress from Nevada," he said, as he started for the Nixon Theater to attend another rehearsal.

Young Group of I. K. S. To Play Comedy

Daily rehearsals of "Applesauce," three-act comedy by Barry Conners, are being conducted by the Young Players' Guild of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, under the direction of Josh Kane. It will be presented in the auditorium of the settlement Sunday evening.

Jehol Scenes On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Pictures of the latest developments of the Japanese-Chinese situation are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Chinese troops are shown advancing to make a last desperate resistance against the invasion by the Japenese of Jehol City, capital of the province. A comprehensive map shows the theater of war with The Globe Trotter giving an explanation of what is happening in the Far East.

Star athletes of track and field compete for titles at Madison Square Garden. In a nose-to-nose finish of the 1,500-meter dash, the two leaders, Venze and Cunningham, collapse on the floor as they cross the line, with Venzke a split second ahead. Ralph Metcalf is shown breaking the world's record for 60 meters and Keith Brown vaulting 13 feet 6 inches.

More appointees picked by President-elect Roosevelt are shown. Among them are Claude A. Swanson, James A. Farley, Lewis W. Douglas, of Arizona, to be director of the budget, whose talk predicts a swift return to prosperity when the budget is balanced under the new regime.

Jimmie (Schnozzle) Durante, busy as usual, is shown starting the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden in New York. He regrets he cannot ride himself, declaring he would nose them all out if he could!

First baseball pictures of the season show the Giants at Los Angeles, the Chicago Cubs at Cataalina, and the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles, where the star performer is Hans Wagner, who bangs out a few long hits.

From New Orleans come pictures of a new airplane device that gives would-be pilots a dizzy test.

Novarro Plans To Sing in Europe

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—With three tempting pictures dangled before him, Ramon Novarro tells me he probably will sign again with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer before he leaves for Europe this month.

Louis B. Mayer has spared no pains to line up good stories for the Mexican star. From Universal he bought "Laughing Boy," which Ramon always has wanted to make. From Jerome Kern and Sigmund Romberg he has just purchased "The Cat and the Fiddle," one of the outstanding American operettas; and finally he offers to let Ramon take a company to Mexico to direct and star in "The Sad Indian."

The directorial opportunity is a big inducement, for the Mexican star has long cherished ambitions in this direction.

Ramon's European concert-work will be informal half hours, something on the order of pre-war continental vaudeville. According to the star, Bob Richie has practically set his Paris appearance, but will sign nothing until Ramon's arrival.

Quite an entourage will accompany the star on his trip. There will be his brother, Edouardo, who his just finished a course in architecture; his cousin, George, and his secretary.

Clara Bow's homecoming party was even larger than we had supposed. She not only brought her twin cousins but an uncle as well. Even the Fox studio didn't expect the redhead to get off at San Bernardino. They were all set with photographers, etc., but it seems Clara didn't want to meet the press just then. For one thing, she has taken on 15 pounds. Reducing measures began yesterday, however, and the star expects to be ready as soon as Fox has a story for her. She has one more to do for this company, and is signed for two additional films with Sam Rork. While Rex Bell is looking for a house, the couple are staying with friends.

Helen Hayes finished "The White Sister" at 5 a. m., went on board a boat at 9 and sailed for the canal the next morning at 6 o'clock. Having gone down to see the MacArthurs off, Harry Ruby and Charles Lederer threw a fright into their studios by having wireless messages sent that they had decided to stay on the boat.

Charles Bennett, estranged spouse of Boots Mallory, is back in town . . . When the mother of Mrs. Ralph Bellamy (Catharine Willard) was taken critically ill in San Francisco, Bob Montgomery got Capt. Roscoe Turner to make an emergency night flight to the northern city. Due to Miss Willard's abscence, the Belasco Theater here had to delay the opening of "When Ladies Meet."

Ramon Novarro is seen as a young Chinese in "The Son-Daughter," Enright film in which he plays opposite Helen Hayes.

Nell O'Day Signed For Langdon Cast

Nell O'Day, whose performance in a Broadway musical comedy attracted the attention of a motion picture executive, who took her to Hollywood, has been signed as feminine lead for Harry Langdon. As a result of work opposite the sad-eyed comic, in his latest two-reeler, "Knight Duty," she was given a contract for the remaining Harry Langdon comedies on Educational's current program.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

ABOARD THE S. S. IZMIR, EGYPT-BOUND.—Let me present a few characters whom I have encountered of recent days. Some may prove interesting; others not. But that's the way of all who move through life, I guess. If one out of every four people we meet proves interesting to us, we're striking a pretty high average. So:

The orchestra leader on this boat. He plays the violin, and the three men who assist him on the other instruments must exist in his shadow. He is the attraction. He knows it. He senses it. He feels it. And he wants no interference from any of his underlings while he is the master mind.

The man is a Turk, and he speaks no language but Turkish. Yet he has many German characteristics, and the suspicion lingers that a German must have rested for a nap somewhere in the vicinity of his family tree.

He is thin, and small, and the little hair he has left is of a sandy color. He's a terrible musician, yet he is in love with his art. He plays at luncheon time, and at tea time at the bar, and during dinner, and then later at the bar again.

His salary? Your guess is as good as mine—and what difference anyhow? Ten dollars a month would be a great deal, but I don't think it would matter much to him if it were five. He lives on the boat. He eats and he sleeps. And as long as he could be certain of a little applause every now and then, I think he would even let that $10 go.

Tips? None, of course. These are lean days on the Turkish Mail Line. The summer does not bring too many customers, and the winter hardly any.

Last night, for dinner, there were but four of us in the dining room. The sea was exceptionally rough, and the few other passengers in the first-class cabins had decided to remain where they were.

But all that meant nothing to my friend, the orchestra leader.

His rendition was little less than brutal. The rest of his little orchestra was far behind him and, every time they turned a page, they went off on their own in order to catch up. It all seemingly made little difference to him. He kept fondling his violin and gesturing with his bow as though he were leading a symphonic orchestra in Carnegie Hall.

There was something very strange and infinitely pathetic about it all. Only four of us eating in the middle of that rough sea. Every now and then a porthole would blow open with a loud noise. Once a waiter dropped his platter with a very solid clatter. But on and on went that violin.

At the end, I applauded. The other three men looked at me in astonishment—but it wasn't mockery on my part. Far from it. It was something else entirely. It was as though I had given my last $5 bill to a family that was really starving.

As I applauded, the leader looked in my direction. He bowed, and no bow in all history ever had more meaning or a more stately deference. I saw the peculiar glint—and then I knew.

The man, heaven help him, is insane . . .

One of the passengers is a Turkish naval officer. He was completely outfitted the day we sailed and we got to talking shortly after the boat had left port. Since he was in the service, I asked him the question that I have asked so many others while I was in both Greece and Turkey.

"You're in the Turkish service," I said, "and maybe you can give me a straight answer. Are the Turks and the Greeks really friends now? Or will the same trouble crop out again as it did shortly after the war?"

He shook his head.

"Positively not," he replied. "We understand one another now, and we have definitely progressed since our private little war ended in 1923. The Greek admires the Turk—and the Turk admires the Greek. We are moving ahead to prosperity on that basis."

I looked at him.

"I'm glad to hear that," I asserted, "but I hope you're quite positive. Some of the things I've seen and heard do not quite bear out your statement. Are you quite sure?"

He smiled.

"Quite," he returned.

In the outskirts of Athens, the boat docked for a few hours. My Turkish naval officer was waiting to go ashore, and he was no longer wearing his uniform. He had donned civilian attire instead.

"What's the idea of the change?" I asked. "Yesterday, you—"

He interrupted me quickly.

"Shhh," he cautioned. "Those Greeks have spies everywhere. They'd never let me ashore with a naval uniform. You don't know what terrible people they really are."

Friends? . . .

There's a barber on this boat although, until this evening, I didn't know it. It's probably just as well because, on these seas, he'd probably be shaving a knee cap every time he reached for my face.

I learned the great secret when two Frenchmen, both of whom must be in second class because I haven't seen them since the boat pulled out, appeared on deck and took two chairs very close to where.

"Where is Jacques?" asked the first one impatiently.

"Thought I told you," replied the second. "He is downstairs getting the shave from the barber."

"Barber?" I heard the first one repeat rather incredulously. "Is there really a barber on this boat?"

The second one said there most certainly was. They drifted off into French for a few moments and I lost interest.

"Jacques," I heard them crying, "what has happen? What has that man do to you?"

I looked around at Jacques. And by his appearance, the outcry was reasonable enough. For the poor guy had evidently been given a shave that might have gone down in history. His face was positively raw, and several strips of the old-fashioned, white plaster were pasted on different spots around his kisser.

I couldn't catch Jacques' reply because it was offered most violently in French. He drew up a chair and kept talking and talking. Suddenly, as if remembering that he must talk in English as much as possible he went into our language again. And so help me, Hannah, this is what he said:

"The very second the barber is cut me the first time, I knew he was no good. But what could I do? Could I walk out from a shop where a shave and a tonic costs only three cents?"

Plays and Players :-: By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Five members of the cast of "Counsellor-at-Law," the Elmer Rice comedy coming to the Nixon Monday, know nothing about the depression. Unlike most actors, they have been working steadily for nearly four years, two of which were spent as players in Mr. Rice's previous success and Pulitzer prize winner, "Street Scene." Paul Muni is the star of "Counsellor-at-Law," which will be presented at Wednesday and Saturday matinees as well as night performances.

Franklin Hansen, sound expert for Paramount, says that feminine movie stars, regardless of complexion, must have "brunette" voices to achieve great success. He cites the deep, rich mellow voices of Great Garbo, Marlene Dietrich, Joan Blondell and other blondes who have "brunette" voices, as an example of what he means.

Ban 'Bank Sitting' As Means to Get Alimony

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(AP.)—The "bank sitting siege" of Mrs. Veora Daniels Casady was ended today by a court order.

Mrs. Casady maintained a daily vigil in a Wilshire bank where her divorced husband, Wayne A. Casady, is employed, in the hope of bringing about payment of $3,400 she claims is due her in back alimony.

Casady and his employers objected to the woman's presence in the bank. Judge H. Wilson in granting an injunction against Mrs. Casady, said that, while she had the right to attempt to collect any alimony due her, she must not sit determinedly in a place of business for the purpose of annoying her former mate.

'The Constant Woman' Now Is Title

"The Constant Woman" is the new title of World Wide's latest production, originally called "Auction in Souls," featuring Conrad Nagle, Claire Windsor, Leila Hyams and Tommy Conlon. It is based on the play, "Recklessness," by Eugene O'Neill.

The story concerns several members of a tent show troupe. Victor Schertzinger directed. Tommy Conlon, considered the most intelligent of the screen's dramatic juvenile actors, will be remembered for his excellent work in "Young America."

SUPPORT ASKED FOR PLAY SPOTS

Asking support for playgrounds as a measure to keep children happy and prevent delinquency, George H. Clapp and Taylor Allderdice dispatched letters to a number of Pittsburgh citizens today, in co-operation with the National Recreation Association, of New York.

Stating much youthful delinquency arises from thwarted play instinct, Clapp said:

"It is no economy to give up playgrounds and enlarge reformatories."

Other advantages accruing to better playground facilities were pointed out, as fewer child accidents resulting from street play, character training, and escape from the gloomy atmosphere now present in many homes.

COMMISSIONERS SLASH PAY OF SHERIFF'S SOLICITOR

CHINESE GIRL EXONERATED IN DOPE TRIAL

Fifth Avenue Student Collapses as Judge Clears Her Name

Charges of manufacturing smoking opium were ordered dropped against New Gee Lee, pretty 18-year-old Chinese girl, when her father, Lee Fook Chew, changed his plea to guilty at the trial of the pair in Federal District Court today. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker gave binding instructions to the jury, exonerating the girl. Her father will be sentenced later.

New Gee collapsed and had to be assisted from the courtroom as her father entered his plea.

The daughter is a graduate of Fifth Avenue High School. Two years ago when brought from China, she is the first Chinese girl or woman ever prosecuted in the Federal Court here.

For more than an hour at the opening session yesterday government narcotic agents and city detectives testified concerning a raid they made October 7, 1932, at the store and home of Chew at 515 Second avenue, seizing gum and smoking opium and other articles, including an alcohol lamp and a sauce pan. These articles were placed in evidence.

SOUGHT TO EXPLAIN

Much of the testimony concerned the sauce pan, which, witnesses said, contained a black substance, described as residue of gum opium, from which smoking opium is made.

When the lamp and sauce pan were seized, Miss Lee said she could explain about them and said she had been cooking creosote, it was testified. Then, according to testimony, the girl and her father talked in Chinese, and Miss Lee denied using the sauce pan.

In cross-examination Attorney W. H. Coleman, who with Attorney Robert M. Ewing is defense counsel, questioned witnesses as to whether the girl referred to the sauce pan or alcohol lamp.

AGENTS TESTIFY

In the prosecution of the case the government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz. Among the government witnesses were Narcotic Agents Harry Sterling and David Rush; City Detectives Walter Monoghan and William Egan, and Agent Duffy, who is in charge of the Pittsburgh district.

Chew pleaded guilty today to a second indictment charging that he shipped gum opium to other cities. He will be sentenced March 16. His son, Lee George Chick, and Lee Jack Chew (no relation), also indicted on the charge, pleaded not guilty.

PAUL MELLON, FRIENDS FAIL WITH CAFES

'Inn-N-Out' Creditors To Be Paid in Full, Says Lawyer

In and out of the restaurant business today were Paul Mellon and associates, as constables' distraint warrants decorated the windows of their "Inn-N-Out" eating houses, at Fifth avenue and Wood street, and 140 Sixth street.

Not "out," however, are the restaurant's creditors, who will be paid out of the pockets of the young men, their legal advisor stated.

VENTURE ENDS

So ends a venture inaugurated last July by Paul Mellon, James McKay, George Wycoff, Leonard Mudge, scions of names famous in the social and business world. With A. Seraphic, the four above constituted the directors of the Ranch System, Inc., which operated the restaurants. The corporation will be dissolved.

Paul Mellon owned 14 of the shares, of which 100 were to be issued at $100 each, according to the corporation charter. Mellon is now in Europe.

FEW ASSETS

Five per cent on the dollar was all creditors could have expected, had legal proceedings been followed, the attorney said.

As for the leasing companies, they will have to make up their loss from the seizure of equipment.

Among other stockholders were J. Albert McKay, Andrew Ross, Arthur Vossberg, Nick Williams and Joseph Pozza.

Some $5,000 beyond that provided for by the sale of stock had been sunk in the venture by the stockholders, the attorney admitted.

Advantageous Rate Agreement Reached With Pennsylvania

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE
By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

Carnegie now embarked on a third attempt to place Pittsburgh in the "competitive" class. The two previous essays had taught him one lesson, and that was not to project new railroads in partnership, and above all not in partnership with other railroad capitalists, and this time he was proceeding on his own. Control of a broken down property was secured, the Pittsburgh, Shenango and Lake Erie Railroad, extending from Conneaut Harbor on the lake, to a town, Butler, about 30 miles north of the Edgar Thomson Works.

It was now proposed to reconstruct this caricature—for it was little less—into a modern transportation line, and build southward until all the Carnegie mills were reached. Largely owing to Frick's enterprise, the serviceable Union Railway had been built, connecting the several Carnegie properties; it seemed a feasible scheme to link the new Shenango acquisition with this plant line, which meant that all the works would have independent access to the external world. In its northward progress the revitalized Shenango would articulate with several non-Pennsylvania systems and thus put the Carnegie products in touch with the American nation. At several strategic points, trains loaded with Carnegie freight would neatly slide off the tracks of the refurbished Shenango and find themselves on the Lake Shore, the Nickel Plate, the Wabash, the Erie and other lines. This was the more far-reaching plan, but the immediate purpose was to provide a highway for bringing Lake Superior ore to the blast furnace.

P. R. R. Alarmed

The program was something new in American railroading; a freight line built exclusively to serve one great property, the Carnegie company and its affiliations. Even the Pennsylvania autocrats, after examining this comprehensive project took alarm. Following a natural impulse, Messrs. Roberts and Thomson brought their grievance to the sympathetic Frick. Carnegie was behaving most unfairly. How could he contemplate a step like this without giving his ancient playmates an opportunity to be heard? Were they not large purchasers of Carnegie materials, especially rails, and as such entitled to consideration? But probably the whole proceeding was a bluff, whose only purpose was the enforcement of lower rates. Well, the Pennsylvania was prepared to climb down a little; perhaps something, after all, could be done to mollify Pittsburgh.

If Carnegie would abandon this unfriendly scheme, Frick was authorized to promise a revision of rates in which the Carnegie company would fare well. Frick, much pleased at this changed temper, suggested that the olive branch be accepted. He telegraphed Carnegie, then in Florida, strongly advocating the Pennsylvania's compromise. The reply came with disconcerting promptness. "Henry Phipps, Jr., and Andrew Carnegie jointly bound. Written guarantee. Contract will be executed. Board is not free to negotiate with the Pennsylvania Company..."

Drys Seize Liquor In Raid on Attic

Sixty-seven gallons of whisky, 36 pints of gin and 624 bottles of beer were confiscated by prohibition agents in a raid on a garage and its attic in Cajou way, North Side, last night.

In a Reedsdale street speakeasy, the agents reported seizing 100 bottles of beer and four gallons of moonshine. A 20-gallon still and five gallons of moonshine were found in a dwelling in Carrol street, Millvale.

No Use Fishing Without Bait, G. O. P. Learns

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The fading crop of Republican officeholders is fleeing to the hills. They know they haven't got a chance with the boxing commissioner who invented the no-foul rule.

It is tough. But it is politics. There is no use hanging around the fishing pond when you have run out of bait.

Yet, we feel sadful and sorrish for the poor old Republicans. Around 1928 it started to look like a steady job.

They were like the famous old commandant of League Island Navy Yard. He lived on government property so long that when he died he willed it to his son.

And that's how the Republicans felt about it. After twelve years they thought they had established the right of eminent partisan domain.

But that theory has been shattered like Christmas tree ornaments in a moving van. The boys are on their way to the political guillotine.

And like Marie Antoinette they realize that a tumbril ain't no chummy roadster.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor Sun-Telegraph:
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 2.

I hear the inauguration is to be put off three weeks on account of the budget. Everytime Detroit outgrows Henry Ford, he has to go in and save 'em again. He is going to have a bank where you can leave your money, and come back and find it before the banker does.

Will Rogers

Al Smith told exactly what his ideas were on every important question. No wonder he can't be elected. Imagine a man in public office and everybody knowing where he stood. We wouldn't call him a statesman, we would call him a curiosity.

Yours, WILL.

DIABETES TRIAL IN FOURTH DAY

At the opening this morning of the fourth day of the trial in Federal Court of Leo Banks Barlett, of Dormont, charged with violating the food and drug act, indications were that the government would not close its case before tomorrow afternoon. Barlett is charged with misbranding preparations called "Banbar," placed on the market as a cure for diabetes.

The testimony of Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, of Boston, clinical professor of medicine, Harvard Medical School, a government witness, was heard by many physicians and others who attended yesterday's session. He testified he found no ingredients of "Banbar" of value in treatment of diabetes.

Dr. Joslin, recognized as an international authority on treatment of diabetes, said that he has 14,000 diabetic cases under his supervision.

Mrs. Pridgeon, widow of the Rev. Charles H. Pridgeon, founder and head of the Evangelization Society, took over the work of her husband a year ago, following his death. She was a former resident of Philadelphia and member of the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Pridgeon also was in charge of two out stations of the Bible Institute at Gibsonia. Missionaries from the institute went to all parts of the United States, Canada, China, India and Africa.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Philadelphia.

SERVES COUNTY 44 YEARS; FIRED

Forty-four years of service with the county was ended today for Mrs. Amelia McCullough, matron at the county morgue. She was let out in the economy drive of the Commissioners, and today at her home, 239 Suncrest street, she fondled a string of peals, the gift of morgue and Coroner's office employes. They were presented to her by Coroner W. J. McGregor.

Mrs. McCullough first obtained employment in the old Courthouse before it was burned. She resigned after marriage, and later when she became a widow, again became a county employe in the present Courthouse. She moved to the morgue years ago.

As matron at the morgue she had witnessed many tragedies. When women came to the morgue to claim bodies of relatives she frequently was called upon to minister to their needs.

Mrs. McCullough is eligible for a pension, but owing to the uncertain condition of the county pension fund, it may be some time before she is able to draw the money. Plans are under way to restore the pension fun to a solid foundation.

COYNE BACKER LOWEST PAID LEGAL AIDE

Deputies Spared $7 Cut as One Makes Own Reduction

Over the objections of Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar and Controller Robert G. Woodside, the County Commissioners today reduced the Salary of the Sheriff's solicitor, B. Robert Averbach, from $4,500 to $3,000.

This makes Averbach's salary lower than that of any other County Solicitor. The Commissioners yesterday refused to reduce the $8,000 salary of their own solicitor, J. P. Fife.

COYNE FOLLOWER

Averbach is a political follower of Senator James J. Coyne.

The Commissioners granted Gollmar's request to eliminate the $7 monthly cut suggested for the deputy sheriffs, who draw $160. Gollmar announced that his real estate deputy, Thomas Drew, would take a voluntary 15 per cent cut in his $6,000 salary.

The Commissioners, bent on equalization of salaries, devoted most of their attention today to the offices of the Coroner, the Sheriff and the District Attorney.

After riding rough shod over Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster when he sought to fight for the employes in his office, the Commissioners were halted by Coroner William J. McGregor, who refused to meet in salary board session until he had an opportunity to look over the recommendations the Commissioners had already agreed upon for his office.

QUICK ACTION

Beginning with their own offices the Commissioners slashed rapidly and drastically, eliminating scores of jobs and slashing virtually every salary.

In the same quick manner an attempt was made to pass over the county solicitors, permitting the solicitors to remain at their present salaries, except in two instances. Here Commissioner W. D. Mansfield objected, declaring he had advocated a 15 per cent cut for all the solicitors and would refuse to pass a schedule that left the attorneys at their present compensation. The prepared schedule cut $500 from the $7,000 salary of Mortimer B. Lesher, special counsel, and added it to the $4,500 salary of John H. Lauer, another assistant solicitor.

Mansfield also made it clear that he did not like the idea of having to give up his own chauffeur and cut his secretary's salary while Chairman McGovern retained his chauffeur and kept his secretary at the former salary. This was passed over Mansfield's objection.

The position of chief clerk, which was held by Barney Harkins and which paid $3,600, was eliminated in the Recorder of Deeds' department. Through equalization of salaries in his office they cut $13,208 from the budget and from elimination of jobs they saved $72,724.

In addition to fighting for their solicitors, McGovern and Barr have fought with Mansfield over keeping the department directors at their present $8,000 salaries and the five members of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes at their present rate of $5,000. Also the Commissioners refused to cut the $4,000 salary of Leo Riordan; Urban Dice, head of the Department of Weights and Measures, $3,000; Regis Welsh, personnel officer, $3,000, and W. A. Rucker, chief of the county police.

YESTERDAY'S CUTS

Among those cut yesterday were E. A. Griffith, chief maintenance engineer, from $6,500 to $5,000; James Morgan, contracts division, from $2,400 to $2,100; County Planning Engineer E. L. Schmitt, $5,500 to $5,000; H. H. Leith, assistant road engineer, $3,600 to $3,000; John F. O'Tool, superintendent of asphalt plants, from $4,000 to $3,600; William S. Haddock, athletic supervisor, county parks, $3,600 to $3,000, and Superintendent C. H. W. Ruhe of Memorial Hall.

In eliminating jobs the Commissioners cut nine positions from the Elections Bureau, five jobs from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles; 15 from maintenance of the City-County Building; one from maintenance of the morgue; four from maintenance of Memorial Hall; eight eliminated in operation of the County Office Building; 10 in the general office of the Property Department; five in the Aviation Department; 12 jobs eliminated in North Park and 14 in South Park; four in the Road Department general office; 20 in the road Engineering Division; one position in the Purchasing Department; one inspector in Weights and Measures Department; 20 in maintenance of courthouse and three in Bureau of Accounts. The board added six county policemen.

Half of Trial Costs Put On Squire for Advice

Half the costs of a case in Criminal Court were placed on a justice of the peace who had advised the prosecutor to bring the action, after Visiting Judge C. M. Culver, of Bradford County, told the jury the courts were clogged with trivial actions, and advised them they could hold that the squire was the real prosecutor.

William Ashley, 30, of Indiana Township, had been charged with aggravated assault and battery by Anthony Tasker, of 2903 Spring Garden avenue, who said he had been injured when his and Ashley's automobiles collided in Etna, October 19.

Judge Culver directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty, then recalled Tasker and asked who advised him to have Ashley arrested. He said it was Justice of the Peace Eugene C. Mehrlich, of Millvale. The judge told the jury:

"The courts are clogged with petty cases. People are told, as this man no doubt was, that he might as well bring suit because it will cost him nothing. The District Attorney will be his lawyer and the county will pay the witness fees. If you think Squire Mehrlich was the real prosecutor, you can place the costs on him."

The jury divided the costs between the squire and the defendant.

Jig-Saw Halts Fugitive, Police Catch Up

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., March 2.—(AP.)—Lingering over a jig-saw puzzle, Earl Green, 38, who authorities say is wanted in several counties for forgery, was recaptured late yesterday in a South Williamsport home.

Being taken to Berwick for a hearing, from his home at La Porte on Monday, Green jumped out of Constable H. L. Houseknecht's car and fled afoot. It was the second time he had escaped from the La Porte constable.

He was arrested today on a "tip" received by Harry Weisenberger, Williamsport policeman, who notified County Detective C. E. Whipple. With other officers, they surrounded the house and caught the fugitive.

State troopers who arrested Green last Sunday, called at the Lycoming County Jail and identified him as the man who is wanted on forgery charges. He is being held tonight at the jail.

'FIRST LADY'S' ACTIVITIES TOLD BY ROSAMOND PINCHOT

MRS. ROOSEVELT TO LESSEN FORMALITY

Rosamond Pinchot, noted beauty, leader of New York's younger social set, and niece of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, writes exclusively for Universal Service an intimate portrait of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

By ROSAMOND PINCHOT

(Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, March 2.—If you happen to be a woman, you probably are wondering these days what it would be like to be Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Would you be happy and excited?

Maybe you'd be a little frightened.

How would you live your life, once you were there?

Thousands of women in every part of the country are wondering, trying to imagine how they would feel in Mrs. Roosevelt's shoes. Perhaps they envy her. Perhaps they sympathize.

I was wondering, too. So I went down to Mrs. Roosevelt's office on Madison avenue here in New York.

BUSY BUT TRANQUIL

Although she probably is the busiest woman in America just now, Mrs. Roosevelt sat and talked with me. Next door typewriters were clicking, secretaries were answering tall piles of mail, telephones were ringing, but Mrs. Roosevelt spoke unhurriedly.

Her voice is gentle, rather low. She gives you the impression of a thoughtful, highly disciplined person. There is something very lovely about her brow and her clear blue eyes. I have never see a photograph of her that did her justice. She seems always friendly and serene.

Tomorrow the Roosevelt clan will move to Washington. I couldn't possibly tell you how many there are in all. Some people say that with all the cousins and in-laws, there will be over a hundred Roosevelt relations at the inauguration.

The next President and Mrs. Roosevelt have five children—four sons, all over six feet, and one daughter. The two eldest sons, James and Elliott, will travel to Washington with their pretty young wives. The next two, Franklin and John, are still at Groton School.

DAUGHTER ALSO TALL

Anna Roosevelt Dall, the President-elects only daughter, is in her early twenties. Her husband, Curtis Dall, is a young New York banker. She is tall, too; has her mother's energy and her father's eyes; and the loveliest naturally blonde hair I ever have seen.

The family will go to the capital by train tomorrow afternoon.

Then, at about 11 o'clock on the morning of March 4, the next President and his wife will be driven in an official car to the White House.

It probably will be in the green room that the Hoovers will be waiting for the Roosevelts. There will be no ceremony, no handing over of keys, but just a greeting before they start out together for the inauguration.

And so a new regime will begin.

FORMALITY TO DECREASE

It will be a less formal regime than the White House has known for many a day. The Roosevelts are lively, natural people. They are not the sort that care for pomp. So probably many of the stiff customs that have made White House entertainment a doubtful pleasure will sink into disuse under Mrs. Roosevelt.

There may be a change in the etiquet for state dinners. For instance, in the past guests were required to remain standing until the President—actually preceded by a trumpeter—had entered. As the President never made his appearance until after the last guest had arrived, the more prompt arrivals often had to stand as long as 40 minutes.

BRING FEW POSSESSIONS

Characteristically, the Roosevelts are bringing very few things to the White House. Practically the only furniture to be moved in will be Mrs. Roosevelt's bedroom set. It comes from Val Kill, the factory that she and Miss Nancy Cook run near Hyde Park, N. Y. Like all Val Kill furniture, it is in the early American style.

Of course the new President will have his famous collection of ship prints. So far it hasn't been decided what room they will adorn.

The Hoovers had 33 servants to run the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt is cutting the number to 23. Salaries have been reduced 25 per cent.

Ten of the servants have been with the Roosevelts for years. There is, for instance, James Reynolds, the smiling butler who used to open the door in the Roosevelt New York house. And there is the President's valet and Mrs. Roosevelt's personal maid.

Supervising the household will be Mrs. Henry F. Nesbitt and her husband. They are a middle-aged couple from Hyde Park, who have been neighbors of the Roosevelts for a long time. Mr. Nesbitt will be known as "custodian and chief clerk." It will be his duty to keep the White House accounts.

Mrs. Nesbitt will do all the ordering for the White House. She will go to market every day.

TYPICAL DAY

If the weather is fine, she will get up at 7 and go for a ride in Rock Creek Park. She loves riding. Two saddle horses, one called Dot and the other Patches, are being brought to Washington from the stables at Hyde Park.

If it rains, Mrs. Roosevelt will sleep a little longer. Then she may do some exercises to the radio.

Breakfast is at 8. She probably will have it with the President and he probably will eat scrambled eggs, his favorite food.

After breakfast Mrs. Nesbitt, the housekeeper, will come to discuss meals and menus for the day.

From 10 until 1 Mrs. Roosevelt will be with her secretary and "right-hand woman," Miss Malvina Thompson. There will be the unending flow of mail. Most of the letters, of course, will be pleas for help.

FREQUENT ENTERTAINING

Luncheon will be at 1. Two or three times a week there will be official guests. The President's wife will entertain the wives of Senators, diplomats and cabinet officers in the dining room on the main floor.

But if she is alone or with a friend, Mrs. Roosevelt probably will eat upstairs. The second floor is the home and haven of presidential families. Sight-seers can go through the lower floor at certain hours, but unless personally invited, no one is allowed to go to the second.

PRESS CONFERENCES

In the afternoon, probably once a week, Mrs. Roosevelt will have a press conference.

She will see mainly women reporters. Politics will not be discussed.

After the conference, there may be official calls, or Mrs. Roosevelt may go to see how work on the new swimming pool is progressing. Or she may visit the Senate. Wherever she goes, she will be accompanied by at least one member of the secret service.

In the late afternoon, there will be tea in one of the main rooms of the White House, for invited guests.

And somehow, between all her duties, the first lady will find time to go on with her private and family interests. While she is in Washington, she will still be a director of the Val Kill furniture factory and of the Todhunter School in New York.

EVENINGS FILLED

Evenings in the White House are likely to be busy too. In an effort to simplify their lives, the Roosevelts have decided to accept no official invitations. This means that they won't dine at embassies or at the houses of senators or cabinet officers. But, of course, there will be many official banquets in the great dining room of the White House.

I wonder if the President will continue to practice the art of carving when he entertains at the White House. Once at his house in Hyde Park I saw and marveled at the way he carved a turkey for 20 people.

By 11:30, the official day will be over. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will have said goodnight to the last guest. The butlers will have locked the front door. Sentinels will pace up and down in front of the White House.

MR. AND MRS. ROOSEVELT . . . . ROSAMOND PINCHOT TODAY TELLS INTIMATELY OF THEM

POSTS IN HOUSE SOUGHT BY ELLENBOGEN

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representative-elect Henry Ellenbogen, of Pittsburgh, whose right to take his seat may be challenged when the new session convenes, today informed Democratic leaders of the chamber that he will insist upon a place either on the Appropriations or the Judiciary Committee.

FACES OPPOSITION

Ellenbogen's credentials may be challenged as a result of a memorial filed with Congress recently by Estep, who asserted Ellenbogen has not completed the Constitutional requirement for Congress membership of having lived in the United States seven years since obtaining citizenship papers. Ellenbogen said today:

"In view of the Estep memorial I expect to see some Republican challenge my right to take the oath, but regardless of what action the House takes I intend to perform all duties of a congressman, even though deprived of the privilege of voting."

PERIOD NEAR END

Ellenbogen explained that the threatened challenge would only apply until June, when he will complete the required seven years' period. He said:

"If they want to deprive me of the right to vote simply on this technicality, I will have to wait until June, but in the meantime I intend to attend committee meetings and perform other functions."

Citing the importance of Pennsylvania as a federal revenue producing state, Ellenbogen said he would feel justified in demanding a place on one of the two most important House committees. He declared:

"If I can get a place on either Appropriations or Judiciary, I may decline any other committee assignments. Pennsylvania is entitled to recognition and I shall demand consideration as a new Democratic representative of the state."

ETHEL DIVERTS FUND TO SON

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—The condition of the theater, according to Ethel Barrymore, makes it necessary for her to divert the income from a trust fund for the support of her son, John Drew Colt, 19.

Permission to do so was obtained from Surrogate James A. Foley yesterday. The income amounts to $2,700.

The trust fund of $50,000 was established for the youth by his grandfather, the late Samuel P. Colt.

The actress told the court she would rather have the income accumulate but that as her own income consists solely of her own earnings in the theater, and in view of conditions in the entertainment world, it is impossible for her to provide for her son's support.

Miss Barrymore said that the decree of divorce of herself and Russell Griswold Colt provided no alimony and that Colt is providing nothing toward the support and education of their son.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 2.—(AP.)—The Journal today said Andrew J. KEATON INSISTS HE'S MARRIED

EL PASO, Tex., March 2.—(AP.)—Buster Keaton, film comedian, and his former nurse, Mae Scriven, insisted today they had been married January 8 at Ensenada, Mex., despite the denial of Judge Francis Maytorena there.

The bride said:

"Buster made arrangements to keep the marriage out of the records. His secretary, Jack Todd, United Artists Studio, Beverly Hills, Cal., has the license."

Because his divorce from Natalie Talmadge is not final in California, the couple plan to live apart when they return to Hollywood.

The new Mrs. Keaton said:

"I'll keep my apartment."

Keaton declared:

"And I'll stay at the country club."

A habeas corpus hearing obtained to resist the deportation of Frank Borich, national secretary of the National Miners Union, was continued yesterday until March 15, because of a crowded Federal Court calendar.

Wife Stops Husband From Moving House

MORRIS, Ill., March 2.—(AP.)—It was a moving scene, said Mrs. Alex Bretto. So moving that she marched right down to court and got a warrant for Alex Bretto, house mover, who was promptly put in jail.

Judge Smith to Talk At Founder's Event

Judge Ralph H. Smith will be among the speakers at the founder's day celebration of the Eminent Body of the Star and Crescent, in the Utility Hall, Sixth avenue, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. At the meeting, open to the public, there will be recitations and other entertainment.

Pearlman, manager of Alex's Garage, Eighth avenue, Munhall, was found in the rear of the garage beside a tire which he was repairing, last night. The motor of the automobile was running. He was rushed to the Homested Hospital where attendants worked all night with oxygen to revive him.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—A default judgment for $13,506 for clothing purchased by his wife had been entered against former Mayor James J. Walker in Supreme Court today. The judgment was obtained by Hattie Carnegie, fashionable shop.

Previously, the court denied a motion to vacate the judgment filed by counsel for the former Mayor, now vacationing abroad writing his memoirs, on the ground that personal service was not attempted by the creditors.

GANG BULLETS SLAY GIRL

CLEVELAND, March 2.—(AP.)—Gangster guns spurted death today for Elizabeth Hadady, 20, and Frank Scaravelli, 38.

PRESBYTERIANS TO CONVENE IN COLUMBUS

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—(AP.)—Seeking to effect economies, the general council of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. yesterday voted to hold this year's general assembly in Columbus, O., instead of Fort Worth, Tex.

The council also decided that the assembly, which is to meet May 25, is to close May 29, two days earlier than usual.

Savings of $30,000 to $60,000 will be effected by the transfer and curtailment of sessions, the Rev. Dr. C. Franklin Ward, of New York, secretary of the council, estimated.

The invitation of the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus, was accepted.

Salary reductions of 10 per cent for all assembly employes were voted for the coming fiscal year, starting April 1. A similar cut was made a year ago.

The council also decided to curtail activities of the promotional staff to effect an $80,000 savings, and to abolish the Presbyterian Magazine, only official publication of the church. The monthly journal lost $18,000 this year, it was reported.

J. William Smith, of Philadelphia, chairman of the budget and finance committee, reported that the official boards of the church had reduced overhead expenses $600,000 during the year, making a two-year economy in expenditures of $2,000,000.

Two Youths Guilty In Counterfeit Case

Angelo Castagnola, 23, of Carnegie street, and Samuel Tedesco, 20, of Apple street, were convicted in Federal Court yesterday of possessing and passing counterfeit $10 Federal Reserve Bank notes. Seven government witnesses told of being offered the bogus currency. The youths were arrested May 27, after spurious notes were passed in Pittsburgh, Swissvale, Braddock and Rankin.

Thirteen fake notes were found in Tedesco's automobile, it was testified. The pair will be sentenced later by Judge Nelson McVicar.

'CASTLE' BUILT IN CLASSROOM

A new wrinkle in architecture instruction is being tried at Carnegie Tech.

Prof. Kimdred McLeary and Prof. Robert Schnertz, instead of taking their students outside to paint buildings, build miniature structures in the class room out of toy blocks. Prof. McLeary said in explaining the advantages of the new method:

"We have found it excellent for teaching architecture form and composition. We can build any kind of a building we want the students to paint in a few minutes."

So far a medieval castle, a classic ruin and a building similar to the ones which will be featured at the World Fair have been built from the tiny wood blocks. Prof. Schnertz said:

SLAYER OF TWO DIES IN CHAIR

MICHIGAN City, Ind., March 2.—John E. Moore, 29-year-old slayer of his uncle and aunt, calmly went to his death in the electric chair at the Indiana State Prison here shortly after midnight today.

Moore's last plea for life was denied late yesterday at Indianapolis by Gov. Paul V. McNutt. A petition for commutation, presented by the slayer's father, Ray L. Moore, of Detroit, was denied by the executive.

The killing occurred last November 12, at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Moore near Pennville, Ind. Their nephew concealed himself in the house and killed them with a shotgun when they returned from evening chores.

SOCIETY GIRL HELD NOT SLAIN

SEATTLE, Wash., March 2.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury has decided that Miss Mary Fitzgerald, leader of the younger social set in Tacoma, came to her death "by reason of drowning, presumably accidental."

Detective W. H. Sears testified at the inquest yesterday that, in his opinion, she "jumped or fell" into Puget Sound. He declared:

"I am confident she was not slain."

Shortly after the Junior League president's body was found on the beach between Tacoma and Seattle last week, Claude V. Allen, Tacoma business man, committed suicide.

Sears testified Allen's wife had threatened a divorce with the girl to be named as co-respondent, but was persuaded to abandon the plan when Miss Fitzgerald told her "it would kill my parents."

The detective said the reported "love triangle" had been investigated, but said:

"We are not interested in scandal. We are interested only in how she died."

Retrial to Be Asked In Conspiracy Case

William J. Kearns, of Division street, Crafton, was to file a motion for a new trial today, following his conviction in Criminal Court of conspiracy to defraud.

Josef Lhevinne offers the first movement of Beethoven's majestic Piano Concerto No. 1 in C major as a highlight of his weekly recital over KDKA at 11:30 p. m. Two short compositions—Liszt's Etude de Concert in F minor, and the Schubert-Liszt "Hark, Hark the Lark"—round out Lhevinne's program. He is accompanied by a 50-piece orchestra directed by Frank Black.

And now . . . it has been predicted by someone high up in the radio councils that within 60 days two-thirds of the present crop of air comedians won't be air comedians any more.

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

More answers to problems today. The interesting thing to note is the various methods of reasoning used to arrive at the same result. Mrs. James McNaul coldly reasons her way to right solution, while with a few simple formulas, in which are interspersed plenty of X and Y's, But J. Nevins mathematically meets all puzzles. Angela Cipolette, of Uniontown, contents herself simply by writing the answers. Notice that today after the five men and a monkey question the mail concerning answers for that is conspicious by its absence.

Or that one that I always had a sneaking suspicion might work, the freshly fried onions rubbed on the chest.

Georgie Price To Ballyhoo For Beer

By AIRCASTER

Ten nationally prominent American musicians, headed by John Erskine and Mary Garden, are slated for a weekly series of talks on singing to start on WCAE Sunday at 4 p. m. The broadcasts are intended "to meet the growing interest throughout the nation in vocal music" . . . Jeannie Lang and Tom Howard will be co-starred in a musical-dramatic series opening on the same station a week from tomorrow night.

Ben Bernie and all the lads hold forth at the Aragon Club's dance in the Hotel Schenley tonight from 10 to 2 . . and Don Bigelow breezes into town for the P. C. W. prom at the Schenley ballroom tomorrow night.

Leon Errol, he of the ambidexterous knees who's turning his tricks on his voice, will remain on the Sanderson-Crumit bill following his hit of this week.

Life of Andrew Carnegie

By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Carnegie, when conditions made it necessary, could bluff as cheerfully as any man, but this was one of the occasions when his teeth were set.

Perhaps Carnegie was mindful of a personal call made on President Roberts some months previously, before deciding on this program. At this meeting he had made a final plea for better treatment, giving the Pennsylvania executive a written description of his complaints and requests. Mr. Roberts brushed it aside.

"I have enough business of my own to attend to, Andy," he remarked, refusing to look at the document. "I don't wish to have anything to do with yours."

Carnegie rose in his most frigid manner. "All right, Mr Roberts," he said, accenting the "Mr."—"When you wish to see me again you will ask for an interview. Good morning."

McCague's Service

The plan for the new road took immediate form. And now, as he had predicted, Messrs. Roberts and Thomson asked for an interview. For this encounter Carnegie was well prepared. That Western competitors were receiving secret rebates, on the strength of which they went below his bids, Carnegie well knew, but the precise figures were locked deeply in the railroad's archives. This information he was determined to obtain. At that time a young man, and a clever one, George McCague, had charge of traffic matters for the Carnegie company. McCague was summoned and informed that the favorable moment had come to win his spurs. "I must have the exact rebates that are being paid our competitors in Chicago, Cleveland and other places," Carnegie told McCague. "You must obtain them. How you are to get them I don't know and don't care. But I must have them."

As McCague left the presence, promising to secure the imperative details, Carnegie's voice, quoting from one of his favorite plays, "Richelieu," followed him out of the door:

"... From the hour
I grasp that packet, think your guardian star
Rains fortune on you!"

In a brief period McCague placed the desired statistics in Carnegie's hands. From that day to this no one has ever learned how he obtained these, the closest of all railroad secrets. The service was so great that, in due course, McCague was admitted to partnership in the Carnegie Steel Company. Almost simultaneously with the arrival of this confidential information, came the letter from Frank Thomson requesting a consultation. Safeguarding his ammunition in an inside pocket, Carnegie took the train for Broad Street Station in Philadelphia. The ensuing results can best be described in his own words:

An Agreement Made

"The result of that meeting was that I got all I asked for, and greatly obliged the Pennsylvania Railroad by allowing them to retain transportation of our own coke traffic from the coke fields to Pittsburgh. Everything was satisfactorily arranged and we were all 'boys together' again. I was the ally of the P. R. R. much to my delight. It was estimated that the agreement saved us about one and a half millions of dollars per year, a very large sum upon our business then . . . It was impossible, I am told, for the railroad company to do anything, however, but charge the regular rates on some of our shipments as made, and at the end of each month to compare these rates with any they had given to others, or which we could show their competitors had given to others, for similar traffic. Therefore, the necessary deductions, if any, that had to be made to us, might be considered in one sense technically 'rebates' upon the higher rates charged, although not such in any true sense; for the net result to us was that, according to the agreement, we got just the rates that the Pennsylvania Railroad officials were satisfied our competitors were paying in other districts over other lines."

Thus, by agreeing to abandon the 30-mile spur to Connellsville, a side issue which, like a skillful diplomat, he had kept for trading purposes, Carnegie emancipated himself from the huge overcharges that had been paid for years. But the greater undertaking was not abandoned. The independent railway from Pittsburgh to the lakes—renamed the Pittsburgh, Bessemer and Lake Erie—relaxed the Pennsylvania's grip in the transportation of raw materials, and from this time forward it carried little Carnegie ore.

In the succeeding years, and now—for the Bessemer line is a much prized possession of the United States Steel Corporation—this highway was the scene of an endless series of trains, taking ore from the Conneaut docks to all the Carnegie furnaces, and returning loaded with coke for the northern market. The fact that the several works, soon after it was built, consumed nearly 15,000 tons of ore a day gives some indication of the resultant savings.

Quickly Built

The road was built in 15 months, Carnegie subscribing two-thirds of the cost out of his private purse, and so complete was its equipment, grades, roadbed, in everything, indeed, that makes an efficient, up-to-date carrier, that it became popularly known as "Carnegie's model railroad." For years a rate of "three mills per ton per mile" had been demanded, yet the Bessemer line was soon performing the service at a third that amount, and in the entire mileage of the United States it established a record for the lowest expense in handling freight.

Carnegie summed up its significance in a single phrase: "Today," he said, when the first ore train started from Conneaut Harbor to Braddock, "Pittsburgh becomes a lake port."

The embarrassing weakness in his system, the distance between furnaces and ore supply, had now been bridged. While the Bessemer line was under construction, vast additional ore fields in the Northwest had been acquired, the richest mines in the new ranges, the Gogebic and the Vermilion, having passed into the company's already plethoric hands. To transport these and other non-Rockefeller ores a splendid fleet of lake steamers had been built, and thus this one steel company had under its jurisdiction a well rounded transportation system from Lake Superior ports to the works. The effect of these several routes in lowering the prices of completed products can hardly be over-emphasized.

"Pittsburgh is to be once more the best point for manufacturing and marketing steel," Carnegie wrote Frank Thomson, November 12, 1896. "This railroad has saved our property." It had, in fact, saved Pittsburgh as the great American entrepot for steel. A few years more and railroad discriminations would have ruined it. The Carnegie firm had secured another tremendous asset, the importance of which was to become manifest in five or six years.

In order to secure dockage facilities on Lake Erie the Bessemer road purchased practically all the shore front of the town of Conneaut. This was perhaps the first time in history when a single interest had bought an entire harbor, and one of unusual value. When Carnegie heard the news he immediately wired his associates: "Congratulation. Dock worth millions." How many millions even he did not anticipate, but ownership of Conneaut Harbor was one of the main facts which led to the creation of the United States Steel Corporation.

PIRATE EXAMPLE SWAYS OTHER CLUBS

WHEN OTHER MAJOR league clubs started to reduce their coaching staffs as a means of paring expenses, the Pittsburgh management not only retained its old employes in that department, but took on an additional coach in the person of Honus Wagner. The example appears to have had a far-reaching influence, as other outfits in the two big circuits have since taken back a number of the men they once dismissed or replaced them with coaches dropped by rival clubs.

Eddie Rommel

Not so many of the veterans will be missing from major fields this year as seemed probable a couple of months ago. Coming back in a coaching role to the A's, the club that dropped him early in the winter, Eddie Rommel is the latest addition to the list of discards who have been brought back from the ranks of the unemployed. Jimmy Burke, released by the Yankees, has been reappointed, Clyde Wares has been taken back by the Cardinals. Jewel Ens, dropped by the Tigers, has been signed by the Reds. Jimmy Austin, cast adrift by the Browns, has found a job with the White Sox. John Schulte, let out by the Braves, has become a coach for the Cubs, and Muddy Ruel, dismissed by the Tigers, has been picked up by the Browns.

EVERYBODY IN THE Pirate camp continues to show amazement at the rejuvenation of Honus Wagner. At the age of 59, the old boy is reported to be as ardent in the workouts as any rookie, and he has astounded the onlookers by hitting liners so hard that the fielders have had difficulty in handling them.

Of course, it isn't anything like mid-season pitching that Wagner is batting against, but as a matter of fact his tremendous hitting power had not left him when he went out in 1917. He still had the eye and the swing, and his throwing arm, too, remained good. It was only because his legs had gone back on him that Honus had to hang up his big league suit.

ANOTHER PIRATE WHO has been doing some tall hitting in the early batting drills is Pitcher Larry French. Though he pitches and hits fungoes left-handed, French always has batted right-handed in championship games. Last year his average at that style was .206.

In the training camp Larry has turned around and has been doing some stylish slugging while swinging left-handed against the practice pitching. After one particularly long drive that outdistanced all the rest he stuck out his chest and wanted to know "How would Babe French look on a candy bar?"

THE PROMOTING OF unusual baseball clubs as road attractions has run all the way from bloomer girls to the bewhiskered troupe of the House of David. The latest addition to the list of freak teams is contributed by Ray Morgan, of Bakersfield, Cal. He proposes to to give the depression a battle by touring the Rocky Mountain states with a club composed exclusively of left-handers. And as a timely warning he suggests that every person attending any of the games be provided with chest protectors and a catcher's mask or be ready to duck.

Russell Blackburne

RUSSELL (LENA) BLACKBURNE, back in the majors as a coach for the A's, would have been a Pirate when he first broke into the big show as a player 23 years ago if somebody connected with the Providence club had not slipped up on an agreement made with Pittsburgh.

The late Barney Dreyfuss had arranged to purchase Blackburne for the Bucs in 1909, but when the time came to close the deal he was surprised to read an announcement that Lena had been sold to the White Sox for a reported price of $11,000, tall figures in those days. Later it was learned that Hugh Duffy, then manager of Providence, had signed to manage the White Sox in 1910, which may have been the explanation of the sudden change in the dealings with the Pirates.

PITTSBURGH WASN'T THE only club to lose out in a deal for Blackburne. The A's, the club to which he now returns after 26 years, signed Lena to his first professional contract in 1907 and placed him with Worcester. The latter club was supposed to return the player to the Mackmen if he made good, but sent him to Providence instead.

Blackburne has seen plenty of ups and downs and has done lots of commuting between the majors and the minors. As player, coach or manager he has been with the A's twice, the White Sox three times and also with the Braves, Phillies and Browns.

THE SAFETY OF boxing when conducted under proper regulations, as compared with other rugged sports, is convincingly shown by the record the glove pastime has made as part of the regular program of athletics in the colleges and universities. It is estimated that in the last nine years 600,000 college boxers have competed in bouts, and there has been only one death due to a ring injury. And among the 10,000 competing annually at the military academies in the last 22 years, there has been only one fatality.

A PARI-MUTUEL betting system at the race tracks of New York State will not be opposed by the Jockey Club. Chairman William Woodward gave the assurance in discussing the report from Albany that Gov. Lehman favored the introduction of such a bill in the Legislature.

Woodward made it clear, however, that it would of necessity be some time, perhaps as long as three years, before any such method could be adopted. In the meantime he holds that some action by the Legislature is necessary to help racing, and says the suggested tax of $1,000 a race under present conditions would close every track in the state.

THE SCHOOLBOYS OF New England look to Tuss McLaughry, Brown football coach, for leadership. Bob Dunbar reports that the former Westminster star and mentor has been chosen to head the interscholastic association in Rhode Island.

Marty Brill

At a big get-together of the schoolboy sports heads Tuss was named the leader of a new organization which, it is hoped, will put interscholastic sports in Rhode Island on a broader and higher plane than ever before.

WITH TOM CONLEY leaving to become assistant to Hunk Anderson as line coach at Notre Dame, another former Irish star, Marty Brill, has been appointed to succeed Conley as head football coach at La Salle College in Philadelphia. Brill was backfield coach at that school last year under Conley. The latter's contract had another year to run, but the college readily consented to release him that he might take advantage of the opportunity at South Bend. Conley will enter the law school at Notre Dame. He was a brilliant end there in his playing days, and was captain of the 1930 team, the last that Knute Rockne coached. One development of the shift is likely to be a game between Notre Dame and La Salle in Philadelphia in 1935 or 1936. Brill's contract at La Salle is a blanket agreement, no clause as to the length of his tenure being included. It is La Salle's idea to meet colleges in and around Philadelphia. A game with Villanova is to be part of next season's schedule.

CORSAIR STARS DISPLAY FINE CONDITION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 2.—The Pirate camp buzzed with activity this morning as the full squad dressed for the first rehearsal of the entire company. Every mother's son was present for the big event and there was no sickness to mar the occasion.

It was a colorful array that answered the morning roll call. There was Fred Lindstrom seemingly in the best of shape and Capt. Pie Traynor is right down to playing weight. The famous Waner boys looked pert in their battle togs. Brother Lloyd just managed to tilt the scale beam at 140 pounds while Paul, after his winter in Florida, was as brown as a berry.

SUHR ON HAND

Gus Suhr, the Durable Dutchman, was the last private to catch up with the ranks. Gus came in from his San Francisco home to complete the picture. The consistent lad, who thinks he is cheated when he doesn't get in 154 games per season, had his usual glow of health.

Spice was added by the appearance of Arky Vaughan's brother, a clean-cut outfielder who will get a thorough Pirate trial. Kenneth is 22; he is less than two years older than the galloping ghost of the short field who will be 21 next week.

The second Vaughan is the same size and weight as Paul Waner, but he hides his poundage. He resembles Lloyd Waner in his street clothes, but he is more robust. Kenneth bats and throws righthanded. The new recruit is a graduate of a junior college at Fullerton, his home town, which is a suburb of Los Angeles.

Shortstop Arky is supposed to be the fleetest runner in the National League. A report in the Pirate camp had it that his brother could out-run him, but the older of the two denied the allegation with a smile.

NEEDS EXPERIENCE

There is little or no chance of Floyd's brother remaining with the Pirates this year as he has not had a day of professional experience; moreover, the Pirates have some fair to middlin' outfielders in a couple of birds named Waner, Lindstrom, Comorosky and Jensen. It's a sweet set-up.

Batting will be stressed in the daily workouts. Although the pitchers are in shape to bear down the infielders and outfielders will move in on them in a hurry.

FORMER LEAGUE CHAMPIONS IN GAME HERE

By JULIUS LEVIN

A school rich in basketball glory makes its appearance in the second round of the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations in the Pitt Stadium pavillion tonight when Coach Preston Ditty brings his Monesson Greyhounds, champions of Section V, to Pittsburgh to battle C. M. Musser's Canonsburg High quintet, champion of Section XV.

The Canonsburg quintet is making its second appearance in the present tournament, having qualified for the second round by defeating Robinson Township, champion of Section XII, in a first-round engagement on the Mt. Lebanon High floor last Saturday.

MONESSEN FAST TEAM

Monessen High, while not as powerful this season as it was in past years when it was rated among the greatest floor machines ever developed in this vicinity, nevertheless has a smooth-working quintet that is capable of playing first-class basketball.

Monessen's record in past W. P. I. A. L. tournaments is a brilliant one. Some records show the Greyhounds with three W. P. I. A. L. basketball championships in their possession, others claim only two, due to a dispute with Homestead in 1924. Monessen won the league title in 1919 and 1923 and was declared a winner in 1924 when Roy O'Donovan, of Homestead, was ruled over age after the Homesteaders had won the title.

GUNNERS STRONG

Preston Ditty, coach of the Greyhounds, saw Canonsburg romp to an easy victory over Robinson Township and has taken steps to provide a defense that will stop scoring activities of Johnny Chico at forward and Humphrey Peterson, two boys who stood out prominently for Canonsburg against Robinson Township. This duo accounted for 10 of the 12 baskets made by the Gunners, Chico getting seven and Peterson three.

The Canonsburg team, one of the repeaters in this year's tournament, is a quintet that is capable of giving the best of the contenders a tough argument. Last season the Gunners were eliminated in the second round by East Pike Run, champion of Section XVI, 28-16.

DUQUESNE EASY WINNER

Duquesne High School, champion of Section VII, a division noted for the number of W. P. I. A. L. basketball champions it has turned out, gave an exhibition of rapid scoring in the Pitt Stadium pavillion last night as it averaged almost two points a minute in eliminating Georges Township, champion of Section XIII, in a second round engagement, 50-22.

Heralded as the team that must be beaten to win the W. P. I. A. L. in this year's tournament, the Red and White passers broke away to a comfortable lead and scored almost as many points in the first quarter that they permitted their opponents in the entire contest.

An adding machine would have proved a boon to the official scorers as the Duquesne sharpshooters, continually working the ball under the hoop, fired away at the baskets with deadly accuracy to pile up their tremendous margin of victory. Georges Township, undefeated in Section XIII during the regular season, was unable to check the Scarlet Hurricane as it swept its way to one of the most one-sided triumphs ever scored in W. P. I. A. L. elimination games.

GEORGES TAKES LEAD

Kassimer, Georges forward, counted the first points shortly after the first tapoff, but from that point on until the finish it was a romp for the Section VII champions. Seven successive field goals, interspersed with two fouls, gave the Duquesne passers 16 points before the first gun sounded, and Georges never recovered from that steam-roller attack.

The Zeleznik-Proksa-Radvansky-Wisbar-Krenitsky combination presented by Coach Ray Henry did not center its drive around one man, each of the quintet figuring in the heavy bombardment of the baskets. Duquesne added 15 points in the second stanza, 6 in the third and wound up its battling in the final session with 13 points, all of them scored with an entire new team on the floor. The lineup:

CURRY TO FACE STRIPPERS

By TOM BIRKS

Curry and Lawrenceville, clashing in a West Penn cup competition fray at South Park, offer the outstanding soccer game of the week-end.

Lawrenceville, which recently won the Central League pennant, fared badly in the first game with Curry and the Strip eleven will have to stop Buff Donnelli and go on a scoring spree itself if it is to have a chance with the Keystone League club.

The Heidelberg club will be extended in the same competition when it travels to Sturgeon to meet the Panhandle League entry.

The Green and Gold aggregation had easy sailing with Barsotti last Sunday, but Sturgeon will display a different spirit, and plenty of action should be on tap.

The third game in the tourney finds the Castle Shannon Zoneys traveling to Springdale to meet the Allegheny Valley League team, which should not prove much of an obstacle to the Shannonites, who are displaying a good brand of soccer at present.

At Greenlee Field, Moon Run and the Shannon McKnights will clash in a National Amateur cup game.

Wagner Likely To Break Into Buc Lineup

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 2.—"Ladies and gentlemen, the batter is Honus Wagner, greatest shortstop in the history of baseball."

Manager George Gibson, of the Pirates, today admitted he was planning to get the famed Flying Dutchman into some exhibition contests with Coast League clubs.

Wagner has taken part in every workout of the Pirates. He plays a lot around first base, and he indulges in pepper ball with the regulars. He swims daily in the pool and has taken off about eight pounds.

CALDER WINS HOCKEY FIGHT

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League for 16 years, today was more firmly entrenched than ever as head of hockey's major circuit following upon a stormy session of the board governors.

Calder, whose recent decisions aroused the ire of Charles F. Adams, president and chief stockholder of the Boston Bruins, was given a unanimous vote of confidence by the board after several hours of argument last night, during which the resignation of Adams as a governor was accepted. Robert R. Duncan, director on the Boston club, was appointed to succeed Adams.

March 25 was set as the date for the opening games between the winning teams in each division and the two second place clubs. The third place clubs will meet in the first of a home and home series either the same night or March 26.

The second series, involving the winners of the second and third place series, will be played March 30 and April 1, total goals to determine the victor. The Stanley cup finals will get under way April 4 with the second game scheduled for the following night, providing the New York Rangers win the privilege of selecting the ice.

Cochran, Bozeman Play Here Tomorrow

Welker Cochran will be tuning up for defense of his recently-won world three-cushion billiard laurels against Willie Hoppe when he opens a series of exhibition duels against Jay Bozeman, Jr., at Tobin's Parlors, Smithfield street, tomorrow afternoon.

Cochran this week accepted Hoppe's challenge to a 600-point match for a stake of $2,000, to be played about March 15.

Bozeman, who finished second in the recent title play, will meet Cochran, the only balk-line champ ever to annex the three-cushion crown, in 50-point matches tomorrow and Saturday afternoon and evening.

SPORT VIGNETTES

King Tut, the Minneapolis welterweight boxer, whose real name is Henry Tuttle, is nothing if not an amateur at heart . . . He started out as a wrestler with a carnival, taking on all comers, and when the boys got too rough he turned boxer and quit the show at Sioux City, Ia., and began to mingle with the amateur mittmen, although he had professionalized himself by accepting pay for his mat performances . . . Then he decided to turn professional and was knocked out in the first round and went back to the amateurs . . . Finally he got another bout with his professional conqueror and was knocked out in the third round and went back to the amateurs again . . . At length he decided he was good enough to try his hand as a professional again and sought out the same foe and this time was stopped in four rounds . . . He wanted another crack at the same gent, but his manager demurred . . . Enough was enough . . . Another foe was dished up and Tut licked him, and he hasn't been forced to return to the amateurs since.

The college football people will watch with interest the experiments of the pros next fall in throwing forward passes from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage and moving back the goal posts to the goal line to promote field goal kicking . . . And they'll be suckers if they don't follow suit if the idea clicks.

'Tis claimed for Jim Londos, the Greek Adonis, that he is on his way to drawing more money at the gate in two years than Jack Dempsey did in six years during which the Manassa Mauler grossed $6,000,000 in five bouts . . . The answer is that Jeemy works as often as three or four times a week in different towns when the spirit moves him . . . He drew $3,500,000 last year, much of which went to charity . . . He meets a former favorite and champion in Joe Stecher, the body scissors king, in Chicago, tomorrow night . . . Londos has been at it for 20 years and hasn't lost any of his box office appeal during the depression because he's the greatest showman of them all.

It is not generally known, but Mrs. James Gardner Rossman, of Library road, leading Maltese dog breeder of the United States (she is the owner of that six-ounce toy recently pictured in the Sun-Telegraph), once was the leading lady for Jim Corbett on the stage . . . The recent death of Gentleman Jim stirred pleasant memories for her . . . She recalls how Corbett caused the feminine hearts of his era as heavyweight champion to flutter, and always held him in high regard for his many kind acts . . . Incidentally, Mrs. Rossman also played with Richard Mansfield and other stage stars of the '90s and the early part of the present century and now is the patentee of a new type of railroad sleeping car.

S. J. Livingston, a local man of an inventive turn of mind, has patented a new type of football game, the simplest yet produced, which he plans to have available fort he fans shortly . . . It is designed especially to follow radio descriptions of the games and may be used also for the playing of games as a pastime, and ought to prove a boon for the shut-ins. —HARRY KECK.

Sir Malcolm Sails; To Return in '34

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, who has traveled over the ground faster than any other human being, is bound home from his record speed trials a wiser but by no means a sadder man.

Sir Malcolm was not satisfied with his more than 272 miles an hour over the Daytona Beach sands and hopes to come back next year to raise that mark, but he was clearly pleased with what he had learned. His nine-year-old, much-rebuilt car, Bluebird, is capable of more than 300 miles an hour he said, and he intends to give the "old girl" a chance to prove it.

MR. SPONGE SOLD

MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—Mr. Sponge, 8-year-old gelded son of Luke McLuke, and Pari Mutuel, speedy 5-year-old, have been sold by Joseph E. Widener to C. LeRoy King at private terms.

CELTICS' GAME STIRS FANS

Local basketball fans are beginning to snap into the business of getting excited over the professional game at Motor Square Garden tomorrow night between the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics and an all-star team built around Pip Koehler, Cookie Cunningham and Shang Chadwick.

This will mark the final appearance of the Celtics in Pittsburgh this season, aside from their game for the children in the South Side Market House, Saturday afternoon. They play in Altoona tonight and in Charleroi on Saturday night. They played the I. K. S. team on Tuesday and were in Connellsville last night.

The prices have been slashed to a new low level for a big game here tomorrow night in order to give all of the fans a chance to get their last glimpse this season of the Celtics in an important game on a local floor.

Joe Lapchick, manager and center of the Celtics, gave his views of many phases of the sport during an interesting interview with J. J. Freund, Jr., local professional basketball sponsor, during the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE last night.

Fred Miller May Box Keed-Watson Winner

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(INS.)—Freddie Miller, N. B. A. featherweight boxing champion who defeated Baby Arizmendi, Mexican titlist, easily here Tuesday night, may meet the winner of the Kid Chocolate-Seaman Watson fight here. Miller has signed to meet Little Dempsey, Filipino, in a non-title bout at Sacramento.

STERN TESTS CONFRONT PANTHER AND TARTAN QUINTETS

DUKES, TEMPLE FAVORED OVER PITT, TECH

By JESS CARVER

Once Johnny Freund, the local basketball impressario, starts sticking yellow tea roses in the lapel of his coat, you can just about figure that the college basketball season is on the wane and the time for indulging in look-sees at the professionals is at hand.

Johnny, the gent who brings the Celtics to town each season, thinks about as much of the college sport as he does of his spring dose of sulphur and molasses. John is wearing yellow tea roses these days, so the college season must be about washed up.

LOCALS FACE TESTS

But before it is waved out completely, there are three highly important dates to be kept by local teams. Two of them are on the books for this week. Tomorrow night, the Dukes run into their final city series assignment as they take on Carnegie Tech for the second time. Saturday, Pitt risks its lead in the Intercollegiate Conference by meeting the road-scorching Temple Owls in Philadelphia.

The third important contest remaining on the local card is the second clash between Pitt and Carnegie.

A year ago, the Dukes came up to their second game with Carnegie Tech full of all sorts of ginger and confidence. They were too full, in fact. They entered the game sirch prohibitive favorites that one had to offer a dozen points to lay a wager. What happened? Don't ask—at least, don't ask any of the Dukes.

Coach Chick Davies is taking no chances on this game. With two decisions over Pitt already in the bag and one over Carnegie and the district championship his without argument if the boys win tomorrow, he's going to send his Bluffites out there with blood in their collective eyes.

TARTANS SHOW POWER

If the Techs play the sort of ball they did against Grove City in that second half Tuesday night, the Dukes will need all the blood they can collect, too. No college team has put on such a scoring burst here this year as did the Tartans at the expense of the Grovers. They were as brilliant in the second half as they were terrible in the first, which might cause some folks to hail 'em as world champions.

It will take just such a game of basketball as the revised Panther lineup put up against Navy last Saturday if Temple is to be beaten this week. The crippled Panthers will enter this one on the short end, no doubt of that. The Owls haven't lost a ball game since they were beaten here early in the season by Tech. The smoothness and coordination that was lacking while the Owls were sojourning here is present now in gobs, according to Max Hannum, of the Techs, who watched his Tartans take one on the whiskers last week in Philly.

PITT AT TEMPLE

The Pitt squad will leave tomorrow night for the Temple game, the same collection of 10 athletes who traveled east last week making up the party.

CHARLEROI, March 2.—Centerville High School has protested the eligibility under the five months' resident rule of Joe Andrews, forward on the Bentleyville team, which last night defeated Centerville in a playoff game for the Section XVI title, 28 to 19.

Centerville alleges that Andrews lacks eight days of being eligible for competition. The Andrews family formerly resided in Charleroi, but moved to Fallowfield Township last September. The lineup:

SPRINGDALE ADVANCES

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 2.—Upsets are becoming the thing as far as the Springdale High School basketball team is concerned.

The Springdale passers recorded their second of the annual Allegheny-Kiski Valley tourney here last night, eliminating the defending champions from Franklin, 21 to 19, in a second-round game. Springdale previously had put out Har-Brack, a ruling favorite.

GREGORIO ONCE BESTED KEED

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

One of the fondest memories of Vidal Gregorio, Spanish featherweight, who boxes Mose Butch in the 10-round main bout of the all-star card at the Arena, on the North Side, tomorrow night, is of the battle in which he defeated Kid Chocolate, the present featherweight champion, in Philadelphia in 1929, although he didn't get the decision. His fighting that night was a revelation to the fans and they stormed over the verdict against him. The bout established Gregorio as an attraction.

Vidal Gregorio

Vidal, who was born in Palma, Spain, 24 years ago, has boxed many of the stars of his class. A cursory glance at his record reveals such names as those of Al Brown, the bantamweight champion, whom he met in a 15-round battle; Bushy Graham, Joe Scalfaro, Lew Feldman, Johnny Peters, Lew Farber, Archie Bell, Earl Mastro, our own Jimmy Thomas, whom he defeated at Hickey Park, year before last; Antol Kocsis, Eugene Huat, Pablo Blanco, Harry Fierro, Benny Tressito, Sammy Tisch, Joey Marciente, Matty White, Milton Cohen, Benny Hall, Johnny Erickson and Ollie Bartlett.

Between Rounds

An old favorite with the local fans returns to the Garden ring next Monday night, when Tony Herrera comes in from Chicago for a return bout with Tony Falco, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round windup. Herrera hasn't been here as much this season as in the past several years, when he was virtually a home boy, but he still retains his strong following.

A boxing show will be held in the Terrace Garden, Erie, tomorrow night, consisting of four six-round bouts and one four-rounder. Lou Bank boxes Jacques Dessimon, Canada Lee is in with Joe Brown, Jimmy Dean meets Joe Savarone and Harry Boyle tangles with Frank Janowski in the six-rounders.

Jess Miller has reopened his gymnasium at 6506 Penn avenue, East End, and invites boxers to make use of the facilities.

Local admirers will get a peek at Jack Dempsey tomorrow when he comes here with the "42nd Street" special train en route to the inauguration ceremonies in Washington. A busy program is in store for the erstwhile mauler, but he's a great campaigner and can stand it.

Alex Turnbull, Penn State wrestler, has turned boxer and will finish out the season with Leo Houck's ring squad.

A letter awaits Cuddy DeMarco at this office.

The Garden card for Monday night has been completed with the signing of Tony DiPiero and Walter Ketchel to box the second bout.

Up First Home In 'Caliente Feature

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 2.—(AP.)—Up, the reliable 5-year-old sprinter, racing for Ralph Emrie, galloped home three lengths in front of Hueu, Hawaiian-bred 3-year-old, in a five and one-half furlong race, which featured yesterday's Jockey Club program.

Flag Time was third, with Sharp Thoughts and Whizz James trailing.

Whizz James set the early pace, but could not hold up in the stretch. Hueu closed much ground in the stretch run.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2.—After astonishing local golf enthusiasts by eliminating Tommy Goodwin, 19-year-old New York state titleholder, C. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, was himself defeated in the second round of the Palm Beach golf championship tournament here yesterday. He lost to William H. Hyde, of Ridgeway, Pa., 2 and 1. The latter was beaten in the final for the Palm Beach crown last year by Goodwin.

Jack Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., former Yale star and medalist in the current competition, eliminated William B. Langford, of Chicago, 4 and 3. The feature of the days play, however, was the defeat of Albert R. Hakes of Dunkirk, N. Y., who bowed to L. M. Goss, of Bedford, Pa., 2 and 1.

Winner of 11 of his last 12 races, Character found the task of beating the horse to which he gave 16 pounds by weight for age too much. Marmion, the odds-on-favorite, recently set a new track record for one mile of 1:36.

NET STARS VIE FOR TITLE

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 2.—(AP.)—Gregory Mangin, sturdy Newark, N. J., player, assured the United States of the men's singles title in the Bermuda tennis championships yesterday after Virginia Rice, of Boston, had captured the women's crown.

Mangin eliminated the last of the English players, R. K. Tinkler in the semi-final round, 6-4, 6-4, for the right to meet Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, in the final today. Sutter defeated J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Joe Knight Loses Light-Heavy Title

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2.—Joe Knight, of Cairo, Ga., the southpaw who was designated the light-heavyweight champion of the world by the National Boxing Association, last night lost that title to Bob Godwin, of Daytona Beach, Fla., in a 10-round bout here.

Godwin rallied after taking a beating in the first five rounds to dethrone the Georgian by the referee's decision.

YANKS BOAST HEFTY HURLERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—In surveying the various bulging waist lines that appeared on the opening day of practice, the New York Yankees have discovered at least one candidate for heavyweight honors formerly claimed exclusively for Shanty Hogan, the former Giant, now with the Boston Braves.

He is Walter Brown, the big pitcher who did some good work at the close of the 1932 season. When Brown stepped on the scales yesterday the bar balanced at 265 pounds. Don Brennan, from Newark, was runner up among the Yanks with 225 pounds.

Baseball Briefs

LOS ANGELES.—(AP.)—Melvin Ott is ranked among the real veterans of the New York Giants as he starts his eighth major league season but he is having a hard time convincing the Los Angeles fans who see him for the first time. Ott won't be 24 years old until tomorrow. He was only 16 when he joined the Giants and he never has played with any other professional team.

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal.—(AP.)—Babe Herman, the Chicago Cubs' new outfielder, has been placed on the inactive list with a bruise on his left thumb. Too much hitting of the pitchers' offerings was Manager Charley Grimm's diagnosis of the case, but he will be ready for the exhibitions with New York this week-end.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP.)—Babe Phelps, who hasn't signed the contract he Brooklyn baseball club offered him, seems bent on proving his claims that the salary should be somewhat higher. Phelps not only has been "bearing down" more than the other Brooklyn pitchers, throwing a number of curves, but he has rediscovered the sinker ball which made him a highly successful pitcher in 1931 and was missing last season.

ST. LOUIS.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Cardinals have announced that George Puccinelli, outfielder, has been released on option to Rochester, the Cardinals' farm in the International League. Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis club, said Puccinelli had been acquired.

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP.)—The advance squad of the Cleveland Indians have pitched their tepees here and found the weather perfect for their first workout of the season. There are two conspicuous Abscentees from the batterymen, however. Wesley Ferrell and Willis Hudlin, pitching mainstays, have not yet signed their contracts.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—(AP.)—Three unsigned pitchers have received from President Gerald Nugent, of the Philadelphia Nationals, the announcement that the club had gone as far as possible in the matter of salaries. The three hurlers are Flint Rhem, Ed Holley and John Berly.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Manager Bucky Harris, of the Detroit Tigers, arriving here with a contingent of batterymen, was met by a dozen more here, and announced the first workout for this morning. It will consist merely of limbering exercises. The main squad is not due here until March 6.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—An immense reception committee, including the 232-pound Frank (Shanty) Hogan, welcomed the arrival of the Boston Braves special yesterday. The special carried only four young pitching prospects besides the training staff and newspaper correspondents. Manager Bill McKechnie was on the station platform, along with the other early arrivals, Ed Brandt, Tom Zachary, Walter Betts, Fred Frankhouse, Ben Cantwell, Bill Knothe, Bill Hargrave, Bobby Brown and Eddie Fallenstein.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—In the first practice session of his Philadelphia Athletics, Connie Mack gave the players a "pep" talk yesterday in which he declared he wanted a hustling ball club. The entire squad of 28 players then went out and in two practice sessions gave him a speedy exhibition.

BILOXI, Miss.—(AP.)—These rainy days seem to be a help at this early stage of training for a baseball team, if the reasoning of Manager Joe Cronin, of the Washington Senators, is sound. Cronin said the weather, including sudden showers which obligingly have struck so far just after the players were back under shelter after practice, has caused the men to rest more, bringing the drilling along at just the right tempo for this period of the exercises.

NO. 7—PITCHER WILLIAM SWIFT

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 1.

Bill, you are charged with being from Scranton, Pa. Do you admit the allegation, and, if so, what have you to say in defense of the place?

I not only admit it, I am bragging about it! Furthermore, it will be the last town in the United States to stand for a woman walking down the street in men's clothes. And you can broadcast that on your short wave length!

What are your age, height and weight, Bill?

I was 25 in January, I am 6 feet 1½ inches tall and weigh 195 pounds.

Bill Swift

How did you get into baseball?

I guess my dad pushed me into it. He was a pitcher in the New York State League and a good one, from what I hear. He was a southpaw and he still pitches a good game.

You were one of the most consistent winners in the league last summer in your first season in the big show. The records disclose that you had the best control of any pitchers in either of the major leagues. How do you account for such control?

That's a bit hard to answer. Maybe it's because I have been throwing at something or other since I was 11 years old. You know there are some pretty fair stone throwers around Scranton. As I said, I got started early at this pastime and when I wasn't throwing stones I was chucking a baseball.

You're pretty fair up at that plate, according to the baseball boys. Do you like to hit?

Yes; everybody does, I guess. But there's a sort of a family fight among our pitchers. You know we have five or six hurlers who can hit fairly well, and some of us have side bets. Maybe that's what makes me look good.

What was your first professional engagement?

Back in '928, before I was of age, I had a short trial with the St. Louis Browns, and they shipped me to Muskogee, of the Class C Western League. I got pushed around a little that year, but, before it was over, I had the satisfaction of being bought by Kansas City.

Where have you been in the intervening years?

I've done plenty of traveling in the role of a Kansas City farmhand. In the spring of 1929 I was farmed to Pueblo, of the Western League, but I pitched a lot that year for Augusta, of the Sally League, with a stopover at Springfield, of the Three-I League.

Well, you covered a lot of ground. How did you enjoy the country?

Where did you go from Augusta?

Back to Kansas City in 1930 and '31, with a little more farm work in the Three-I. The Pirates bought me in the fall of 1931.

What are your hobbies?

Hunting, fishing, golf and other outdoor sports — and I still like to throw stones. Just an old Scranton custom, you know.

P. A. A. SQUASH STARS SURVIVE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

What's left of the second annual City Class B Squash Racquets championship tourney is exclusively a P. A. A. proposition. The local secondary title affair, in progress since last Saturday on the courts of the Keystone Athletic Club, has bereft its original field of 48 shrink by elimination to three speedy survivors and each of this trio, Bill Hutchins, Dr. John O'Loughlin and George Kepler, sport the Winged Head emblem.

Hutchins, who has hurtled in the past few months from the herd of the also-rans to post of distinction on his club's first-flight array, yesterday eliminated Charles (Quizzer) Woods, Edgeworth hope, by the decisive margin of 15-8, 15-6, 15-11, in semi-final fracas, while Kepler struggled ahead at expense of Graham McCargo, Pittsburgh Golf Club contender, 17-14, 14-17, 17-14, 15-9, in quarter-final combat to earn right to encounter O'Loughlin in penultimate engagement at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The steady, relentless all-court play of Hutchins proved considerably too much for the somewhat erratic Woods, who found the time frequently and encountered bitter experience in striving to handle deep shots to backhand.

The Pittsburgh Squash Racquets Association announces that the entry list of the City Class A titular tournament, beginning at the K. A. C. this Saturday, will be restricted to 16 aspirants—a dozen especially designated warriors from inter-club loop Class A teams and the quartet of Class B championship semi-finalists. The following players have thus been nominated:

McCook Reed, Jim Ebbert and Joe Oliver, Pittsburgh Golf Club; Frank McClintock, Dr. Dave O'Loughlin and Dr. Whitey Stegeman, P. A. A.; Bill Bickel, Charley Fagan and "Chip" Kennedy, K. A. C.; Dave Gilmore, Alex Robinson and Frank White, Allegheny Country Club, and Bill Hutchins, Dr. John O'Loughlin, George Kepler and Charley Woods, B tourney semi-final stars.

JOHNNY LUCH LAID TO REST

WHEELING, W. Va., March 2.—Johnny Luch rests in eternal repose in Mt. Calvary Cemetery here today.

The former Pitt football, track and field and boxing star, who died in St. Francis' Hospital, Pittsburgh, last Sunday, of peritonitis, which developed after an operation for appendicitis and gall stones, was laid to rest here yesterday. Six former football teammates, Capt. Paul Reider, Warren Heller, Paul Cuba, Joe Tormey, Ted Dailey and Francis Seigal acted as pallbearers.

The entire University of Pittsburgh varsity football squad attended the funeral services.

TARIFF ACTION BY DEMOCRATS AWAITED

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The ascent into the saddle this week of the Democratic party, historically the low tariff party, inevitably raises in the minds of business executives the question of tariff revision.

It is part of the record that for a number of years the two parties have been coming closer together on the question of the tariff. In the last campaign, for example, President-elect Roosevelt made it clear that he opposed cutting tariff rates on farm products and also that he was against reductions which would reduce American living standards. In the 1928 campaign, Alfred E. Smith in his Louisville address restricted party differences on this economic question.

Mr. Rukeyser

Of late there has been a change of tariff opinion, irrespective of party lines. There has been a growing belief that the destiny of American prosperity henceforth lies in greater concentration on the home market. It has been expressed in the "Buy American" campaign.

In stating the new issue, Samuel Crowther, in the Saturday Evening Post, points out:

"Ours is an unbalanced nation in an unbalanced world. The world and our nation will in the course of time come back into balance, say those who believe that all economic ills are self-curing. They may be right, but with 45 nations off the gold standard and their currencies wagging with the British pound, and with practically every nation on an artificial trade basis, the time element in the general reformation which the bitter-enders think will come about becomes all-important. Shall this country, with half the trade of the world (within its doors), wait for the other half to settle down, or shall we first arrange our own affairs and let the other half arrange their affairs as best they can?"

Sentimentalists in business, urging lower tariffs, usually refer to Adam Smith and the classical school of English economists. Yet even England of late has turned from their doctrines of protectionism.

In these discussions, the classic exponent of the American system—Henry C. Carey, Philadelphia savant, has become the forgotten man. In 1842 he was a free trader, but after careful study of the American experience has effectively stated a decade later in his brilliant, yet little remembered essay, entitled "The Harmony of Interests," the case for tariff protection. He called free trade the British system, and protection the American system.

LOAN RENEWAL 2½ PER CENT

NEW YORK, March 2.—Money opened loaning and renewing at 2½ per cent. This is the first rise in the renewal rate since December 31, 1931, when money renewed at 3½ per cent. Today was the first time money renewed at 2½ per cent since July 6, 1932

Yesterday call loans opened at 1 per cent, but went to 2 per cent under the influence of higher rates for time funds.

CENTRAL BANKS MEET CALLS

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—Recent heavy calls for funds by outlying centers, the New York Federal Reserve Bank points out in its monthly review of credit and business conditions, have been borne by metropolitan financial institutions without strain and with only a moderate upward revision in money rates.

"The function of New York banks as a reservoir of funds for use when unusual demands develop has again been demonstrated during the past month," the review states.

"A huge volume of funds has been supplied by the principal New York banks to meet the needs of other sections of the country where limitations temporarily were placed upon banking facilities. In the three weeks ended February 21, the balances held by New York banks for other banks throughout the country were reduced by nearly $500,000,000—from $1,655,000,000 on February 1 to $1,176,000,000 on February 21."

At the same time, it is said, withdrawals of bank funds were offset in part by a substantial flow of commercial funds to New York.

Forbes

Many Concerns Still Able To Show Profits

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

AFTER ALL, business and industry have not come to a standstill in this country. Our banks continue to record transactions of approximately a thousand million dollars—a billion dollars—every business day. That, manifestly, does not typify complete stagnation.

This is an adaptable old world. Community after community is developing a system of barter. Not only are certain classes of products exchanged for certain other classes of merchandise, but in an increasing number of instances labor and other forms of work are given in exchange for goods.

No; the world will not come to an end.

Of 840 manufacturing and trading corporations (having a net worth of fully $16,000,000,000) 43 per cent were able last year, notwithstanding the adverse conditions, to show profits totaling $430,000,000. This came within $15,000,000 of offsetting the total deficits of the other 57 per cent.

The National City Bank of New York comments:

"Considering the progressive business difficulties of the past three years, the ability of nearly half of the corporations to readjust their production costs and other expenses sufficiently to still show a profit is extremly encouraging.

"No fewer than 85 companies increased their profits last year over 1931, or changed from a deficit to a profit; and there was an additional large number which decreased the size of their deficit in 1932."

The best showings were made, as a rule, by food, tobacco, chemical and chain store enterprises.

It is interesting to note that companies reporting increased profits were, for the most part, relatively small.

Another development worth noting is a very substantial reduction effected in merchandise inventories. When demand does start up again, look out for scarcity in many lines.

NEW YORK'S largest banks are today more liquid than they have ever been in their entire history. One president states that his institution "is 97 per cent liquid." At that, it has been more than earning its dividends.

VERY GRATIFYING is the absence of wholesale, pell-mell liquidation of securities despite all that is happening bankwise in various states. The investor who weathers the storm will one day reap a rich reward.

Most of the recent rather moderate selling apparently has come from hard-pressed banks and from other banks desiring to avoid becoming hard-pressed. Professional bears, of course, have been indulging in their customary antics.

Of voluntary jettisoning of securities by individual investors, there has been remarkably little.

'TIS ALWAYS darkest before the dawn.

NOTHING HAS happened to belie the prediction reported in this column some time ago that France was entertaining the idea of paying her December debt instalment after President Roosevelt took office—this as preliminary to opening negotiations for reconsideration of future payments.

THE OUTLOOK for Japan, her bonds, her currency, her commerce, is ominous.

HOARDING GOLD is not patriotic. If everybody attempted it, what then?

THE

FRESH BUYING BRACES STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—The stock market was bolstered by fresh buying, after giving away rather abruptly in the first hour today.

Trading was quiet, and selling did not at any time reach large proportions, but dividend news and the spread of banking restrictions resulted in momentary weakness. After prices had sagged 1 to more than 2 points in several instances, however, there were recoveries of from fractions to a point.

Moderate trickles of selling, brokers reported, came from areas where banking activities are restricted. Restrictions on withdrawals, however, act in one way to withhold pressure from the securities markets, for they save banks from the necessity of liquidation loans and investments. At the same time, the market was regarded by brokers as in a fairly good technical position, with a relatively large short interest. Recent declines have been checked by short covering, as traders are wary of maintaining short positions, on the theory that any decisive action to ameliorate the banking situation might give the list a sharp boost. March is likely to be a time of rising prices, as traders buy in anticipation of a spring revival in business. The business outlook has now been obscured, but none the less, some buying is reported on the theory that the present banking crisis may be likened to a clearing shower.

In corporate news, International Business Machines 1932 earnings report, showing net of $9.11 a share, against $10.55 in 1931, was a bright spot. Dividend cuts by Loew's and Penney, and Johns-Manville's preferred omission brought selling into those shares. Dividend news, however, contained a number of regular disbursements, notably by W. T. Grant Company, Lehman Corporation and Chase National Bank.

COTTON DROPS ON SELLING

NEW YORK, March 2.—Cotton futures opened steady, 2-3 lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and under commission house selling. March, 5.95; May, 6.05; July, 6.16; October, 6.34; December, 6.48; January, 6.55.

Trading was quiet at the start but liquidation became more active after the call influenced by lower stock market opening and nervousness over the banking situation.

May sold down to 5.93 and October to 6.23 making net declines of about 10 to 16 points on active positions. Very little southern selling developed, however, and the pressure seemed to be subsiding at the end of the first half hour when prices showed rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lows on most positions as a result of covering and trade buying.

The market was quieter later with prices holding fairly steady on further trade buying or covering. At midday May was selling around 5.97 and October 6.27, or about 9 to 12 points net lower. A private report on planting intentions estimated a probable area of 40,926,000 acres, or an increase of 9 per cent as compared with last year.

Playgirls in Love

CHAPTER XII.

Then came the blessed surprise. Barry said, lowering his voice a little, and hesitating as though he were uncertain of her answer: "I've got two tickets for the opening of 'Glorious Moon' tonight, and I thought—if you're free, and would care to?—we might have a sort of celebration of our uptown move, you know? I was dining in the Casino in Central Park the other night—it was jolly—we might dine there before the show."

Waves of joy shot through and through with golden light wafted Judith to enchanted lands . . . oh, grab that happiness quick . . . life didn't give one a second opportunity.

"I'd like to come, thanks." She dropped her eyes, so that he might not see the radiance there. Heaven be praised that the little flat was oh! so smart, and newly cleaned! She said: "Perhaps you would call for me at my apartment?"

"Certainly I will. What's the address?"

"West Fifty-sixth street—167B."

"I'll be there at seven, with bells on!" Barry Deane said gaily.

In the little apartment that was gay tonight with flowers, and a real fire, Judith hastily put the last touches to her dressing. She wiggled into the exquisite silver dress that Zella had loaned her from the little shop—a dress so beautiful it fairly took one's breath away, with its long fluttery skirts and tightly-swathed bodice in layers and layers of sweet-pea tinted chiffon.

ZELLA HELPS

Judith had rushed madly in to Zella at her luncheon hour to tell her of the great "occasion." What should she wear? Dinner at the fashionable Casino in the Park . . . the opening of a new play . . . "and afterwards he'll probably take you on to a night club," said Zella.

"She's crazy about him," Zella told herself with a little pang of memory of her own buried past that had preceded the Stoic days of her immunity-to-love credo. "She's fallen for this Barry Deane—she'll suffer for it——" —but tonight Zella would help her.

"You'll wear this gown and wrap." The silver-and-moonlight dress went with a silver cloak that had an immense platinum fox collar.

"But Zella—heavens!—a $300 ensemble! Suppose anything should happen to it?"

"It won't. You're careful. You don't 'spot'. I'll slip it back into stock first thing tomorrow, and nobody'll be the wiser."

"But Loranda? If she knew?"

Zella arranged it all, even to the facial-and-fingerwave-and-manicure appointment at 5:30 for Judith.

JUDITH THRILLED

It was Zella who brought the tulips and daffodils into the little flat, so that it looked like a gay spring garden. It was Zella who extravagantly lit the fire that crackled on the hearth and drew out all the perfume of the flowers. It was Zella who loaned Judith her own silver slippers and her silver-mesh bag, and who sprayed jasmine ($15 an ounce) on Judith's exquisitely arranged coiffure at the last moment.

"What a charming little place you've got!" Barry Deane said when he arrived—but his eyes, with an amazed, incredulous and shiny light in them, were on the lovely apparition that was Judith.

"Not bad." Her pulses raced, but she contrived a nonchalant shrug in the Loranda manner. She swirled the silver wrap about her thin young body exactly as Zella had showed her she must do, and walked like a little princess down to the waiting taxicab with Barry.

As they entered the Casino restaurant side by side, there was a sudden hush . . . heads were craned round as the headwaiter led them across the polished floor to a table.

"They're wondering what new beauty has burst upon the scene?" Barry whispered to Judith as he helped her to slip her wrap from her shoulders.

Synopsis

Judith Brian, a secretary in the Knickerbocker Bank, and Barry Deane, young executive, are secretly attracted to one another. Judith, however, feels that Barry is above her socially. Zella, Judith's friend, receives an attractive offer from Loranda Tewson, society girl, to manage a dress shop for her. Zella and Judith leave their drab boarding house and rent an apartment. Judith is unhappy when she is transferred to the bank's uptown office where she will not be able to see Barry. Loranda's friends attend the shop's opening. The wily Loranda rushes Barry off to assist her with refreshments. Jack Ordway, playboy friend of Loranda's, flirts with Judith. Judith is thrilled when Barry is transferred to her office.

Now Go On

She said, forgetting the grand manner, and just a naive girl again: "What a gorgeous place! So many lights! Such stylish people! I've never been anywhere like this in all my life before!" and leaned back in her chair a little dizzily as Barry gave the order.

Four waiters hovered about them. There was the head one with the menu card, and one with hot plates, and one at a little serving table, and another assisting him. The lights glinted on the tablecloth that was like polished snow, and on Judith's silver dress and the silver cutlery and glassware.

They ate delicious food, and talked, and laughed, and always Barry's eyes had that look in them—that warm and shiney look that seemed to say, plainer than words: "You're beautiful!"

So to the opening of "Glorious Moon," a jolly musical comedy. They went out to the lobby between the acts, so that Barry could smoke a cigaret, and Judith see the celebrities.

She won many admiring glances there. Even though everybody was dressed up in their best, in her silver wrap with the pastel tinting of the decolletage beneath, she had a fragile and intriguing beauty—"like a moonflower," said none other than Mr. Lawton Clissold, that debonair man-about-town who had been staring at Judith with his monocle screwed in his right eye, and wondering where he'd seen this dev" "ly pretty girl before . . . he recognized the dress and cloak from Loranda Tewson's little shop . . . in this very show there was a little girl he played around with for whom he'd half a mind to buy the chic ensemble . . .

Then he saw Barry Deane and came up boldly and greeted the couple.

"Like a moonflower, Miss Judith," he repeated, bowing. "I thought that rig-out would suit you."

Judith glanced hastily over his shoulder. "Where's Genevieve?"

"I'm on my own tonight." Then, to Barry: "Where are you going after the show?"

Barry hesitated. He looked rather put out. "We haven't decided yet. Probably the Embassy."

Who Leads the Parade?

Going to be quite a social tangle over the official line-up on Saturday.

Every loyal Democrat wants to lead the parade. We think the post of honor should go to the boys who voted twice.

Some organizers of famous and historical pageants are boosting Gene Tunney on to the white hoss. They say his campaign speech in Maine was the bravest chunk of American history since Paul Revere grabbed and held a 50-mile lead on the British.

We concede Tunney did a neat bit of minor engineering in enemy terrain. But he captured no prisoners. Maine went Democratic in the primaries and Republican in the sweepstakes. Gene's speech was sandwiched in between the two events.

We never knew what happened or what Gene said. He took the next boat to Europe. But Gene will be there on Saturday. So will Dolly Gann.

We would not be surprised if Dolly and Alice have decided to fight for that chair as Democrats. We hope they do. The girls were the one bright spot on Mr. Hoover's administration.

And even though there was no chicken in the pot it took two chickens to keep it boiling.

The White House reporters could wish for nothing better than a quarrel between prominent members of the official family and distant relatives. That's news.

We understand that both ladies detest the writer for his imaginative recordings of their doings at the Chicago convention. But don't forget, sisters, we got you five and six column banners over the stories. That ain't hay.

The writer hopes the girls forgive him and resume their throttled bickerings.

He feels real friendly toward 'em. He doesn't say he is willing to kiss and make up. He figures making up will be enough.

Kline's Sentence

It Is Not Too Severe, and Is Necessary as a Warning to Lax Public Officials.

Unless he is successful in his appeal to the Supreme Court, Mayor Charles H. Kline seems destined to go to prison for malfeasance in the purchase of city supplies.

The sentence of six months in jail and a fine of $5,000, imposed by Judge Thomas D. Finletter, is severe, but not too severe.

Even the shortest term of imprisonment cannot fail to be terrible to a man like Kline, who has enjoyed the highest honors that the people can bestow.

Against that must be placed the fact that if anyone knew the law and was utterly without excuse for breaking it, it was Kline, a former Judge of the Common Pleas Court.

The people of Pittsburgh will take no satisfaction from his personal humiliation; but they will approve the sentence, because it serves as a stern warning to public officials that they are not above the law. Such a warning is needed.

Protection Demanded

The People Are Exasperated by the Failure of Congress To Bar Cheap Foreign Goods.

Driven to exasperation one day by an imbecile question from Boswell, the immortal Doctor Samuel Johnson turned on him.

"Zounds, sir!" said he. "I can give you a reason, but not an understanding."

This is precisely the feeling of the country at the refusal of Congress to lift a finger against the invasion of our home market and the displacement of American workers, by the rising flood of cheap foreign goods, which are the combined product of pauper labor and depreciated currencies.

The REASONS for Congress to act have been stated over and over again.

They have been stated on the highest authority,—by merchants of the widest knowledge and experience, by industrialists of the standing of James A. Farrell, formerly President of the United States Steel Corporation, and others of equal authority.

State Legislatures by formal vote have called on Congress for immediate emergency legislation to offset the advantages enjoyed in our market by the depreciated currency countries of Europe and Asia.

All to no effect!

Apparently the country CAN GIVE CONGRESS A REASON, BUT NOT AN UNDERSTANDING.

Instead of intelligent and patriotic action, we are fed with prattle about "world tariff" adjustments, impending "world economic" conferences, and the advisability of not adding to the obstructions which already are choking international trade.

It is blandly asserted that the cure for the world depression is a ten per cent horizontal reduction of all world tariffs.

As if there was the remotest chance of such joint action being taken in a way to avert the losses that are devouring us, in a world of quotas, compensatory special duties, Ottawa agreements aimed directly at us, German tariff increases designed to bar American goods, not to speak of "buy British," "buy French," "buy Italian" and "buy German" movements, intended to solidify entire nations against the purchase of American products.

The value of such talk in the presence of such an emergency is precisely zero. It is like old wives' tales,—talk without content. It reminds one of the opinions of the Dickens character Bunsby upon whom Captain Cuttle gazed admiringly, as he exclaimed: "There is an opinion as is an opinion."

Or to put it differently,—Congress is like a man with a house afire, who refuses to heed the fire and is interested only in re-arranging the drawing room furniture.

CONGRESS MIGHT STILL REDEEM ITSELF!

It did so on the Prohibition issue,—voting finally to submit repeal to the states, although less than a year ago, it voted against submission of the question in any form to the people.

There are still days enough, before the session expires, for Congress to put itself in line with the desires and needs of the nation.

It has made a grievous mistake in refusing to enact compensating duties to meet an emergency which grows more serious with each day that passes.

It has converted the United States into a dumping ground for the products of the world's pauper labor and debased currencies.

It has left our industries and our workers defenseless, while our competitors pluck us at will, raising their tariffs against us without compunction and for profit, while we refuse to raise ours for vital defense.

Some day Congress will realize that it has betrayed the workers: that it has betrayed the American home market.

THE PEOPLE KNOW IT NOW AND THEY RESENT IT.

In the meantime "buy American" remains the sole resource of the people for defending themselves against the conditions which Congress so stupidly ignores.

It is inaccessible to the reasons for action which have been so abundantly shown. It is unmoved by facts which have profoundly stirred the country.

IT IS AMAZING, however, that it should not be TOUCHED by the LOYAL AND PATRIOTIC CONDUCT OF THE PEOPLE!

A half million patriotic men and women have signed pledges binding themselves to purchase only domestic merchandise.

Nearly a dozen of the nation's great retailing establishments have begun special sales of American made products, promising that their depleted stocks will hereafter be filled only with domestic merchandise.

One important mercantile house in New York City is planning to devote the next twenty business days to a sale of goods exclusively bought in the United States and made by our own manufacturers.

These goods are to be sold on a "no profit basis." It is calculated that the total of the contemplated purchases will represent the equivalent of 13,000 employee weeks of labor.

More than 1,000 patriotic and civic groups have endorsed the "buy American" movement where it is possible to obtain a domestic equivalent.

A score of factories and manufacturing plants have reopened as a result of the stimulated demand for American made goods.

Be of good cheer, nevertheless, fellow Americans!

Reason may fail, facts may be ignored, duty may be scorned.

BUT YOUR EXAMPLE WILL COMPEL THE SUPPORT OF YOUR CONGRESS.

Stay Out of the Rain

By Nelson Harding

The storm wind setting from the east
Is blowing strong, to say the least,
And down the drenching deluge pours
As lightning gleams and thunder roars.

It is advisable to stay
Indoors on such a stormy day,
And those outside had best come in Before they're wet through to the skin.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Artist's Sweetheart

I know that you have made me live
Upon the canvas there;
Although, perforce, your brush must give
More beauty than my share;
But in your eyes—ah, well I know
You saw me full of grace.
And that is why you limned me so.
Fair form and ardent face.

Another artist might have said:
"She lacks this hue, that line.
With too much pride she lifts her head.
Her hands are far from fine."

But you have glimpsed within the clay
What others cannot see,
A spirit shining as the day,
The inner self of me;
And you have painted what I seem
To love's transforming sight;
Not just a woman, but a dream
Of all things pure and bright!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 2.—Out of the cataclysmic downshoot, there flowers a sudden passion for "The Things New York Forgets." The art museums, zoos and private galleries, as well as the Museum of Natural History, are more crowded than ever.

Most of the visitors are metropolitans, or are from the surrounding suburbs. The Bronx zoo, as well as the Central Park zoos, once were almost desolated during the winter. Now there is a daily stream of people. And at the Aquarium, the other afternoon, there were at least 200.

One lady, with closely docked hair, was sketching fish to show, for a magazine, that some of the best-known profiles are ichthyic. The resemblance between President Roosevelt and a sunfish was striking. The similarity of Floyd Gibbons to another specimen was just as pronounced.

To me, there always has been something stimulating in a visit to the Natural History Museum—a pleasant groping for answers to questions that man does not understand. And, although most people come away baffled, they are a little more humble, a little more tolerant.

In salvaging Christmas greetings which I wanted to save, I came upon what, to my notion, was the cleverest. It was in an envelope of the "World Wide Clipping Bureau, Bombay, India," and inside was a clipping. Under a heading: "Annoyed at Cable Service," it read: "Burma, Ind., Dec. 20—(By special cable) Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Woodyard, who broke the record for bagging big game in this territory, were annoyed to find the government cable out of order upon their arrival. They were especially anxious to send Christmas greetings to their friends; Mr. and Mrs. O. O. McIntyre, in the States.—Calcutta Spokesman-Review." The canard had been mailed from Spencer, W. Va., where the Woodyards spent the whole winter. Only the post-mark was the giveaway.

Many New York hotels are making no effort to collect back payments from patrons, until things get better. No keyholes are being plugged, either. The proprietors have decided to gamble on the honesty of old, established customers.

During one of the bleakest times of an almost chronic hard-up period in Manhattan, I was faced with the possibility of eviction. In bucking the blizzard, I went to the proprietor—and there's no reason for hiding it, he was J. Wade McGrath, then owner of the Hargrave—and revealed my acute financial embarrassment. I was told to forget it. Not once in a several months' stretch did I feel unwelcome. He did not lose a penny, and I am convinced that humanity, in the mass, averages a similar honesty.

In a traffic slow-up, approaching a bridge crossing to Brooklyn, the other evening, I looked down on the serene domesticity of a barge. There were snug quarters astern, with a frisky fox terrier dashing about. In a clean kitchen, a neat-handed housewife, in saxe-blue apron, bent over copper dishes—and there was the fragrant tang of frying ham. A shirt-sleeved husband tilted near the kitchen door, smoking a corn cob and reading an evening paper. There was, by contrast, something horrible about contemplating one of those fussy afternoon teas for which we were bound.

A group of loafers, across the room, are wise-cracking about a certain Broadway actor, whose wife supports him. And I'm crouched, waiting to let go a roller coaster scream when some nit-wit chirps the inevitable: 'Living by the sweat of his frau."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You're bored, you say. Everything's dull. Can't afford to go anywhere. If you could only Do Something Different!

But you CAN "do something different."

YOU CAN TAKE PART IN THE MOST EXCITING SHOW THAT HAS EVER BEEN PULLED OFF IN HUMAN HISTORY!

All around you, your world is falling to pieces. No power on earth can put those pieces together again into the picture you once knew. For this isn't just a temporary muddle caused by someone's miscalculation; it's a wholesale smash-up of the whole social order caused by new conditions, which have come to stay.

How much do you know about that smash-up? How much have you thought about those new conditions?

Bored, you say. Longing for some excitement. Wish you could do Something Different.

THEN GET BUSY AND DO SOMETHING DIFFERENT! GET BUSY AND THINK!

Think about your world. What's going to happen to your world? What sort of a world will it be 10 years, even five years, from now?

Will we still have the same form of marriage which we have now?

Remember, marriage forms change with our social and religious attitudes, with our economic adjustments. In 1883 an American husband could will away his wife's unborn child. Today women have "equal rights;" have jobs and votes. Thousands of working wives are supporting unemployed husbands. Wives, in some states, pay alimony. What will that do to marriage? What will that do to divorce?

Will we come to regard divorce as a purely personal problem; allow couples to separate at the desire of either party, but increase their responsibility toward their children?

Will children become actually the wards of the state?

(Do you realize that, in theory, your child is NOW the ward of the state? Do you realize that the state has rights, superior to yours, over your child NOW?)

Will babies shortly be cared for in community nurseries by highly trained specialists?

Will there cease to be that tragic thing, "an illegitimate child?"

Will "home" become a mere set of sleeping quarters, with all other family activities served by outside agencies, and the family kitchen and dining room cease to exist, along with the family nursery?

(Does the idea shock you? Stop and think how much the home has already changed since your mother's youth. How much of YOUR family life centers in YOUR home today? How much CAN center there?)

Then, as to work—with housework dwindling to the vanishing point; with Big Business taking over grandma's chores—what will happen to wives?

Will all wives be expected to work outside the home?

Will working hours grow less and less, until all labor is done by a few enormous machines which displace hundreds of thousands of workers?

And what about the millions of other workers who can't be fitted into the machine program? Will they live on a dole?

"Send them out to the wide open spaces—"

(But suppose they don't want to go. Country life, to most city dwellers, means torturing boredom. Must they be COMPELLED to leave the bright lights? And if they're compelled, what becomes of democracy?)

Will democracy cease? Will we be forced to accept a dictator? Will—

But why go on? The questions are endless. And these questions are not a let's-suppose parlor game. They are REAL problems which you and the rest of your world are facing NOW, whether you like it or not. While you complain of boredom, your world is exploding like a Roman candle!

HOW MUCH LONGER CAN YOU KEEP YOUR EYES CLOSED TO THE FIREWORKS?

Homes and Mortgages: Jobs and Public Works

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Mr. Roosevelt announces that the summer White House will be at the family home at Hyde Park. With but one exception, I think, he will be the first President since James Buchanan to relax in the hot months in a real home atmosphere. Theodore Roosevelt sought summer relaxation from official labors at his home at Oyster Bay.

All the other Presidents, since Buchanan, have gone into strange quarters, although during the Civil War Lincoln could not get more remote from the White House than the modest old mansion on the hill at the Soldiers' Home, a few miles then from the capital.

In the early days, the Presidents followed the plan of the two Roosevelts and went home, but most of these lived in the country. Washington rested at Mt. Vernon. Adams at Quincy, in the rambling frame house still occupied by the family. Jefferson sought every opportunity to rest at Monticello, and Madison at Montpelier—both mansions still standing and still beautiful. Jackson, for the sake of the restful home atmosphere, braved the hardships of travel, despite his years and frailty, to live among the neighbors at the Hermitage. Happy is the President who has a home that can serve as a summer place during his administration.

Prate About Peace, But Still Sell Arms

There is war, real war, however much sophistry may seek to find another name for it, in the Orient. China has withdrawn her minister from Tokio and Japan has withdrawn her representative from the assembly of the league. An ultimatum has been served by the league and ignored, and the Japanese armies are pressing forward. The government at Washington has expressed its approval of the league's conclusions while reserving its right to independent action.

Unquestionably Japan has violated treaties.

Meanwhile Britain is suggesting an arms embargo against Japan, and many will wonder, in view of the league covenant, why it is not enforced. It must seem both stupid and insincere to the man in the street to find nations protesting against the war activities of another nation while furnishing it with arms to continue the struggle—for profit.

Inability to Pay Not Moral Turpitude

Of more immediate interest, however, is the conference in Albany of Gov. Lehman and the representatives of insurance companies and savings banks in reference to mortgages they hold on homes and farms. Some time ago when action was being taken in many states to hold the owner of a mortgaged farm on his place and at work, we suggested that the plan would have to be extended to home owners generally. This was the purpose of the conference.

Of course, the home and farm owner does not want to lose his property.

The holder of the mortgage certainly does not want to take it over. He wants the money loaned and not the home and farm.

Because of the abnormal conditions of the depression, the inability to lift or make the payments on the mortgage implies no possible turpitude.

The man without a job who wants to work and is denied is entitled to all possible consideration, and the farmer whose products sell at a price below the cost of production cannot possibly make the money either for the mortgage or the taxes.

Leniency Needed During Slump

The leadership assumed by Gov. Lehman in New York in the formulation of a policy does infinite credit to him both as a business man and a humanitarian. It is an easy thing to say that the insurance companies and the savings banks are hard in insisting on payments on the loans they made to home owners and farmers—but not a sensible thing to say. It is not their money that was loaned, but the money of their policy holders and their depositors. It is their solemn duty to protect these against sacrifice.

All that can be asked is that the mortgagors in a sympathetic spirit, with a consciousness that they are dealing with a crisis and not with a culprit, extend all possible leniency.

Lehman Fitted For Noble Job

And that apparently was the spirit Gov. Lehman found in these representatives of the mortgage holders. Their own statement speaks for itself:

"We give you every assurance of our determination to proceed with the utmost forbearance in the solution of each and every individual case in which any fair-minded person could claim to be entitled to any degree of forbearance."

And to this they add a conclusion which does credit, not only to their humanity, but to their business sense, when they say:

"It is to the interest of the lenders, both on humane and business consideration, to keep wherever possible, the home owner in the home, and the farmer on his farm."

No mediator better suited to the task than Gov. Lehman could have been found, for he is a combination of qualities much too rare—a humanitarian who is a realist in business.

Public Work To Aid the Idle

Probably it will be a long pull out of the depression, and, while much has been done to increase credit facilities, nothing remotely adequate has yet been undertaken to increase employment—on which everything depends. Senator Wagner tells us what has been done:

"Credit facilities are ample, but they are not performing their function of financing employment. The supply of currency is sufficient to satisfy all our needs, but it is not circulating. There is much work to be done, but investment and enterprise are still dormant."

And the answer to it all is that there is no trade.

There is no proper foreign trade because of artificial barriers raised against it throughout the world.

And no profitable trade in America, because millions of the jobless have no purchasing power at all. Just how private industry, without an increase in purchasing power among the people, can increase its working forces without some impetus is difficult to see. And Senator Wagner sees the impetus that might help. Thus:

"Public construction of necessary and useful projects which will serve the public welfare afford the only readily available means of stopping the self-strangulation which is paralyzing business."

That is the reason he favors the large scale expansion of public construction, urged two years ago by Mr. Hearst, which has been advocated consistently in these columns.

Senate Bank Inquiry

The testimony being given before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency is startling. It confirms in a measure suspicions that have been widely current—perhaps too widely—and vague reports that have long been in circulation, as to the enlargements of banking function and the innovations in banking practice which came with the "new era."

The effect of the disclosures, however, should not be disturbing to the country, but on the contrary reassuring. The substitution of a proved and limited fact for an unproved and all-embracing rumor is a gain for confidence.

It is better to know what is, than to be fearful of what may be.

There is no such thing as confidence if the justification for it is absent.

And one element, and a very vital one, in public confidence in our financial institutions is that irregularity shall always be subject to pitiless exposure. Correction cannot proceed without that as a preliminary.

For this reason it must be clear to everyone that the Senate's action extending the life of its committee now investigating the New York Stock Exchange and banking practice in general is enlightened and patriotic.

Any suggestion of abridging the investigation would have been intolerable. It would have implied that men who might be unworthy of confidence must nevertheless be protected in the enjoyment of that confidence, even if wholly misplaced. Nothing could have been more unsettling to confidence.

The Senate did well to reject the unsound persuasions with which it was plied to relax the energy of its investigation and to confine its scope. These were not the counsels of wisdom nor of true concern for the public interest.

Mr. Mitchell's bank is not alone in the interweaving of its transactions with those of an affiliated investment company.

Nor perhaps are the institutional banks the gravest offenders in the matter of irregular or high handed practices.

Wherever banking power is centered, with its far-reaching ability to affect for good or ill the fate of individual undertakings and the interests of the people as a whole—THERE the investigation should point.

The work of the Senate sub-committee and its capable counsel has already borne fruit for righteousness.

The assurance that it will be permitted to continue its useful labors is welcome. The investigation must be as broad as the indicated conditions demand or suggest.
